

but- VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY

MILWAUKEE — A play-by-play description of the sixth game of the world series follows:

FIRST INNING
New York: The lights were turned on at the start of the game.

Carey swung at Spain's first pitch and lifted a fly to Pafko in left center.

McDougald sent a soft liner to Mathews, hitting a 3-2 pitch. Bauer hit a home run deep into the left field bleachers, about 360 feet away. It was Bauer's fourth homer of this series and seventh in total series competition.

Bauer's four home runs in a series tied a record held jointly by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider.

Schoendienst fumbled Mantle's grounder for an error.

Howard forced Mantle, Logan to Schoendienst.

MILWAUKEE: Schoendienst singled past Kubek into left field.

Logan laid down a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate and was tossed out. Berra to McDougald, covering first.

Art Ditmar, a righthander, started warming up for the Yankees.

Mathews was called out on strikes. It was his 10th strike-out of the series, tying a record held by Bill Abstein of Pittsburgh in 1909 and George Kelly of the Giants in 1921.

It was Aaron's first run-batted in of the series.

Adcock forced Aaron, Kubek to McDougald.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

New York: Spahn tossed out Berra. Skowron was safe on Logan's error of his grounder near second base. Kubek struck out, swinging at a low breaking pitch that almost hit the dirt.

Ford forced Skowron at second, Logan to Schoendienst.

MILWAUKEE: Crandall struck out. Covington singled on a liner to centre that umpire John Flaherty ruled was trapped by Mantle. Casey Stengel emerged from the dugout to argue that Mantle had caught the ball but was overruled.

Pafko dropped a single in short right. Covington racing to third. Spahn lined a single to centre, scoring Covington, Pafko stopping at second.

Schoendienst walked, on five pitches, filling the bases. Art Ditmar, a righthander, replaced Ford.

Logan flied to Howard in short left and Howard's throw to Berra at the plate doubled up Pafko, trying to score after the catch.

One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

THIRD INNING

New York: Carey flied to Pafko in right centre. McDougald grounded out, Logan to Adcock. Bauer was safe when Logan fumbled his grounder. It was the shortstop's second error. Mantle forced Bauer, Mathews to Schoendienst.

No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

MILWAUKEE: Mathews grounded out, Skowron to Ditmar, covering first. Aaron beat out a bunt to the left of the mound and reached second when Ditmar's throw hit Aaron on the shoulder and rolled to the boxes behind first base. Aaron collided with Skowron and was sent sprawling but he scrambled to his feet and took the extra base on the error. McDougald bobbled Adcock's sharp grounder but recovered in time to throw him out as Aaron advanced to third. Crandall went down swinging.

FOURTH INNING

New York: Howard flied to Pafko. Berra singled to right. It was his 59th hit, breaking a record he held with Frankie Frisch. Skowron flied to Aaron. Spahn tossed out Kubek.

MILWAUKEE: McDougald threw out Covington. Pafko popped to McDougald behind second base. Spahn struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

New York: Schoendienst tossed out Ditmar. Carey flied to Aaron. McDougald lined a single over Mathews' head. Bauer fouled to Crandall to the right of home plate.

MILWAUKEE: Schoendienst rapped a double to the left field corner. Logan dropped a sacrifice bunt to the right of the mound and was out. Skowron to McDougald covering first. Schoendienst reached third. Mathews popped to Skowron. Schoendienst holding third. Carey made a nice pickup of Aaron's rounder to his left and threw him out.

SIXTH INNING

New York: Billy Bruton went to centrefield for Braves. Mantle lined a single over Logan's glove. Howard lined a single to centre and Mantle continued to third when Bruton fumbled the ball for an error. It was Howard's first hit in 13 official times at bat. Berra flied to Bruton, Mantle scoring the tying run on the sacrifice as Howard held first. Skowron walked on a full count. Enos Slaughter went in to bat for Kubek and bounced out. Schoendienst to Adcock, the runners advancing. Jerry Lumpe went in for Ditmar and struck out.

One run, two hits, one error, two left. The run is earned.

MILWAUKEE: Attendance was 46,367.

Duren went in to pitch for the Yankees, and Lumpe took over at shortstop. Adcock and Crandall were called out on strikes. Covington bounced single through the right side of the diamond. Bruton went down swinging. The Braves batters appeared to be having trouble seeing the ball as Duren took advantage of darkening clouds by firing mostly fast balls.

SEVENTH INNING

Spahn fell fielding Bauer's trickler to the right of the mound and Bauer was credited with an infield single.

Mathews stopped Mantle's hard grounder and threw to Schoendienst, forcing Bauer at second.

MILWAUKEE: Spahn struck out for Duren's fourth strikeout. Schoendienst lined to Howard. Logan also lined to Howard.

No runs, not hits, no errors, none left.

GREEN THUMB THIEF TAKES TREES, SHRUBS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman told police here Tuesday that thieves took the following from her home:

Two grapefruit trees, one orange tree, one pepper plant, one strawberry plant, three cactus plants and two small shrubs—one of which was planted in the ashes of her daughter-in-law.

GP Most Important Element

KELOWNA, B.C. (CD) — The most important element in the medical profession is the general practitioner, Dr. Arthur Kelly of Toronto, general secretary for the Canadian Medical Association, said Tuesday.

Dr. Kelly said it is a mistake on the part of the public to assume that the general practitioner is a "passing phase" of medicine.

"On the contrary, more than two-thirds of Canada's doctors are general practitioners and they now are, as always the shock troops of the profession."

1/2 AWAKE NIGHTS 1/2 ASLEEP DAYS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and headache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you haven't that sprightly step of health in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

PILOT SEALED IN 9X3 GONDOLA

Balloon Ride Into Space

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — A year-old jet pilot, was sealed into the gondola of the balloon again Tuesday night after a launching attempt Tuesday failed. A ground wind whipped the 3,000,000-cubic-foot balloon as it was being filled with gas. It finally was destroyed.

With a new bag, McClure hopes to ride up about 20 miles and stay there 24 hours while a panel of scientists questions him about the things he observes.

The panelists are experts in the fields of space medicine, physiology, meteorology, astronomy, space psychology and psychiatry, geophysics, aerial photography, radiation, sky brightness and space capsule design.

McClure, after taking a physical checkup Tuesday night, squeezed back into the nine-by-three-foot aluminum capsule to get used to its artificial atmosphere.

Dr. Kelly said it is a mistake on the part of the public to assume that the general practitioner is a "passing phase" of medicine.

"On the contrary, more than two-thirds of Canada's doctors are general practitioners and they now are, as always the shock troops of the profession."

NEW STUDIES LINK CANCER TO SMOKING

TORONTO (CP)—The National Cancer Institute of Canada reported Tuesday 16 distinct studies show lung cancer occurs from five to 15 times more frequently among smokers than non-smokers.

Moreover, the institute said in summing up the first Canadian study of its kind, the risk of lung cancer increases with the amount smoked.

Similarly, the risk decreases when you quit smoking.

Bonner Against Compulsory Breath Tests

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today stated he personally is against the compulsory use of scientific tests to measure drunkenness.

"I doubt such legislation would be introduced in B.C." he added.

Mr. Bonner made the statement after Stewart McMorran, Vancouver city prosecutor, said he would ask for legislation providing for the tests.

A suspected drunk or impaired driver would be required to take the test or forfeit his driver's licence.

The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday upheld Saskatchewan legislation making the test mandatory.

At present in B.C. drivers can refuse breath tests and readings may be used in court only as corroborative evidence.

The Supreme Court's ruling means that a province can pass legislation that says, in effect, willingness to submit to a breath test is a condition for holding a driver's licence.

Mr. Justice Fauteux said a licence holder is in a position, under legislation like Saskatchewan's, similar to that of a person "suspected of physical or mental affliction likely to prevent the exercise of reasonable care and ordinary control over a motor vehicle."

As a condition for granting such a person a licence, the provincial regulations could require him to submit to an appropriate examination.

New, Complete B.C. History Due Nov. 19

The first comprehensive history to be published about British Columbia in 43 years is due to roll off the presses next month.

The new history, which has been compiled over the last two years by Dr. Margaret Ormsby, a native B.C. writer and historian, is expected to be released on Douglas Day—Nov. 19.

Dr. Ormsby was commissioned by the B.C. Centennial Committee to turn out the history. Centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace says it is expected sales will rival those of the B.C. Anthology, published this year.

First edition of the anthology, a collection of best B.C. writings of the past 100 years, was swept from book stores by the public.

A second edition now is available.

Pt. Alberni Logger Dies After Mishap

FORT ALBERNI (CP)—Kenneth Joseph Gauthier, 24, of Port Alberni, injured in a logging accident at the Sproat Lake division of MacMillan and Bloedel Limited Tuesday, died Tuesday night at West Coast General Hospital.

RCMP here said Gauthier had been run over by a truck, but other details of the accident were not available.

The dead man is survived by a widow and two children.

An inquest will be held, but the date is not yet fixed, according to RCMP.

IRAQ'S STRONG MAN SMASHES TROOP REVOLT

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Premier Abdel Kerim Kassem, the Iraq strong man, has smashed a revolt by soldiers supporting his chief rival, Col. Abdel Salam Aref, it was reported Tuesday.

A regiment was disarmed. Aref himself was placed under house arrest, reliable informants said.

Pakistan Under Martial Law

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution in the face of revolution rumors. Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation belongs to both the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Mirza, a 59-year-old former major-general, took over Tuesday with strong criticism of politicians who have led Pakistan. The president outlawed political parties.

He named Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan, commander-in-chief of the Pakistani army, as chief martial law administrator and placed all armed forces under him. No disturbances were reported as troops took station in government offices and at key installations. Crowds cheered the soldiers in some places.

The Escalator

THE BOARD OF TRANSPORT Commissioners says it has the legal right to rule immediately on the railways' application for a freight increase of 19 per cent, or $60 millions annually, to cover increased railway wages.

The Board may well have such power in law. But that is not the real question raised by the eight protesting provincial governments. What justification has the Board for its present position in sound economics and common sense? None that we can think of.

The railways recently conducted a wage argument with their employees but were unable to reach an agreement.

Instead of settling that dispute, if necessary by facing a strike, and presumably binding arbitration as in former disputes, the railways asked the Board of Transport Commissioners to give them a huge rate increase in case they had to pay more wages.

That is to say, they handed a wage dispute over to the Board which was never intended or empowered to settle such a question. And the Board seems to have accepted that responsibility without question.

In this unprecedented departure the Board actually sets itself up as a wage-fixing, as well as a rate-fixing authority.

It is saying in effect to the railways that if they choose to pay higher wages then they will be compensated—in advance—for their extra costs. Once they have that assurance, not only in the present dispute but in future disputes, the railways will not be encouraged to resist still higher wage demands.

It is true, of course, that the railways cannot escape their mounting fiscal problems simply by raising freight rates, for a law of diminishing returns already has begun to operate.

As railway rates increase, traffic is driven to competitive services like trucks, airplanes and, in Eastern Canada, to ships.

The railway industry throughout America is in desperate straits. But this problem cannot be solved and may well be worsened by a kind of automatic rate escalator managed by the Board of Transport Commissioners acting—far outside the intentions of Parliament—as a wage referee and approving in advance the wage scales proposed by the railways.

Mr. C. W. Brazier, counsel for British Columbia, rightly says that the question is whether the Board "is going to approve a wage increase sought by railway employees." Apparently it is.

Since the Board was never intended to perform such a function, the British Columbia Government refuses to take any further part in the present rate argument. This withdrawal may ease the Provincial Government's natural anger but it will not help the railway users—that is, every family in the province which must use goods carried, at some point, by rail.

The cost of all those goods will be raised by the impending rate increase.

Where Are the Facts?

IN HIS DAWSON CREEK SPEECH last week Premier Bennett made the definite statement that work on the proposed huge Wenner-Gren development would be under way in 1960.

The people of British Columbia would like to know on what basis he makes so specific a statement.

Actual development was to await the outcome of surveys to be completed at the end of this year.

Last week the final reports of the surveys had not been submitted to the Government. Has Mr. Bennett information of a specific nature on those studies? If he has, will he, or when will he, tell the people of British Columbia what they disclose?

That is information which the people of this province, facing the alienation of about one-tenth of their land area, are entitled to know.

The people of northern B.C. have been told a new era of prosperity is dawning for them with the projected hydro development. The premier says he still awaits word of pulp mill plans—at a time, incidentally, when the world has an over-supply of pulp and paper and mills are operating at 80 per cent of capacity in British Columbia. He also waits for detail on the widely-publicized monorail line that was to provide transport in the Rocky Mountain Trench.

Without solid information on these matters, what assurance is there of this new era of prosperity? And how are the principals progressing with the large financing plans for such undertakings?

There is a certain looseness to the discussion of the project. The surveys which were originally to cost Wenner-Gren interests $5,000,000 now run from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in the premier's words.

The position of Mr. Wenner-Gren himself has not been cleared to the entire satisfaction of many British Columbians who remember him as an individual persona non grata to many countries during the war years. They do not forget his familiarity with enemy countries and the action taken by allies declining to do business with him, including Britain, the U.S.A. and Canada.

And hard-headed British Columbians continue to ask what any such development is going to cost this province. Are there monopolies involved in the 40,000 square miles of territory concerned? If there are, what terms are to be established for them?

The people of British Columbia have listened to the oratory of Mr. Bennett on a triumphal PGE tour. They have every right to ask for solid facts to substantiate the rhetoric.

Italy Fights Illiteracy

ITALY, ONCE THE FONT OF classical knowledge, had 5,500,000 illiterates in 1951. Since that date the number who can neither read nor write has risen by 30,000 each year. It is officially conceded that 13,500,000 of the present 50,000,000 population now are illiterate or semi-illiterate.

That is the appalling situation which has spurred the Fanfani government to draft a $2 billion 10-year education plan.

No one at present seems to know where the money will come from for the construction of schools, the recruitment of teachers and extension of education from kindergarten to university, from technical school to adult classes for peasants. And no one doubts that the plan will be approved by the Parliament.

Present schools—though the constitution offers free elementary education for every child between six and 14—can meet only 41.9 per cent of the national demand.

And the social and economic damage to the nation from its educational famine is heightened by the fact that 65 per cent of the young people who manage to get some schooling leave to enter the labor market with no skill of any kind.

The Fanfani government faces many difficult problems. It is on sound ground in giving first priority to education. Only as it beats back the mounting illiteracy will Italy achieve the basic tool to perform the other tasks before it.

Who's Driving This Car?

ELECTRONICS AND AUTOMOTIVE research may bring new safety to potentially the most dangerous fixture in any car—the nut behind the wheel.

Reports on prospective developments describe a device which enables the ignition to "recognize" an incompetent drunk and to automatically prevent the engine from starting.

Other developments of the future, it is suggested, will include electronic installations which will cause cars to veer away from approaching vehicles and thus avert collisions.

Ultimately there is the possibility of a "driverless" car, which proceeds safely down the highway carrying its passengers where they wish to go—all this by means of scientific gadgets that do the job currently entrusted to the driver.

There appear to be one or two drawbacks to the prospect. Already certain cars employ electronic equipment for such duties as tilting headlights beams, and as some operators have had the embarrassing occasion to note, the electronic device can go out of kilter and refuse to tilt the beam.

Conceivably more intricate mechanism could do the same thing. Then, of course, there is the danger that such a car, so nearly human in operation, might become tired of waiting for an owner tarrying too long in the club, and go home without him.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

By B. A. TOBIN

Grow It With Music

A NEWS item from New Delhi, where they charm snakes with music from home-made clarinets, says that a noted Indian botanist is experimenting with the effect of music on plants. It seems that just as the exciting notes of the music lure the cobra from its basket and encourage it to stand up higher and higher, so do certain melodies act on plants to make them grow taller and bear more blossoms. That's what Dr. T. C. N. Singh says, anyway.

Tobin

For eight years he's been experimenting. Now he puts loudspeakers in his fields of peas, rice, coffee and other crops. Even marigolds, asters, petunias and other flowers respond to music, he says, growing faster and stronger than those without a few tunes to speed them on their way.

Of course, the Doctor has a scientific explanation for it all. He says the sound vibrations stir up the nuclei inside the cells of the plants and stimulate them to get on with their business at a higher speed.

Fast or Slow

But if that's the case, then the type of music should have some effect too. A slow, dreamy waltz wouldn't stir up those nuclei as much as a few hot licks of bop, a stirring march, you'd think, would set them all working like crazy, while rock and roll would probably kill them dead.

Obviously, a lot of judgment will have to be used in the fields if the best results are to be obtained. Exposing corn to corn might have far-reaching effects, unless it went in one ear and out the other.

Imagine the New York Philharmonic performing in a field of cabbages—would the great green leaves lift to the maestro's baton? Would a few thunderous selections from Wagner each day double an orchard's yield?

Would a field of grain swing and sway with Sammy Kaye? Would watermelons respond to the Waters of Minnetonka? Would a dog-tooth violet give its best to Hounddog?

Try It for Size

These are questions not answered by the New Delhi news dispatch. No doubt further research must be done before the truth can be known.

But in the meantime, it would be interesting to take a few scientific measurements in our own locality. It would be valuable, for instance, to measure carefully a few choice plants at Butchart's Gardens before and after the Victoria Symphony Orchestra has appeared there.

Do the waterlilies in the Italian pool

show any marked growth after the harmonies of Mr. Gruber's men have floated over them? Do the gracious lawns, recuperating from the weight of tons of Victorian anatomy, indicate by increased growth that they have benefited from the visit of the strings or the woodwinds?

For the moment these must remain academic questions. But next summer arrangements should be made to gauge the effects of music on our local flora. If the flowers and shrubs show that they are completely oblivious to the music, then obviously such a treat is much too good for them and the concerts should be shifted to some less verdant location such as the brickyards—no, wait, that might be too dangerous.

Meat Too?

Now the most important thing that comes to mind regarding the New Delhi experiments is this: If musical vibrations stir the cell walls and nuclei of plants, cannot they do the same thing for the cell walls and nuclei of animals? Wouldn't the fauna, too, be stimulated to grow bigger faster?

Would "Love Me Tender," for instance, have an appropriate effect on a herd of steers? Would "The Old Oaken Bucket" persuade a cow to break a few dairy records? Would "Asleep in the Deep," piped into the Straits, make the Adams River run a bumper one every year?

Obviously, there is much research still to be done. But even before that is completed, we might go the further step and project the beneficial effects of music on humming beings themselves.

The generous proportions of many vocalists might well be ascribed to their constant exposure to music. The operatic lady whose swoon in Act I brings down the curtain and all the props with it, the tenor whose demise in Act III sends earthquake insurance rates soaring throughout the neighborhood of the theatre—these obviously show the growth effects of vibrations on their nuclei.

Political Growth

Could we but find the right notes, the proper harmonies, would it be possible to act upon our legislators, say, and transform them into plump, jolly fellows who from sheer good nature inherent in their corpulent state would lower all our taxes, raise all our pensions and joyfully guarantee us carefree, happy lives?

Could little, unhappy women be made tall and stately? Could short, scrawny men, by listening to some magic flute, put on inches of height and pounds of brawn?

At least it's worth a try. Let all such prospective patients put on their earmuffs, turn on the radio and take the full treatment. Let those nuclei shake, rattle and roll.

A LITTLE SURPRISE HAPPENED IN MY ROOM.

From Our Files

OCT. 8, 1898 — Two Indians who were trolling off Macaulay Point yesterday quarreled and scuffled in the canoe, which capsized, drowning one of the men. The other was rescued by police and locked up.

OCT. 8, 1918 — Washington: President Wilson today informed the German government that before the United States government can discuss an armistice German troops must withdraw from all invaded territory.

Artist and Critics

May I request space in your columns to reply to certain unpleasant criticism of my work that appeared in your paper on Monday, October 6?

I should like to say first that I am sorry if my lecture seemed incomprehensible to some of my listeners. I did my best in your beautiful but difficult English language. Over the years I have had to learn a number of languages since leaving my native land. I suppose this has resulted in an accent that may be hard to understand, especially if one has not considerable experience in listening to a variety of accents.

As for the "criticisms," of my work, I must beg to reject their value. I have made enquiries here in Victoria and I have searched my memory to recall the names of those who voiced the criticisms. I have heard of none of the critics—and I believe I have heard of most of the valid artists who are living today. Strangely enough, neither can I find that they enjoy reputations even here in Victoria.

As for attempting to argue what is surrealistic art, I can only repeat that it seems to me to exist chiefly in the minds of those who produce this "art," and in the minds of those who pretend to see something significant in the effort. I do not say that the artist must not experiment, that he must be bound by the chains of the past. But his experiments should be valid as art, they should not ask for credit for what they are not. Most surrealistic painting does not speak to me as art and I am a serious artist.

I have seen some of the work done here by my critics. I must, with regret, repeat what I said to your reporter. To me it is house painting or, perhaps better, barn painting.

My own reputation has been assayed widely by true critics of art. I am content to rest my case on their opinions. These opinions have appeared in the English language in the Art News and Art Digest, among other publications. The art critic of the Vancouver Province, who seemed to understand art, held an opinion quite different from the Victoria "Group of Seven." In any case, I have a good deal more confidence in the people of Victoria than I have in their self-appointed guardian angels in the field of painting. I am content that my work speaks to them for itself.

May I close by saying how sorry I am that so unpleasant an episode should have spoiled in part my visit to your beautiful city of Victoria. I want to come back to Victoria some day, to paint what I see here, of so much beauty. In the meantime, may I suggest that my critics go out, as you say in English, and get themselves reputations. When they have reputations, I will be glad to debate art with them, in Victoria, in Mexico City or anywhere else.

ANDRES SALGO.

601 Trutch Street.

An Essential Lacking?

I would like to add a personal postscript to the letter (written by a group of Victorians) concerning Mr. Salgo's painting.

It seems that he took it to refer to the style or subject-matter of his work. This is not the case. Quite obviously, the approach an artist takes to his subject is his own business—be it abstract or realistic, to take extremes, it can be valid if tackled with a certain amount of seriousness and sincerity. But there must be a certain elementary knowledge of the principles of painting—of drawing—without which a painter is not a painter but an amateur.

This principle of sound technical foundation applies to most fields of human endeavor—from dressmaking to house-painting—and art is no exception. What is more it is measurable and not subject to whim or fancy.

This technical foundation is absent from Mr. Salgo's work and no amount of sincerity will overcome this handicap.

R. M. CICCIMARRA.

Why Stop the Show?

I was amazed to read in your paper that an "official protest" had been sent to the Mexican Consulate in Vancouver regarding the work of artist Andres Salgo. The letter states that "the people of Victoria have a right to feel surprised, etc. —"

Unavoidable circumstances have up to the present time prevented my viewing the exhibition, but what right has any small group, however expert they may be, to speak for me, or judge my likes or dislikes?

I am well acquainted with the work of six of the seven self-appointed critics, and as a layman with more than a passing interest in art, I like very much the work of some of them, but the others I neither understand nor care to view.

That does not mean that when their pictures are exhibited at a gallery I call upon the City Council to stop the show.

In the Massacre Phase?

A STERN resolve to get away from the Far East, not only physically but also at the typewriter, has abruptly melted away. It has melted in the heat generated by the current public talk of worthy persons who have never seen China, know no Chinese leaders, and would rather take a physis than read Chinese history. From this talk you might suppose that Chiang Kai-shek's remaining fragment of China is a cesspool, ruled by an aging tyrant who hankers to entangle the United States in a great war by a foolhardy reinvasion of the mainland.

Yet by any practical test, Chiang's Formosa is considerably more respectable than Nehru's India, to cite the most obvious and most loudly admired example.

The lot of the common man is immeasurably better. The country is immensely more prosperous. The educational and welfare systems are infinitely more extensive. The government is substantially less corrupt. Only the unearthly Indian self-righteousness is lacking.

No Intention

In addition, Chiang Kai-shek's old talk about "reinvading the mainland" has about as much present meaning as John Foster Dulles' old talk about "liberation." Chiang has no more intention of attempting a serious "reinvansion" of the mainland than Secretary Dulles has an intention to attempt the "liberation" of Hungary.

But it is probably useless to make these points, in view of the strange, enduring power of the superstitions about Chiang, whether pro or anti. It is more important, in any case, to try to be a little more realistic about the Chinese Communist mainland.

Here the essential fact to note is fairly simple. In brief, Communist China is now entering the hideous and blood-stained phase that the Soviet Union entered when Stalin launched his massacres of the peasantry. The reason is the same. The Chinese Communist rulers, like Stalin before them, have learned that they cannot finance their forced industrialization without brutally depressing the standard of life.

But although the reason is the same the circumstances in China are vastly more grim. The standard of life that has to be depressed is very much lower. The pool of untapped resources is very much smaller. The goods and commodities available for export are very much fewer.

AGE AND HAPPINESS

The happiest old people are those with a number of different interests, concerned more with the present than with the past. Through these activities they can avoid the loneliness which so many old people dread and which is so bad for them. The coming years hold forth great promise to those who are ageing if they take advantage of the benefits for creative living now becoming available to them.

—Dr. Trevor H. Howell, Director of a British Geriatrics Research Unit.

SCIENTIFIC JOY

The true scientist is also a philosopher, a lover of wisdom for its own sake; and happy as he will be, as a human being, when his discoveries lead to other people's welfare, he gets his greatest joy as a scientist from something else: from confirming his faith in the consistency of nature, from finding out why things work as they do.

—Professor A. V. Hill, F.R.S.

In every way, the Chinese problem is incomparably more difficult than Stalin's was, except that limited Soviet credits are available—which have to be repaid with interest.

The greater difficulty of the Chinese problem is easy to gauge if you compare Stalin's collective farm system with the new system of "People's Communes" which the Chinese Communist leaders are now ruthlessly imposing on the tolling peasantry.

The scheme for the collective farms at least had some outer trappings of humane Western thought. The scheme of the communes is frankly intended to transform the whole countryside of China into a series of vast slave farms of a character without any modern parallel.

Probable Horrors

The probable horrors of this new phase in China go beyond the bounds of normal imagination. Secrecy, plus idiotic sentimentality about "this great Chinese experiment," will no doubt conceal the full extent of the horrors for a long while, as happened in the Russian case. But if Stalin massacred 20,000,000—as he did—it is a reasonable forecast that the Communist massacres will pass a hundred million human beings.

The question remains whether the Chinese people will suffer and submit as the Russian people suffered and submitted. At the risk of an unusual accusation of over-optimism, this reporter would venture the opinion that they will not suffer and submit. They are more vital, more intelligent than the Russians.

Their history shows that they are somewhat like camels—capable of bearing enormous burdens but also capable of sudden, unshakable, unmanageable resistance when the burdens grow unbearable. Both China's previous revolutionary dynasties lasted less than a generation, precisely because they imposed unbearable burdens.

Internal Pressures

Mao Tse-tung must have the memory of the fate of these predecessors of his very much on his mind. One way to relieve China's internal pressures, diminish the need for massacres and ease the situation generally is to add the resources of China's rich neighbors to the southward to China's own inadequate resources.

And in these circumstances it is unwise to ignore the possibility that the attack on the offshore islands is the first, tentative venture of a much more ambitious scheme of conquest.

Struggle for Food

NEW YORK—With world attention focused on the international power struggle, another struggle for survival is often overlooked. This is the struggle to feed the exploding population of the world.

Last week, almost unnoticed, the annual report of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization came out and it shows that last year world food production dropped, ending the long production build-up which has gone on through the post-war years.

Thus, with the population of the world shooting up, with the majority of the world's people hungry, total food production is beginning to drop. The drop was mainly caused in the surplus-ridden producing countries of the West. Crop failures were also a factor.

The FAO report reminds the world statesmen once again of the grim paradox which has plagued them ever since the UN was founded — the problem of poverty and plenty, the problem of the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer.

Many people at the UN think that in a very few years time, this may be a far more serious problem than the present contest between Russia and the United States. In fact some people believe that, as Russia moves into the upper income brackets, she'll move and more find that her interests coincide with those of the United States rather than those of the "pore folks" of Africa and Asia.

But the "pore folks" are getting tired of being "pore" and you see this in speech after speech in the General Assembly. While the Western world is concerned with the struggle against Communism, the speeches of the Afro-Asians and Latin Americans, who make up the majority in the UN, stress economic development. In fact the West's struggle against Communism looks to many of them as a fight to maintain a privileged position.

Police Dogs Feared

LONDON—What is the police's strongest weapon in dealing with the toughs who are inciting these race riots we are experiencing at the moment? Truncheons? Tear gas? Fisticuffs? Firearms?

It's none of those. The answer is the police dog. The Teddy-boys are scared skinny of the dogs and they'll break up rioters and keep the peace faster than anything.

I learned this from talking to policemen on duty in the trouble spots. Their worry is that in coping with the toughs they're at a disadvantage.

They know these irresponsible young characters of old (the layabouts, as they call them) and they know that if rough stuff starts it is they (the police) who are likely to suffer.

The louts go at the cops and the dignity of British law enforcement decrees that they can't give them a bit of their own medicine. They can only restrain them and take them into custody.

Taking what the Teddy-boys hand out as they try to arrest them, the police have to resist the temptation to give them something that would really quieten them down — a thorough hiding.

The "Teds" know that all that can happen to them when they get into court is to be fined a few pounds or, rarely, be given a short prison sentence. They can find the

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

'Cold House' Can Be Useful in Winter

An unheated greenhouse (or a cold house, as it is in garden terms) may readily be converted from a winter liability to an asset with a few tips and a little ingenuity.

A sturdy bench 30-36 inches high should be erected, and on it may grow all kinds of early flowering bulbs in pots, not necessarily the forcing types, but varieties which do well outdoors.

With the protection of the greenhouse from winds, heavy rains, and the severest frost, these bulbs will open unmarred by the elements.

Clear glass is essential to allow every ray of sunlight to enter, and ventilation on all but nights is just as necessary.

Winter aconites (Eranthis hyemalis) is best grown in a low, flat pan. Unless the tiny corms are dug and replanted before becoming dry, the results will be better the second year than the first. The wide open bright yellow buttercup flowers with a green ruff may open by Christmas Day once the plants are established.

Certain species crocuses will commence flowering in January.

Calgary's Civic Gov't To Be Probed

EDMONTON (CP) — An investigator will be appointed within the next day or two to inquire into Calgary's city government, Premier Manning, who also is attorney-general, said Tuesday.

Calgary city council passed a resolution calling on the attorney-general to establish machinery for an investigation into the running of city affairs. The move was an offshoot of a dramatic session September 18 which censured Mayor Don Mackay for borrowing city cement.

The resolution was passed under a section of the city act which provides that the city may request an inquiry and that the attorney-general may appoint a judge or some other person to make the inquiry.

Russia Warns Canada On U.S. Rocket Bases

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said today the installation of American rocket bases on Canadian territory would place Canada in a highly dangerous position, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Red Star said Canada intends to allow the United States to station nuclear weapons in Canada in connection with the "so-called command of North American Air Defence (NORAD)."

By agreeing to the NORAD setup, Red Star continued, the Canadian government "is about to take a step which will, as a result, increase her dependence on the Pentagon"—the U.S. military establishment.

"Official persons," the paper

continued, "try to represent NORAD as a purely defensive organization, although it is no secret for anybody that it has been set up with obviously aggressive aims directed against the Soviet Union."

It added: "Facts show that there are in Canada political and military figures who are led by Washington and, who provide active help to the U.S.A. in the matter of the aggressive North Atlantic bloc."

Saanich Guilty Says Subdivider

Municipality Rejected Offers of Land For Playlots in Other House Projects

A subdivider struck back today at an accusation by Saanich Councillor Stanley Murphy that failure of land developers to provide tot lots amounts to "almost criminal" negligence.

Coun. Murphy made the statement Tuesday night at a parks committee meeting that heard a petition from Glanford Community Association requesting a playground in the Glanford area.

"If there is any means by which a subdivider can be forced to provide tot lots, it should be done," said Coun. Murphy.

He added that an association request for park development of four acres in the area would increase the value of nearby lots.

The acreage, priced at $6,000, is held by Douglas Hawkes who developed the Willowdene subdivision in the Glanford area.

"I agree with Coun. Murphy,"

FULTON PLAN

Bonner Backs Press Curb At Hearings

A proposal to curtail news reporting of preliminary hearings in Canadian courts won initial support Tuesday from Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton is said to be considering a ban against publication of admissions, statements or confessions of an accused at a preliminary hearing.

Mr. Bonner pointed out such material is often non-admissible at a higher court. A juror, with prior information gathered from the press, could be prejudiced.

"The question should be carefully and cautiously considered," He felt such restriction would not curtail liberty of speech or reporting, but would lead to more objective treatment of cases reaching higher courts.

Edgelow Fires Back In Fight Over Signs

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Tuesday blasted back at Public Works Minister W. N. Chant's suggestion that the public would be misinformed by refusal to permit the Capital Improvement District Commission to erect permanent signs on its projects in the city.

Ald. Edgelow opposed the request for signs at a public works committee last week. Mr. Chant said Monday that CIDC should be given credit for its work so that the public would not be misinformed.

MISLEADING
"If the signs were allowed, precisely the reverse would happen," Ald. Edgelow said today. "The signs would be misleading."

He said the public would not know where the CIDC projects began or ended and would credit the whole of a project,

Mr. Hawkes replied today. "But he's hitting the wrong guy."

Saanich was guilty of the "crime of failing to provide tot lots," he said. "I offered tot lots to Saanich for development as tot lots in the other subdivisions but the municipality turned them down."

"I was so aroused by that action that I converted the money from the sale of those two lots to provide back yard play equipment for most of the lots I sold in Glanford gardens."

He said Coun. Murphy suggested that park development of the four acres would "give me some gain" by increasing the value of the lots.

ALL SOLD

"Actually, I've sold all my lots in that subdivision so I couldn't possibly gain anything if a park was established."

Mr. Hawkes said the accusations placed him in a difficult position in regard to the four acres.

"I have to decide whether I'm going to sacrifice my own face or the needs of those people," he said.

"I've already held that property open for six months in case it was needed for a park. I could have sold it for $9,000 as lots."

"Now I have to decide whether to keep holding it to sell for $6,000 as a park area, in which case people would still accuse me of being a dirty dog, or sell it for $9,000 as lots to prove to them I had been willing to give up $3,000 for the good of the community."

"If I do the second, there will be no park."

Edward Cunningham, president of the Glanford Association, told the committee there will be 600 teenagers in the area in a few years with no place to play.

Municipal engineer Neville Life was instructed by the committee to investigate the situation and report back.

NEW ASSISTANT chief forester for B.C. government forestry branch is Lorne F. Swannell, at present district forester at Kamloops. He takes over in mid-November. Post was vacated by R. G. McKee who is now deputy minister. Mr. Swannell, 50, has been with the forest service since 1925.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called upon all Canadians to work toward the expansion of world trade.

PM Urges Drive To Get More World Trade

In a nationally televised speech Monday night he said the opportunity now exists to re-establish Canadian export trade on a sound and profitable basis.

But the big decisions as to whether this would be done would be made "partly by labor and partly by management, because labor constitutes the largest single group of Canadians and management under the enterprise system has a position of special responsibility for the proper functioning of that system."

Every Canadian must first consider the welfare of all Canadians. The government would continue to give leadership in its areas of responsibility for development of the country's resources and trade.

"To a very great extent, labor and management can accomplish it together, but they can never do it apart. It will take patience, forbearance and even perhaps some sacrifices on both sides."

FOREST SERVICE P.R.O. NAMED

Promotion of Tegan C. Jones, 28, to post of public relations officer, education division of the B.C. Forest service was announced Tuesday. Mr. Jones succeeds David Monk, now director public information for the forest service.

Mr. Jones has been schools lecturer with the forest service for five years, travelling through the province to address an estimated 150,000 students of all ages. A member of Victoria City Rowing Club, he is married and lives at 489 Davida.

JOHN E. COLES

Take your family out to dinner in October, suggests John E. Coles, President of the Canadian Restaurant Association. Restaurants in Victoria agree wholeheartedly with the president's suggestion. They have joined with restaurants throughout Canada in focusing attention on National Restaurant Month during October.

Victorians are fortunate in having such a diversified field of restaurants from which to choose... traditional tea and crumpets, the finest roasts, Oriental delicacies, European favorites and good plain Canadian food can be found in the Greater Victoria restaurants, and Victorians are assured always of quality foods served under the most sanitary conditions, as the Canadian Restaurant Association members are fully aware of the high standard of ethics and qualifications required for membership.

In October, or any month, it is a good habit to dine out regularly in Greater Victoria restaurants. This is the confirmed consensus of opinion of restaurateurs and hundreds of Victorians who already have the habit.

Across the length and breadth of Canada, another bountiful harvest has been reaped, and Autumn in all its beauty has descended on the countryside. Truly it is a time of Thanksgiving. And what could be more typical of Thanksgiving than roast turkey and cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie and crisp juicy apples.

From coast to coast your local IGA Store brings you all of these mouth-watering foods, and many, many more, all at low money-saving prices.

Emergency Field Cleared on Peak

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—A new emergency landing strip for light aircraft near the summit of the Hope-Princeton Highway has been completed by 22 volunteer private pilots.

DOCTORS TOLD:

Political Pressures Big Danger

KELOWNA (CP)—A warning that doctors and surgeons must be on their guard against patients who may use political pressures to gain admission or longer stays in government health service hospitals, was made today by Dr. Arthur F. Vanwart of Fredericton, president of the Canadian Medical Association.

Dr. Vanwart addressed 200 physicians here on the opening day of the four-day convention of the B.C. division, CMA.

"It is advisable that doctors in the local hospitals now begin to study the admission and discharge problem in the light of their government hospital service plan," he said.

"Governments gladly welcome organization by local doctors to grapple with this problem. If we do not, then they (governments) will."

"Citizens will make political pressures for admission and longer stays in hospital—a new pressure we must be cognizant of in our thinking," he said.

Elaborating on his reference to political pressure Dr. Vanwart said that, for example, a hospital patient could ask doctors to prolong his stay for two or three days of government-paid recovery.

That would create over-utilization," he said.

Alderman Doubts Hall Completed By November 5

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A finishing date for this city's municipal hall has been set by the contractors for Nov. 5, but Ald. Norman Odgers told a council meeting here the architects were not able to promise it would be ready by then.

"I don't think it will," said Mr. Odgers.

Another Year For City Man—Concurrently

A Victoria man sentenced in Nanaimo to two years in jail on false pretences charges was sentenced Monday in police court here to another year.

According to evidence, Roy Greenwood Priestly, no fixed address, used a worthless cheque in a city shop to buy a radio worth $53.95. The Victoria sentence will be served concurrently with the other.

T. P. O'Grady, prosecutor, told the court Priestly had a record dating back to 1926.

Magistrate 'Cools Off', Sentence Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Magistrate Oscar Orr was so incensed by the brutality of a robber who came before him Tuesday he deferred imposition of sentence until he had "cooled down."

"I sometimes think that in medieval times they had the right idea with torture and the rack for young fellows that would do this sort of thing to that poor, old inoffensive Chinaman," he told Donald McLeod, 20, after McLeod pleaded guilty to robbing Chan Yung Kong, 72.

Chan, a bent and wizened junk collector, was savagely beaten in an alley here Sept. 18.

"This is a case for corporal punishment," Magistrate Orr said.

"The events detailed in this case make me see so red that I can only say to myself, 'you had better not pass sentence until you cool down.'"

A statement by McLeod, read in court, described how he and another man "beat the aged Chinese, then stripped him of most of his clothing while the victim murmured, 'No money, no money.'"

Chan was taken to hospital with severe injuries, but recovered. Only a small amount of money was stolen, the robbers missing a larger amount which Chan had hidden in a sock.

"This is a case for corporal punishment," Magistrate Orr said.

The strip, 2,400 feet long and 150 feet wide, was hewn out of brush timber by the work party during the weekend. It is along the route of the principal flyway for light planes to and from the interior of the province.

WOMAN KILLED
WILLIAMS LAKE—A woman was killed Monday night when a car driven by her husband plunged off the Cariboo Road and down a 50-foot embankment.

Victim of the crash was Mrs. Rose Solmes, 35, of Marguerite, about 30 miles north of here.

Her husband, Roy Solmes, was shaken up in the accident.

CHARGES LAID

TRAIL—Two brothers and a cousin were arraigned late Tuesday before City Magistrate Parker Williams and charged with murdering 35-year-old Clarence Douglas Garrett of Castlegar.

Accused were John Popoff, 27; his brother, Larry Popoff, 25; and cousin, Harry Popoff, 19.

They were ordered remanded in custody to await preliminary hearing. They are to be flown to Oakalla today and will appear for a further remand before a Burnaby magistrate on Oct. 15.

FATAL ACCIDENT

PENTICTON—An elderly woman was killed late Tuesday when a car driven by her husband plunged over a 25-foot embankment near here.

Police said Mrs. Mary Oliver Goulding, 76, of Ladner, B.C., was killed as it partially overturned. Her husband, Thomas, was driving when the accident occurred.

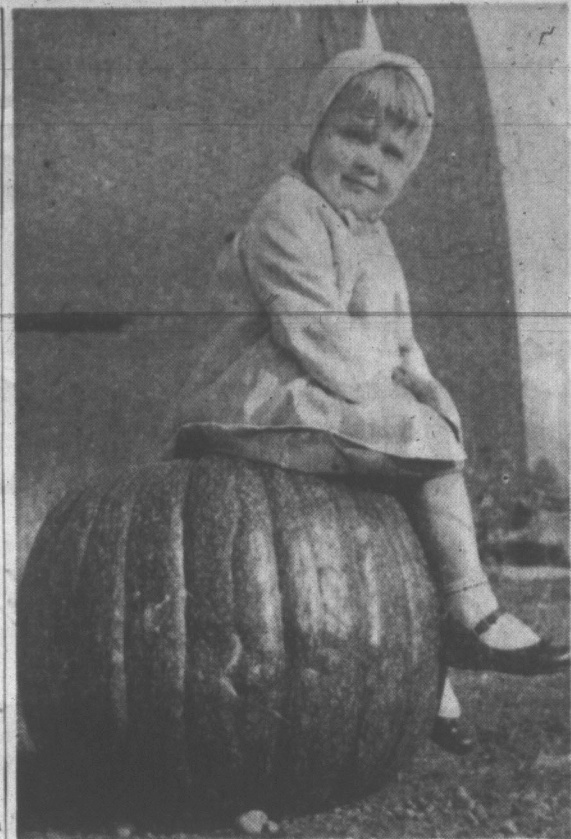

FALL CONGREGATION

VANCOUVER—Three prominent Canadians will receive honorary doctor of law degrees at the University of British Columbia's 32nd fall congregation Oct. 24.

The university said Tuesday they are: Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East; Mrs. Rex Eaton of North Vancouver, B.C., president of the Canadian National Council of Women, and Professor John H. Williams, a graduate of UBC in 1928 and now director of the research division of the American Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, D.C.

NAMED PICKED

VANCOUVER—Aldermen gave final approval Tuesday to the name, Royal Elizabeth Theatre, for Vancouver's $4,000,000 civic auditorium. Civic officials hope the building, still to be completed, will be opened by Queen Elizabeth during her 1959 tour.

GIANT 74½-pound pumpkin grown by Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of Lake Cowichan was only one of several in Thompson garden to survive vandalism, apparently because it was too big to be carried away. Grown without artificial fertilizer or extra watering during summer, it makes fine perch for their daughter, Cecelia. (Times Photo.)

'DESERVING OF PUBLIC THANKS'

Five-Ton Cake Idea Lauded by Archivist

NANAIMO (CP)—George Molecey, Nanaimo Centennial Committee chairman, has received a pat on the back from Major J. S. Matthews, Vancouver city archivist, for Nanaimo's five-ton Centennial cake—"the world's biggest cake."

Major Matthews wrote Nanaimo city council commenting: "How it would have been possible to have conceived a centennial effort which could have spread the name of Nanaimo further afield across the seas I do not know."

'PUBLIC THANKS'

"To me it seems the best thing of its kind I have heard of for a long time, and I think your centennial committee and especially Mr. George Molecey, are deserving of public thanks." Council received and filed the letter without comment.

Major Matthews said he had sent 20 samples to the British Isles and "letters I have received in reply are really remarkable. Lord Derby, Lord Granville, Lady Tweedsmuir, Sir Gerald Burrard . . . all have something nice to say."

BB Hits Boy in Eye But Sight Retained

Norman Stewart, 14, of Nanaimo, struck in the eye Saturday by a BB pellet fired from an air rifle, will retain the use of the eye, according to his doctor here.

He will suffer some impairment, however, the doctor said. After being hurt at play, he was taken to Nanaimo General Hospital, then to St. Joseph's Hospital here. He is the son of Mrs. Norman Stewart, 335 Third Street, Nanaimo.

FORECAST FOR ALBERNIS

25,000 by 1976 For Twin Cities

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—This city and Alberni can expect a combined total population of almost 25,000 by 1976, an industrial-economic survey submitted to city council here said Tuesday.

The report, prepared by Dr. Lyle G. Trorrey and Lloyd Gray, suggested an early amalgamation of the two centres and pointed out that taxation differentials now keeping them apart were only temporary.

More future industrial development was predicted for Alberni "due to land availability." The report took 17 months to compile.

Population forecasts put the combined city totals at a minimum of 23,456 and a maximum of 25,045 in the next 18 years, with Alberni's minimum at 7,606 and Port Alberni's at 15,850.

ONE-SEVENTH
The report predicted the Albernis would be producing 600,000 tons or more than one-seventh, of the province's 4,600,000 tons of pulp and paper.

Manufacturing industries would be producing $109,964,967 worth of goods for shipment by 1967, with 4,150 persons employed in the industries.

The report recommended set-

'After-Effects' of Curling Classic Still Lingerin

By ERNIE FEDORUK

"... As soon as the Braves wrap up the world series, Charlie, turn off the television set and grab your broom, ..."

"It's time to start tossing a few rocks."

And from a quick and early glance, it would appear that more Victoria and District sportsmen than ever before will be "tossing rocks" this year.

More than 300 rinks, making up at least 12 leagues, are ready to slide granite on the Victoria Curling Club's eight sheets of ice.

Much of the increased interest may well be attributed to the successful staging of the Canadian curling championships at Memorial Arena last spring. The Brier always seems to stimulate curling wherever it is staged, and the Victoria event appears to be having the usual effect.

Old leagues are expanding, new ones are coming in.

The season gets under way, officially, this Saturday with an "open house" in the Quadra Street club.

The honor of starting the ice activity will go to civil servants, who start sliding and sweeping Saturday morning with full draws at 8 a.m., 10 and noon. The Civil Service League boasts 48 rinks.

Club manager Bill Oliver has already logged ice time for 10 leagues in addition to the regular men's and ladies' club draws.

Expansion is noted in Navy and Sunday Commercial leagues. The Sunday curlers hope to field 48 rinks in order to fill up three complete draws while the sailors are expecting at least 32 rinks. The Navy curlers also curl Sundays but they may play during the week.

Some of the new faces will belong to members of the Canadian Legion, ready to toss 16 rinks into action, and the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry. In addition to those already mentioned, other leagues to operate this season are B.C. Electric, Wednesday Commercial, Seniors, High School and Afternoon Ladies.

The two service colleges—HMCS Venture and Royal Roads—and Victoria College have also asked for ice time. When you add them all up, it's easy to see that the Quadra rink will be a going concern.

Although there are a few openings left for rinks wishing to participate in club or commercial leagues, most of the favorable ice times have been taken. However, it still is possible for other leagues to obtain ice, especially during mid-week mornings.

A novelty mixed bonspiel, open to anyone wishing to enter, will highlight the first week's play. Rinks entering the 'spiel, however, are required to include at least one lady curler in the foursome. Regular club play will commence Oct. 20.

President of the curling club this season is Charlie Hodgson, a former president of the Chilliwack club. He succeeded popular Ernie Gordon, who this year has been named chairman of the publicity committee.

Four new directors have been elected to office. They are vice-president Glen Walkey, Ralph Schmidt, Don Fisher, W. (Bill) Purdy and G. W. Thomson. Other directors are Gerry Walls, Morley MacDonald, Gordon Moore, Gar Taylor and Laura Foster. Icebreaker Tony Gutoski, who last skipped a Victoria rink to the B.C. championship for the first time, commenced ice making Monday.

The cool shotmaker this season will skip the same rink that represented the province in the Brier playdowns. Gary Liebel and Dale Dalziel, the two teenagers who proved to be such a hit in the Dominion playoffs, will be back with Gutoski, along with third Bill Dunstan.

HACK WEIGHT: Caplano Winter Club's mixed bonspiel opened today, ... the Totem Bonspiel is again being held in Vancouver this year in conjunction with the Grey Cup game ... rinks wishing to enter should make arrangements immediately ... the Commercial League's annual rockfest will be held Dec. 26-30 ... Island zone (men's) playdowns will be held in Victoria Jan. 17 and 18.

'ALWAYS THERE'

Spahn Takes Stock

By OSCAR FRALEY

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The "arm" with a man attached to it went out in an attempt to hurl World Series history today, admitting that no matter how many times you work in the classic "it's always more than just another ball game."

That's Warren Spahn's description both of himself and the annual post-season baseball classic.

"Lots of times I feel that I'm just an arm with me attached to it," he mused when he got the word that he would ace the New York Yankees today in a game in which he could help Milwaukee Braves to their second straight world championship.

FEELS HUMBLE

"That thought has made me feel pretty humble at times," he added. "And you can really feel small when you walk out there in the world series. I don't care what anybody says. You can't ever put this in the category of 'just another ball game'."

Despite his veteran status after pitching in the 1948 and 1957 series and in winning two games this time, Spahn admits that he never can shake the pressing thought that "this is the world series."

"You feel it when you come in the park, while you're dressing up or sitting on the bench between innings," he asserted. "It's always there, even if you push it into the back of your mind while you're pitching."

AT HIS AGE . . .

Spahn went to the post with only two days of rest, a frightful risk for a man who, despite his record of being a 20-game winner for nine seasons, has to be going down the other side of the baseball hill at the age of 37.

He hasn't pitched with such a slight recuperative period since August of 1955—an era when his whip was three years younger. That time he bested the Cardinals twice, breezing to a 12 to 1 win the first time with eight hits but scraping through 5 to 3 with 10 hits the second time.

BIG TOP OPENS

NHL Curtain Going Up

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers start the National Hockey League's 1958-59 season tonight. The Hawks are already facing trouble.

The game will be in Chicago and the Hawks will be up against their old nemesis—Ranger goal-tender Gump Worsley. Rangers beat the Hawks for three years running on Chicago ice with Worsley in the nets until a defeat was finally hung on him late last season.

It was the home-ice disasters that accounted for Chicago's dismal record against the Blueshirts last year. Rangers, who finished second to Montreal Canadiens in the league race, won nine of their 14 games with the Hawks, lost four and tied one.

Hawks managed to squeeze out of the league cellar last year at the expense of Toronto Maple Leafs, but how they'll make out in this 42nd NHL season is anybody's guess. Half their 18-man roster is made up of newcomers, including two former Rangers, Danny Lewicki and Jack Evans.

They've also picked up centre Tod Sloan from Toronto and defenceman Dollard St. Laurent from Canadiens.

Rangers, too, are a bit of a mystery. Their force, includes five rookies.

Missing is Dave Creighton, now a Leaf. Coach Toe Blake of the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens reassured in Montreal Tuesday night that Rangers will have cause to lament Creighton's departure.

The Chicago game is the only one scheduled for tonight. Boston Bruins are at Montreal Thursday. A six-game weekend will see Detroit Red Wings at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto and the Rangers at Boston Saturday. The Sunday lineup has Montreal at Boston, Toronto at Chicago and New York at Detroit.

'CAN YOU DO IT AGAIN?'

Poking good-natured fun at Elmer Hoffman (left), Morley MacDonald suggests fancy curling tie had something to do with Elmer's rink scoring perfect end last season. Eight-ender won cash award of $100 from The Daily Times. MacDonald is president of Commercial League. City rock-tossers officially launch new season at Quadra Street club Saturday.

Young Legs Key to Stamps' Hopes for Shot at WHL Title

CALGARY (CP)—This is the year of rookies for the Western Hockey League Calgary Stampede.

Some of the old faces are around for the 1958-59 season but there is a definite youth movement under way that may give coach Gus Kyle the sustaining punch that could lift Stamps to the league championships.

Then again, it may take another year for the rebuilding to finally take form, some hockey observers say.

Kyle himself is more than pleased with the co-operation he is getting from the parent Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. A big part of that has come in the name of 21-year-old Roy Edwards, goaltender for last year's world champion Whitby Dunlops.

"Greatest bunch of legs I've ever seen on a Calgary team," Kyle said in commenting on the youngsters in training camp and on Edwards, the sensation of the Hawk camp at St. Catharines, Ont., where he posted a 110-minute shut out streak against the likes of Toronto Maple Leafs, New York Rangers and the American Hockey League Cleveland Barons.

Edwards will attempt to fill the skates of Al Rollins, veteran NHL netminder who was a mainstay with last year's Stamps, who went to the league finals against Vancouver Canucks before being dumped in four straight games. Rollins had contract difficulties and wasn't signed this season.

THE NEWCOMERS

Among the newcomers are defenceman Don Ward, from Buffalo Bisons of the AHL, Dino Robazza, 21, from St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Junior Association, and Aut Erickson, 21, from Prince Albert Minors of the Saskatchewan Junior League.

Rookie forwards include Ron Leopold, high scorer with the Okanagan Senior League's Kamloops Chiefs last year, Fred Hiltz, a junior star with LaCombe Rockets and Edmonton Oil Kings of the Central Alberta League, and Johnny McKenzie, a Nanton, Alta., native who won the scoring title with Teepees last year.

While Kyle believes youth is an essential element in a championship hockey club, he hasn't dispensed with a strong carryover of last season's top players.

Centre Sid Finney, who last year rapped in 45 goals and collected 43 assists in 58 games as Calgary's most prolific point-getter, is back.

BLAIR BROTHERS

Also with the club are the Blair brothers, Dusty and Chuck, and Fred Hucul, who was runner-up to Finney with 18 goals and 40 assists last year. Off-season trades have brought Eddie Dorohoy and Bruce Lea to Stampede.

Fans like to think Stamps have three of the best centres in the WHL with Finney, Dorohoy and Dusty Blair, the 30-year-old who fired 11 goals in 1957 to go with his brother's 25.

MANAGING IS METRO'S 'BEST BET'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Charlie Metro, manager of the Vancouver Mounties baseball team of the Pacific Coast League, said Tuesday he has turned down three offers from major league clubs.

The jobs offered were as a coach. "I'm going to stay managing," he said. "I'm happy in that position and it's my best bet. I don't want to go to the big leagues as a coach."

Cards Still Dealing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night traded pitcher Billy Muffett, catcher Hobie Landrith and utility infielder Ben Valenzuela to San Francisco for pitchers Ernie Broglio and Marv Grissom.

The trade, second multi-player deal engineered by the fifth-place Cardinals since Solly Hemus was named manager last week, brings a promising rookie and a 40-year-old veteran to strengthen a wobbly St. Louis mound corps.

The three players going to the Giants, especially Muffett, failed to live up to Cardinal expectations in 1958.

RELIEF ACE

The 23-year-old Broglio won 17 and lost four this year in Triple-A competition. The six-foot-two righthander won eight and lost one for Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League and then won nine and lost three with Toronto of the International League.

Broglio had an ERA of 3.00 in the International League. Grissom appeared in 51 games with the Giants this season, all in relief, winning seven and losing five. He had an ERA of 4.02.

McLean Meets Bill Wakeham For Club Title

Former Canadian junior champion Bill Wakeham and Doug McLean will clash over the 36-hole route for the Uplands Golf Club championship Sunday.

Wakeham marched into the final by clipping Gordon Pellow, 2 and 1, and McLean ousted Al Reside, 3 and 2, in the other semifinal match.

Flight finals will be over 18 holes.

U.S. Pentathlon Squad Victorious

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—A United States team captured the five-nation modern pentathlon tournament Tuesday by winning the fifth and last event, the cross-country race. The U.S. emerged the strong favorite to take the forthcoming world championship at Aldershot, England.

The Americans topped the teams standings with a total of 14,563 points, followed by Switzerland with 14,146.

HOLYOKE, Mass.—Johnny Sexton, 151½, Brooklyn, outpointed Barry Allison, 148, Springfield, Mass., 10.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Yama Bahama, 153, Bahama, knocked out Jesse Bogart, 156, Monterey, Mexico, 10.

Goaltenders Facing Another Rough Trip

Western Hockey League goaltenders appear headed for another rugged season.

As the nine clubs shooting for league honors ease up their pre-season training chores, 15 of last season's 20 leading scorers are set for another campaign. And the addition of several sharp-shooting rookies to the ranks makes it likely that netminders will again be facing a collection of super snipers.

Last winter, the goalies were beaten for a total of 1,924 goals and they start a new season Friday with the knowledge that 10 of the 14 forwards who collected 30 or more goals are back for another tour.

And all three members of the 1957-58 40-goal club—Ray Kinasewich of Edmonton Flyers, Sid Finney of Calgary Stampede and Jackie McLeod of Saskatoon Quakers—are ready for another hitch. Of only slight consolation to the puck-stoppers is the fact that McLeod and Kinasewich will have to work with new centres after taking passes from two of the league's best.

TWO OF THE BEST

League scoring champion Guyle Fielder of Seattle Totems made the plays for Kinasewich and McLeod flanked Vancouver's play-making ace Phil Maloney.

Spokane Spokes, who make their WHL debut against Seattle Saturday, have received three front-liners from Montreal Canadiens who could move into the top bracket of league snipers.

Manager Roy McBride is particularly high on winger Allan Johnson, who played five games with Canadians last season, and Bev Bell, former Seattle player, who performed with Johnson for Shawinigan Falls in the Quebec Hockey League. McBride also has hopes that Claude "Vest Pocket Rocket" Richard,

A TALK ON GOLF

Jones Holds Court

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Bobby Jones looked over St. Andrews course with a faraway look in his eyes and told a group of dedicated fans:

"These days, American golfers expect the ball to stop dead on the green even if they hit a poor shot."

Jones, non-playing captain of the American team at the first world amateur golf championship which got underway today, held court in the famous bay-windowed headquarters of the Royal and Ancient Club on the edge of the old course.

He spoke about the changes in the game since he dominated the sport more than a quarter of a century ago.

Jones said modern scores are lower than they were because of "better green-keeping, steel-shafted clubs and because people are bigger these days."

Jones is back in St.

BOOT BOSS GETS TOUGH; SUSPENDS TWO PLAYERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Soccer Commissioner has suspended two players and issued warnings to two others as a result of a disturbance during a game at Callister Park here Sept. 13.

For persistently arguing with referee Pat Brady, Art Hughes of Halecos was suspended for three games. Doug Greig of Halecos, who threw the ball in Brady's face after a foul was called against him, was suspended for two games.

Neil McEachnie of Halecos and Jim Logan of St. Andrews drew "severe reprimands" from the commission.

All four players were sent off the field by referee Brady.

'PERFECT TEAMWORK'

Spahn-Crandall, Admiration Inc.

MILWAUKEE AP—When 37-year-old Warren Spahn faced the New York Yankees in the sixth game of the world series today, you may be certain of one thing:

He didn't shake off his catcher. Del Crandall, a big, 28-year-old who spent two years watching ball games from the bullpen, was in his accustomed place behind the plate calling the pitches.

"And," says Spahn, "he will never get any arguments from me. He calls the game 100 per cent. He knows more about me as a pitcher than I do.

"I haven't questioned Del's judgment in years. He watches the hitters more closely than I do. He can see their every move, whether they are moving up, inching back and all that sort of thing. Many times it will determine how we pitch to them."

Spahn admitted that sometimes it looks as though he's shaking Crandall off, but that is really to throw the hitters off stride.

"Perfect teamwork," grinned Spahn. "He watches the hitters and I watch him."

Crandall credits Spahn with a fat chunk of his success. "Remember," said Del, "when I came up in 1949, I did very little catching. The club had Walker Cooper then and I spent most of my time watching the games."

"But Spahn kept asking for me every time he pitched. I don't think I started a single game that he didn't pitch. You can imagine what that did for my confidence."

A CROWE CAN GET HURT IF HE'S TALKING TURKEY

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—A fellow named Crowe who made like a turkey was shot by a hunting companion.

Donald R. Crowe, 22, was in fair condition in hospital Tuesday.

State Police said Crowe was hiding in brush imitating a turkey so as to attract gophers for Ivan L. Abe, 26, of Cumberland. Police said Abe fired at what he thought was a turkey. Turned out to be Crowe.

'Little General' Confident Pilot

EDMONTON (CP)—Tony Leswick has a youth movement going in the camp of Edmonton Flyers for the 1958-59 Western Hockey League season and as the schedule opening approaches, the little general figures he's better off than a year ago.

"I think we've got a better club than last year," Leswick said as he surveyed a lineup that includes five players over 25 years of age and only one more over 23.

Last year, in a 70-game season that saw Leswick leave Flyers midway and spend the last half of the year with the parent Detroit Red Wings of the National League, Leswick and manager Bud Polle took Flyers into a second-place finish, then saw the club bow to Calgary in the Prairie Division semi-final.

Leswick has seven rookies on hand—defenceman Dave Amadio, 19, and forwards Brian Smith, 20, and Murray Oliver, 20, from Hamilton Juniors; defenceman Lou Maroon, 21, and forward Warren Hynes, 23, from Cincinnati of the International League; forward Myron Stankiewicz, 22, from Indianapolis, and forward Ed Diachuk, 22, from Penticton V's.

LOOKS BETTER

"I think we've got a better crop of kids than last year," Leswick said, "but you can't really tell until the league play gets going."

Flyers have eight men back from last year, including coach Leswick.

They included 22-year-old goalie Dennis Riggan and veteran defenceman Hugh Coffin, 29, and Bud McPherson, 31, along with 30-year-old Metro Prystai, who missed part of last season with a broken leg. Prystai's leg is still a question.

Other Flyer returnees are forwards Gerry Melnyk and Chuck Holmes, both veterans at 23, and defenceman Frank Roggeveen, another 22-year-old.

The outstanding new additions are centre Gene Achymichuk and winger Ray Kinasevich, 26 and 24 respectively. Achymichuk comes to Flyers through the Red Wings, who obtained him from Montreal Canadiens during the off-season. Kinasevich has been on loan for two seasons to Seattle and has been a 40-goal scorer both times out.

Among the rookie crop, Leswick looks to Oliver to produce the most. He was voted most valuable player in the Ontario Junior Loop last year.

Eskimos Peeved At Fans' Actions

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos president Cec Ross said Tuesday the football club "deplores" incidents involving a small group of fans who displayed some unsportsmanlike activities following last Saturday's Western Football Conference game here.

Game officials were mobbed by a group of 15 to 20 persons following Eskimos' 21-15 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers when a penalty to Esks wiped out a last-minute touchdown.

Officials involved said Tuesday they have sent a full report on the matter to commissioner Sydney Halter in Winnipeg, and if any action is to be taken it will be up to the commissioner.

Don McCannel and Sid Bercov of Edmonton, Paul Dojack of Regina, George Cullen of Vancouver and Les Ferguson of Calgary were the officials involved.

They were struck and kicked by fans as they left the stadium and an estimated $75 damage was caused to McCannel's car by the fans who kicked in a front door while the five men sat in the car.

No complaint has been laid with city police.

Hill Climbing In Western Scoring Race

Halfback Jack Hill of Saskatchewan Roughriders continues to pull slowly away from the field in the individual scoring race in the Western Football Conference.

A nine-point performance during the weekend put Hill 16 points ahead of runner-up Charlie Shepard of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who managed only one touchdown in two games.

Hill now leads the pack with 78 points on nine touchdowns and 24 converts.

Place-kicking end Joe Mobra of Edmonton Eskimos moved back into third place as he hit for a touchdown, two converts and a single in Esks' lone weekend encounter.

AT ST. ANDREWS

Jack Sets Pace In Amateur Event

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Reid Jack of Scotland fired an even par 72 today to take the first-round lead in the inaugural world amateur golf championship.

Doug Bajus of Vancouver was the first of the four Canadians to finish. He posted a 79.

Jack, British amateur champion in 1957, seized a two-stroke edge over Charlie Coe, U.S. amateur champion, and Bob Charles of New Zealand. They were tied at 74.

The 114 players from 29 countries started in muggy weather. But a strong 30 to 35-mile-an-hour wind whipped in from the sea to hamper play.

Jack shot steady golf in turning in a 36-36-72 card over the Old Course at St. Andrews.

Joe Carr, current British amateur champion and favorite for the individual low score, had a 41-38-79. He lost his ball on the fifth and took a seven. He three-putted twice on the return nine.

The amateurs are competing for the Eisenhower Trophy, to be given to the country with the best aggregate score for the four-day, 72-hole medal play competition. The best three scores of each country are tallied at the end of each day.

Bajus was out in 38 and back in 41. He three-putted six holes. The Canadian team burned up the course in practice action.

John Blair of Winnipeg, non-playing captain of the Canadian team, placed second in the "delegates and duffers" cup competition over the Eden course at St. Andrews.

Seymour Marvin of Brazil was first with a net score of 139. Blair had 145.

Bajus came in with a 69, the lowest score in practice rounds.

Rugby Fixture Moved Ahead

Officials of the Victoria Rugby Union announced today that a game between Victoria College and PPCL, originally scheduled for Saturday, has been set ahead to Thursday.

The contest will be played at Carnarvon Park, starting at 4 p.m.

Three games will be played Saturday with Oak Bay Whites meeting Royal Roads at Windsor Park, JBAA playing Venture at Macdonald Park, and Victoria College facing Oak Bay Reds at Carnarvon Park. All Saturday games start at 2.30.

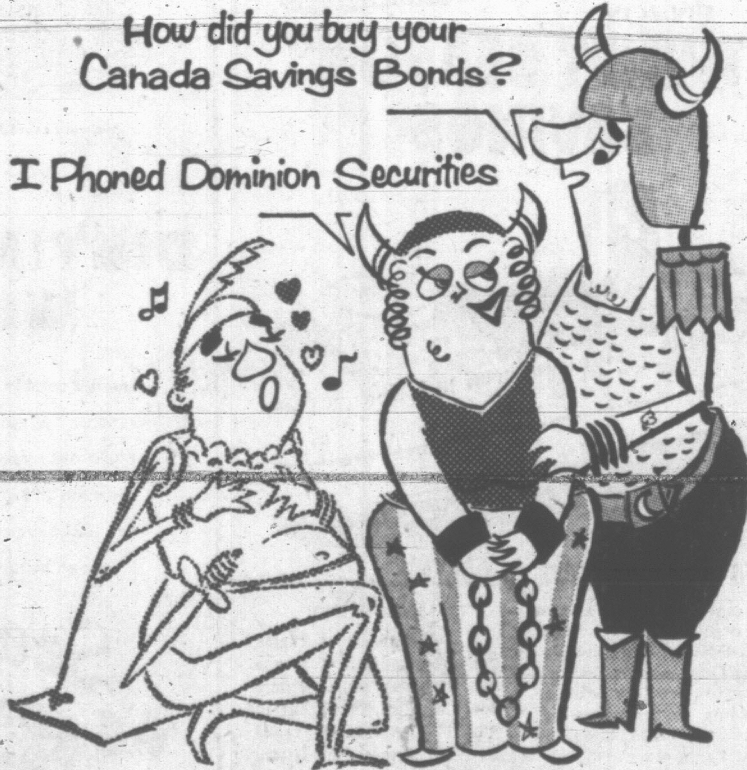

FOLLOWING THE CURLERS

Saturday's draw in the Civil Service Curling League:

8 a.m.—Gerrie vs. Clancy; Passmore vs. D. McLeod; Douglas vs. H. Davis; Tivy vs. Mass; Coughlin vs. Purdy; Dickens vs. Dyarr; Fraser vs. Gilbart; MacDonald vs. Pick.

10 a.m.—Kidd vs. King; McCulloch vs. Penman; Shinton vs. Stuart; Westaway vs. Lavoe; Spink vs. Millin; Wickes vs. MacDonald; Austin vs. Sharpe; Lejeune vs. Olew.

12 noon—Martin vs. Edgewood; Simons vs. Ashby; R. Davis vs. Grey; Terison vs. Bremner; Fisher vs. Penhough; Fox vs. Moore; A. MacLeod vs. Allison; Hughes vs. Woodward.

A. E. GRAUER

Define Duties of Unions by Law

MONTREAL (CP) — Duties and responsibilities of union leaders should be defined by law, A. E. Grauer of Vancouver suggested Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Grauer, president and chairman of British Columbia Power Corporation Limited, spoke in a symposium on freedom.

"The development of freedom," he said, "is directly associated with the ability of scientific, professional, business and occupational groups to rise above their limitations."

"Nowhere is this dilemma more clearly pointed up than in the field of trade unionism."

"The struggling 'friendly associations' were early given the warranted helping hand of special status in the law because of their relative weakness and the socially-desirable nature of the improvements they were trying to achieve for their members."

"These trade unions historically achieved wonderful things but they now have become powerful organizations capable also of great harm, not only to citizens generally but also to their own members."

"One would expect appropriate duties and responsibilities for such organizations to be clearly laid down by the law which they are not — as well as their rights and privileges — which are."

Under the circumstances, Mr. Grauer continued, the leadership of unions is important.

"The lack of prescription of adequate elementary rights in many unions, such as the holding of elections for officers, and the secret ballot, has meant that the man with the undisciplined ego has been able to take over and to run unions as his private domain."

"Worse still the gangster and crook has taken over some unions, particularly in the United States, and brought with him a reign of terror to support his spoliation."

TORONTO MAN NEW PRESIDENT

W. L. Scandrett, Toronto, was elected president of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada here Tuesday.

He succeeds C. A. N. Cooke, Vancouver.

Members of the board of directors are: Maritimes area, Donald Smith, Halifax; A. M. Vickers, Saint John, N.B.; Quebec area, A. E. Nixon, and R. W. Davis, Montreal; Ontario, W. L. Scandrett and R. W. Davis, Toronto; Prairies, E. L. Marr and H. L. MacKinnon, Winnipeg; B.C., H. B. MacWilliam and Arthur Irish, Vancouver.

Police Car Rams Bandit

TORONTO (CP)—Gun-toting bandits tangled with police in a bullet-punctuated chase through downtown Toronto early today before two men were arrested and charged with armed robbery.

John McGrath, 23, and Patrick O'Connor, 22, were charged with the robbery of the Metropolitan Toronto Parking Authority garage on downtown Dundas Street.

Police said two men sped through a road block at which six warning shots were fired. They were cornered soon after in an alley where one of the men aimed a gun at point-blank range at two police constables.

Constable John Getty, who had no time to draw his gun, rammed the police cruiser into the man.

Police said two armed men entered the civic garage shortly after midnight and told night cashier Leon Dwan: "This is a holdup—hand over the money." One man scooped $75 from the register, then they fled to a car parked outside. Dwan got the licence number and phoned police, who sent in all cars in the downtown area.

LATEST IN LONG LINE of 37 winners of Kiwanis $250 scholarships is Robert R. Taylor, 2795 Foul Bay Road. The second-year student at Victoria College will complete five-year course for bachelor of education degree at UBC. He intends to become high school teacher. He was leading male student in first year at college, and is a former winner of Chris Spencer award for students entering college. (Times photo.)

Vice-Regents To Come for Douglas Day

Six of Canada's lieutenant-governors and Governor-General Vincent Massey will attend Douglas Day ceremonies at Fort Langley, November 19, British Columbia Centennial chairman L. J. Wallace said Monday.

The period between November 16 and 22 will be known as Queen's Representative Week, he said.

So far only the Governor-General and vice-regal representatives for Newfoundland and Saskatchewan have answered official invitations sent to all provinces. "But there are good indications there will be four or five lieutenant-governors besides our own."

The guests will take part in the Douglas Day banquet and Fort Langley tours which will commemorate the birth of the province at the renovated fort. It was 100 years ago November 19 that Sir James Douglas was sworn in as first governor of the mainland colony there.

The guests will see parts of the British Columbia Centennial Paganat, "From Wilderness to Wonderland". They will also attend the opening of the Officers' House—one of the reconstructed buildings of the fort.

The fort is being rebuilt as a national shrine. One of the buildings, the old museum, is an original building that once stood within the palisades. The palisades themselves are long rotted away but the new ones have been constructed on the same survey lines.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

A California woman who owns a small laundry will visit Vancouver Island as the guest of "Queen for a Day" television program.

Mrs. Harriet Bogle, whose husband and daughter were seriously injured in a motor accident, won the trip and a new dry-cleaning press to help keep the business going.

She is the third "queen" on the program to win a trip to this area in the past 18 months.

Meeting of local 1-118 of the International Woodworkers of America will be held 2 p.m. Sunday at 715 Johnson.

St. John Ambulance instructors later this month, sponsored by the Greater Victoria Civil Defence organization, will give a course in first aid to 21 employees of the Post Office here, it was announced today.

Since CD Day, Sept. 19, civil defence headquarters have had 38 new first aid trainees added to strength.

MONTE ROBERTS

The kindly constituents have evinced so much interest in the case of Judy Boots Streak and the loaves of bread, I guess I should make a progress report.

Or possibly I should call it a non-progress report.

So far, I have received several phone calls about Judy and the loaves of bread.

But most of them have been to enquire if the mystery was solved.

There was a call last night which raised my hopes.

The caller reported her grandson had lost two loaves of bread from the carrier of his bicycle on Saturday, while he was playing ball at Windsor Park.

One was a cheese loaf, she said, one was white.

Unfortunately, Judy Boots hasn't brought home a cheese loaf—not yet, at any rate—and didn't bring home bread of any kind on Saturday.

So I am no closer to finding from whence came the loaves of bread.

However, I am considerably cheered by a letter from Mrs. Margaret Nichol of Rockland Avenue.

Mrs. Nichol once had a problem worse than mine, and it is always cheering to hear about other people's problems.

A doggie named Jason lived at Mrs. Nichol's house, and he was a very bright doggie, easy to train.

One of the first things he was trained to do was bring in the newspaper from the front porch.

When he brought in the newspaper, Mrs. Nichol would reward him with a tid-bit from the refrigerator.

Being a very, VERY bright doggie, it didn't take Jason long to figure out that if ONE newspaper was good for something nice to eat, TWO newspapers would be even better.

With the natural result that all the newspapers in the neighborhood began arriving at the Nichol household.

So I guess I shouldn't complain about the occasional loaf of bread.

IMPRESSIVE ARRAY OF MEDALS was worn at HMC Dockyard today by Admiral of the Fleet Earl Mountbatten, left, Britain's first sea lord as he was

MOUNTBATTEN HERE FOR TWO-DAY VISIT

76 Inches of RN Perfection Takes Hard Look at Honor Guard

By MONTE ROBERTS

The boss of Britain's navy arrived at the RCN Pacific Command headquarters at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, today, looking every inch (76 to be exact) the top officer in the Royal Navy.

Admiral of the Fleet, the Right Honorable Earl Mountbatten, batten of Burma, First Sea Lord and Chief of the Naval Staff, RN, is tall, ruggedly handsome, heavy-set through neck and square shoulders, but slim of waist in his superbly tailored uniform.

His first official function after arriving at 7.30 a.m. by RCAF plane from Ottawa was to inspect the guard of honor and band of HMCS Naden.

TOOK TIME

It was no cursory "walk-through" of the ranks. The 58-year-old First Sea Lord, who has been a naval officer for 45 years, took his time as he looked closely at each man in the ranks, stopped to talk with a half-dozen men.

In the true tradition of the navy, Earl Mountbatten opened most conversations with the question: "How long have you been in the service?"

During the inspection, he was accompanied by Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific Coast, and Vice-Admiral H. G. deWolf, Canada's chief of naval staff.

Earl Mountbatten, by long odds the best known figure in the modern history of the Royal Navy, began his career in 1913 as a naval cadet. His steps upwards were: midshipman, 1916; sub-lieutenant, 1918; lieutenant, 1920; lieutenant-commander, 1920; commander, 1932; captain, 1937; acting-commodore first class, 1941-1942; rear-admiral, 1946; vice-admiral, 1949; admiral, 1953; admiral of the fleet, 1956.

Along the way, he collected

honors and decorations in nearly every theatre of war. At today's formal inspection ceremony—prior to which he was accorded a 21-gun salute to his rank—his left chest was burdened with the most impressive spread of medals ever seen here.

His British decorations include: Knight of the Garter, Knight Grand Commander of the Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Star of India, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Indian Empire, Knight Grand Cross of the Victorian Order, Distinguished Service Order, and Knight of St. John.

In 1940 and again in 1941 he was mentioned in dispatches.

PROUD OF THEM

He has also received decorations from allied powers, and is frankly proud of all of them.

The first sea lord, a close confidant of Sir Winston Churchill, is as outspoken as his friend, and his language is even saltier. He is devastating to his critics, and an avowed friend of the United States. He never tires of promoting Anglo-American unity.

Significantly, the bulk of his time on this visit to the North American continent will be spent in the United States. He leaves here Friday for San Diego, will visit the USN base at Norfolk, Va., the city of New York, and wind up with extensive talks with defence officials in Washington, which he will leave Oct. 22.

Funeral Held Tuesday For Solarium Pioneer

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, a pioneer worker for the Queen Alexandra Solarium and formerly superintendent of the Women's Institutes of British Columbia, was buried at Hope, B.C., Tuesday.

She was prominent in public life for more than 35 years as a promoter and organizer of charitable undertakings, and on her retirement to Hope continued to support good causes.

When Dr. Cyril T. Wace brought the dream of a hospital for crippled children to Victoria, Mrs. MacLachlan was stirred to action. Through her influence the Women's Institutes backed the project and worked to see the Queen Alexandra Solarium established in 1927.

She became secretary of the Women's Institutes in 1919 and was appointed superintendent in 1926. She visited every rural community in B.C., helping women with their many problems.

Keenly interested in handicrafts, Mrs. MacLachlan took this work into hundreds of country homes. Just before the war she established a craft cottage at Hope. She also worked for and helped establish dental clinics in rural communities.

Under her guidance the Women's Institutes established a trust fund of $10,000 to be used to assist crippled children in B.C. The fund was named the Ortha Scott Fund after a crippled girl on Hornby Island who gave Mrs. MacLachlan the idea of starting a solarium.

In 1919 she established the first V.O.N. nurse at Saanich and worked with a committee to establish the Saanich Health Centre. Earlier, she was active on the Local Council of Women and campaigned on behalf of women's suffrage on Vancouver Island.

Back in 1909 Mrs. MacLachlan launched the South Saanich branch of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

1,600 Chickens Die As Midnight Blaze Hits Saanich Farm

Loss of about $5,000 was suffered by a Saanich chicken farmer early today when fire destroyed a chickenhouse and 1,600 chickens it contained.

"The whole chicken house went up," said poultry producer Stanley Shaw, 1240 Glyn Road.

Brooder equipment also was lost in the flames.

But 2,500 chickens in another house nearby were saved.

Mr. Shaw valued the birds alone at $3,200. They were partially insured.

The razed two-storey building filled with brooders and other equipment was valued at $2,000. It was covered by insurance.

The blaze broke out about midnight and burned until 3.37 a.m. when a member of the staff of the nearby Wilkinson Road mental home spotted the flames and called firemen.

"We are trying to figure out how it began," said Mr. Shaw. "I was asleep at the time and heard nothing. There was no heat in the chicken house, only electricity."

Tom McDonald, Veteran Printer, Succumbs at 54

Thomas McDonald, 54, native of Dundee, Scotland, and Victoria resident for 25 years, died in hospital here Tuesday after an illness of 18 months.

During the whole of his residence here he was a linotype operator for the Victoria Daily Times and Victoria Press Ltd. until he was forced to give up his work.

He was active in the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club in an executive capacity, and was secretary for a number of years. He also held executive positions in the Graphic Arts Credit Union and the International Typographical Union local here.

Surviving are the widow, Ada, at home, 2339 Musgrave; a daughter, Mrs. George Vickery, and a son, John Allan, in Victoria; a sister, Mrs. H. H. Currie, Nelson; and a brother, Ian, in Sunnyvale, Calif.

Private funeral services will be held Friday at Chaplin's chapel with Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, officiating, and will be followed by cremation.

Girl Guide Hall Dedication Set

Oak Bay Girl Guide Hall will be dedicated by Rev. A. Calder at a formal opening ceremony Friday at 8 p.m.

The $12,000 Girl Guide centre was built by the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club, assisted by Oak Bay firemen. The Guides raised $1,800 themselves to the building.

Keys to the new hall will be presented by Robert Ferguson, president of the service club, to Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris.

The reeve, in turn, will present the keys to Mrs. Keith McDougall, former Gonzales division commissioner, who will hand them to a Brownie.

Thursday Meetings

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Ronald Bryan, Bishop of Barrackpore, India, speaks on "A Message from the Church."

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Managing editor of the Victoria Daily Times Leslie Fox speaks on "The Place of a Newspaper in Our Everyday Life."

Newfoundland Club: 8 p.m., Orange Hall, 725 Courtney St.

ONLY 44 DOUKHOBORS SIGN UP FOR RELOCATION IN RUSSIA

At latest count, only 44 emigration forms had been signed by British Columbia Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and five of these were not properly witnessed, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The federal-provincial offer to assist in re-locating members of the sect in Russia, was put forward after commitment of the Sons claimed 2,600 were ready to depart.

Following failure of the sect to complete its registrations and turn in forms giving up Canadian citizenship, before a Sept. 30 deadline, the two governments gave an extension of time until Oct. 21.

For any persons not then registered, where the delay is proven unavoidable, the governments will "entertain a further extension" but not to a date later than Nov. 15, the attorney-general said.

TRUCKERS READY TO POUNCE

'Don't Dare' Hike U.K. Rail Rates

By HAL MALONE

Attention Attorney-General Robert Bonner: there's a healthy Scottish "youngster" in Victoria who may have the solution you seek to combat the railways' application for increased freight rates.

His answer to the problem: let the railways boost their rates—"if they dare"—and the ever-competitive long-haul truckers may take most of the freight business.

That is what has happened in Scotland, even before the nationalized railways threatened to hike freight rates by 10 per cent, says Sir Ian Bolton.

An alert, grey-haired gentleman in his 40s but with the zest of a Boy Scout, Sir Bolton is an authority on railway operation. He represents Scotland on the British Transport Commission, the group which controls all UK railways and until recently most of the truck hauling companies.

MADE GOOD

For a boy who never went to university, Sir Bolton has cut quite a swath in the business world. His portfolio is impressive:

Senior partner in a 200-member chartered accounting firm with offices in London, Glasgow and Liverpool;

Director of the Scottish Widows Fund;

Director of the Scottish American Investment Co.;

Director of the Coltness Iron Co.

In addition he is the head of Scotland's 60,000 Boy Scouts. He has held that office for 12 years, plans to relinquish it next year.

Railways occupy 50 per cent of his time. The British Labor government selected him to represent Scotland when it nationalized railways and trucking under an eight-man British Transport Commission. The Conservative government later removed some of the truckers from nationalization and allowed Sir Bolton and his colleagues to impose a 10 per cent increase in freight rates on Scottish rail lines in an effort to secure funds to improve the system.

DON'T DARE

"Even when we were just talking about increasing freight rates, manufacturers hurried to trucking lines and we had to keep our rates as they were. Business is so keen between railways and truckers, we didn't dare charge more."

The same reaction followed a proposed boost in rail passenger fares.

"People just began using their own cars, buses or stayed home."

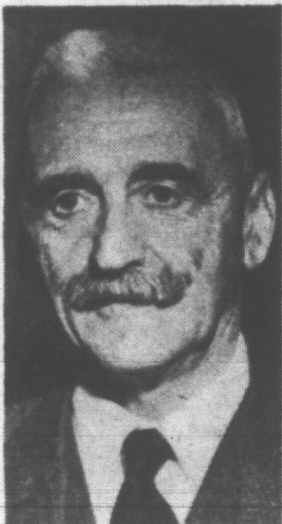

Diesels are relatively new to Scotland so the system has not yet encountered the Canadian problem of using only an engineer and not a fireman on runs.

"We plan to use a fireman on long passenger runs but only an engineer on freight runs."

Scotland, he says, is still a poor nation with Scotch whisky and chartered accountants being its main exports. The reason for the former is apparent to even novice tipplers but the latter . . .

MORE FUTURE

"They feel there is more of a future for them in Canada. And since Scotland is recognized as the senior home of accountants in the world they are well received wherever they go."

SIR IAN BOLTON

Sir Bolton is mildly amazed at the prolonged management-labor cold war in B.C.

"Srely," he said, "when there is a recession, union demands must be tempered by management's ability to pay. In Scotland this is generally accepted. Almost all railway unions agreed to a 3 per cent pay increase with little negotiation."

"I expect the same situation will, come about in our shipbuilding industry. The Clyde is full up for work today. But they don't have a single order in 1961 and very few inquiries."

Towboat Dispute To Conciliation

A federal conciliation officer has been requested in a contract dispute between B.C. Towboat Owners Association and the Seafarers International Union.

Call for a conciliator was made following a breakdown in union-management negotiations. The contract expired Sept. 30.

The union is seeking a 25 per cent wages boost for more than 1,000 unlicensed personnel on the boats.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Can you give me any information about the World Court? G.J.

A. The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It is composed of 15 judges, no two of whom may be nationals of the same country. It meets in The Hague. Function of the court is to formulate principles of international law covering crimes against the peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Q. I have been told a debt is outlawed after two years. Is this true? Is it just in B.C? M.M.E.

A. All debts are outlawed in B.C. after six years non-payment under certain provisions of the statute of limitations. There is no two-year limit anywhere that is known.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Former eminent historians of B.C. will be subject of a talk by Dr. Walter N. Sage in the Douglas Cafeteria, Parliament Buildings, tonight at 8.15. Dr. Sage is representative on the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. He will address Victoria Section, B.C. Historical Association.

"Forestry in B.C." will be the subject of an address by Carl J. Highsted, forester with the Survey and Inventory Division, B.C. Forest Service, to the monthly meeting of the Victoria Branch of the B.C. Dental Nurses' Association to be held next Tuesday at 6.30 p.m. at the Strathcona Hotel.

Sailor Joseph Aubichon, HMCS Jonquiere, was fined $50 in city police court today for breaking the glass window of a shoe-repair store and stealing shoe polish and laces.

"Why you did this stupid thing I do not know," said Magistrate Henry Hall in passing sentence.

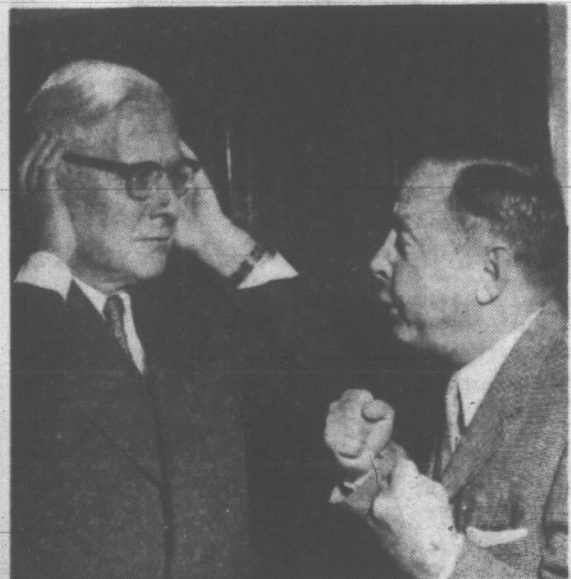

Winning combinations among 54 players in Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's master point event Tuesday were: North-South — Molly Collins and Charles Cleworth; Ethel Cleworth and William Simpson-Baikie; Douglas Hawkes and George Morgan; Michael Perks and Tony Marsh. East-West — Harold Parry and Jack Goldie; Elizabeth Warren and Otto Leestment; Roland Perrin and George Marsden; Eric Goodwin and James Duprau tied with Mr. and Mrs. George Beale.

Finishing Touches For Dockers' Pact

Federal mediator Eric G. Taylor of Toronto has been called back into final contract talks to the dispute between B.C. longshoremen and shippers.

A union spokesman said Mr. Taylor arrived Tuesday to "help put the finishing touches" on the settlement which ended a 32-day dock strike Sept. 23.

The settlement was reached under Mr. Taylor's night-and-day mediation and he promised then he would return if requested.

"HE SHOOTS—HE SCORES!" Foster Hewitt roared into Mayor Percy Scurreh's eardrums today in a real life demonstration of "Mr. Hockey's" famed lung-power. Mayor, who interviewed the hockey broadcaster, learned from Hewitt: Montreal Canadiens are still the team to beat but will have a tough time winning a fourth straight Stanley Cup; last year's cellar club, Maple Leafs, will improve this season; Kelowna Packers "will have to be good" to beat the Russian team it meets in Moscow because the Soviet national club is a "football team on skates, big and rough."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Modern research has brought us several suggestions which are most helpful in taking the pain out of calorie counting.

For instance, our appetite usually seems to be somewhat influenced by the level of our blood sugar. In other words, when the blood sugar level falls to what is called "the fasting level" we are apt to experience pangs of hunger and to feel weak.

Food raises the blood sugar level, and tests have demonstrated the fact that some foods hold the sugar level at a high point much longer than others. In more than one study it has been definitely established that a high-protein meal delays hunger pangs longer than one which is high in carbohydrate or fat. In one test the blood sugar level dropped two hours after the high-carbohydrate meal, while after the high-protein meal the blood sugar did not fall below fasting level until six hours afterwards.

So if you are on a reducing diet, eat slowly so that your blood-sugar level has time to rise before you are tempted to take another helping. Also eat your protein first. At dinner, eat your meat or fish and then your vegetables and starches.

Studies have indicated that in women 16 grams of protein in a meal fails to maintain the blood sugar level above the fasting level for three hours after eating, while 22 grams of protein maintains the blood sugar level well above the fasting level for three hours. This is one reason for the high-protein reducing diet.

Eat slowly and eat your proteins first if you must watch your weight. Of course you always have to count calories, too, for a loss in poundage. Most of you know what the protein foods are, but I will review them today. While other foods have protein content, the main ones—those which are classified as protein foods—are meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese and milk.

If you missed my nine-day reducing diet, which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY...

A Potent Remedy!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back a lady wrote to your column complaining about her husband's loud snoring. I used to snore so bad my husband said I sounded like a thrashing machine. A neighbor of mine told me about an old Italian remedy and I tried it and now my husband has to touch me at night to see if I'm still breathing. Chew a whole clove of garlic before going to bed. That's all.

DEAR ABBY: I'm afraid if I tried that remedy I would have to touch my husband at night to see if he were still breathing!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 12 years and it's been no picnic for the past two years. We fought all the time so rather than let the children hear the language he used at me, I moved his clothes down to the basement and he's been living down there. He has a hot plate and refuses to come upstairs for meals. The basement has an outside exit and I think he's been having company—down there as I hear laughing and

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Telephone etiquette: When making phone calls, I never know how I should announce myself, whether to say Mrs. William Andrews or Florence Andrews.

Will you please enlighten me?

Louise Davis answers: I would say that in about 90 per cent of your calls, you would say, "This is Florence Andrews speaking."

That goes for friends and acquaintances, even though you may expect them to call you Mrs. Andrews. You should use discretion and judgment, depending on whom you are calling. If, for instance, you are phoning your tradesmen, such as the grocer, plumber, dry cleaner, you would say, "This is Mrs. William Andrews," for it is of no concern to them in such business dealings that your first name is Florence. You would also use Mrs. William Andrews to complete strangers who may ask who is calling. You are Mrs. William Andrews or just Mrs. Andrews to children and teenagers who may not have yet learned the subtleties or name etiquette. In most cases, it would be permissible to use Florence Andrews when calling your son's or daughter's college friends, or even say, "This is Charles Andrews's mother speaking." On the other hand, if you wish to be strictly impersonal with these young people, it would be all right to say, "This is Mrs. William Andrews."

the radio going. He keeps changing the locks on me so I can't get down there. How can I make up with him so we can start living like human beings?

DEAR FERN: If he refuses to "rise" to the occasion—I suggest you do "underground." Peace at any price.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would put this in your column to let folks know that there are some pretty nice people in the world. Last week a new family moved into our building. Instead of waiting for everyone to call on them, they put up a bushel of apples into little bags and knocked on all the neighbours' door and gave us the apples. The lady of the house asked, "What time do you retire at night because we want to keep our TV low so you won't be disturbed?" Also, have you any invalids or babies who like to nap in the afternoons so we will keep extra quiet?" Now, that's what I call nice people!

DEAR DELIGHTED: (and you should be): Neighbors like you just drew would be welcome anywhere. How lucky can you get?

DEAR ABBY: Boy, I take my hat off to anyone who has a green thumb. I am one of those poor souls who is just the opposite and I wonder if maybe there isn't some mysterious reason for it? My little boys gave me a plant for Mother's Day and at first they watered it and it came along fine, but they got tired of the job, so after I watered it twice it died! My grandmother had a rose bush for years. She asked me to loosen the dirt around the roots. I warned her but she said I was silly. Sure enough, the day after I touched it, it died. Can

Newlyweds Make Home Up-Island

Making their home in Courtenay when they return from their honeymoon, are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Barrie Lynn Cusance, who were married in St. Columba's Anglican Church. Rev. J. Rogers officiated at the quiet wedding.

The bride is the former Barbara Muriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Patrick, of Conrad Street, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. M. Cusance, of Shelbourne Street.

A chocolate brown suit was worn by the bride for her marriage. Her hat was of feathers in pink tones and her accessories were in tone. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Attendant, Miss Lynn Patrick, sister of the bride, wore a rose suit with small black feather hat and carried a small bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Best man was Trav Cusance. Rev. Rogers proposed a toast to the bride at the reception at the home of her parents.

The couple left later on honeymoon to the Okanagan Valley.

Coffee Party Aids Cadets

Mauve michaelmas daisies and orange, yellow and pink chrysanthemums centred the head table at the annual coffee party presented by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Rainbow Sea Cadets Corps.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. H. S. Rayner, Mrs. H. V. W. Groos, Mrs. John Deane and Mrs. George Veres.

Mrs. E. Revfem was general convener.

Receiving guests was the auxiliary president, Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Stalls of homecooking and handicrafts were featured, convened by Mrs. J. L. Muirhead, Mrs. P. J. Coombes, Mrs. T. Fulthorpe and Mrs. Alex Reid.

Tea was served by Mrs. L. Hale, Mrs. F. Shore, Mrs. N. Cockburn, Mrs. M. H. McCulloch, Mrs. J. K. Tranton and Mrs. G. A. Dufour.

Mrs. K. Shanks and Mrs. J. Feilding were at the door. Proceeds from event will go towards the purchasing of musical instruments for the Sea Cadet band.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Abercrombie of Williams Lake announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheila Anne, of Victoria, to Louis Leslie Kilpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kilpatrick of Toronto. The wedding is to take place Nov. 7 at 6.30 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church, with Rev. F. E. H. James officiating. Miss Abercrombie's attendants will be Mrs. Francis Amelanic of Vancouver, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Kathy Salter as bridesmatron.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Fun Fair—Plans were made by the parents' auxiliary to St. Margaret's School at a recent meeting for the school's annual Fun Fair to be held early in November. Mrs. J. Kenderdine, new vice-principal of the school, was introduced to the group.

Choir Sings Traditional Hymns For Wedding at St. Columba's

A double ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Columba's Anglican Church recently, when Myrna Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Preece of Helmcken Road, became the bride of Charles Adolphe Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bennett of Island Highway, Colwood.

Rev. J. Rogers officiated at the ceremony at which the church choir sang traditional wedding hymns.

Mrs. J. Rogers was organist and W. Broadhead, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love!"

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace over tulle. The traditional styled gown was fashioned with lily point sleeves and a tiny stand-up collar at the bodice. Her finger-tip veil of illusion misted from a coronet of seed pearls. Red roses and stephanotis were in her bridal bouquet.

Pink and turquoise lace gowns over taffeta in waltz-length were worn by Mrs. J. Bennett, matron of honor, and bridesmaid, Miss Angela Morley. The dresses featured sabrina necklines tapering to a deep V in the back. Both had feather headbands in tone and carried bouquets of pink carnations and white stephanotis with streamers to match the dresses.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Joan Oliver, wore a dress of pink taffeta with matching bandeau. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was Ralph Bennett and ushers were Gerald Harris and Robert Cummins. Following the ceremony, the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, of which the bride was a member prior to her marriage, formed a guard of honor outside the church.

A pair of heirloom brass candlesticks flanked the three tier wedding cake at the reception in the Golden Slipper Supper Club.

Freeman Nott proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon in Washington State the bride donned a navy wool suit in chemise style. It was topped with a pale blue coat and her accessories were in navy tones. She had a corsage of pink rosebuds. The newlyweds will make their home at 341 Island Highway.

Group-committees and parents of Mt. Tolmie Scouts and Cubs and Cedar Hill Guides and Brownies, combined to stage a family fun fair in Mt. Tolmie Scout Hall. Mrs. Freeman King opened the fair, which raised approximately $300.

Bonny Trip 'Back Hame'

By JOHN MIKA
Some 500 Scottish Victorians flocked to Holyrood House Tuesday night for a nostalgic two hours "back home" with the White Heather concert's cast.
The six-member company tickled the humor and gripped the hearts of the audience with Glaswegian music hall skits, familiar ballads and rousing reels.

The sparkling performance will be presented again in two shows tonight and Thursday. The curtain rises at 7 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. both nights.
Star of the show, tenor Kenneth McKellar, made his Victoria debut a smashing success with rollicking renditions of "The March of the Cameron Men" and "Marie's Wedding" that set many spectators at tapping their feet.

The audience's mood changed swiftly and completely to nostalgia as he sang ballads such as "Bonnie Wee Thing."
Scottish humor flowed in broad accents from master of ceremonies Jimmy Neil, making a return engagement here with the concert group.
Aly Wilson, celebrated character comedian, filled the hall with laughter during his impersonation of an aged and ardent farmer gossiping derisively about his cronies with an old clay pipe clamped in his teeth.

Blonde soprano Ivy Carey alternately spoofed and praised the Haggis in a humorous song in a gay change of pace from a number of more familiar tunes like "My Ain Folk."
Tall Bobby Macleod's swift fingers sent the tunes of Scottish marches, strathspeys and reels streaming from his accordion.
All spectators joined in singing a medley of favorites to his accompaniment.
Piaudits also went to the troupe's pianist, Denis Woolford, who provided accompaniment for the vocal artists.

Times Honor Carrier

Each day this month The Times honors one of its "Young Merchant" carrier boys who have demonstrated qualities of leadership and application to their endeavors. Today's candidate is:

BILL WILD
Bill's favorite hobby is photography and he has been using a portion of his paper route earnings to purchase photographic equipment each month. This hobby will undoubtedly bring him much valuable training in the years to come and perhaps provide him with the beginnings of a fascinating career.
A grade 10 student at Victoria High, Bill has been delivering the Times for over 2½ years. During that time he has won many trips and prizes and has shown continuous initiative and effort on his route.
His friendly and courteous manner has won for him many new friends among his customers and he takes great care in giving all his customers the best of service each day on his route.
Bill resides with his family at 1737 Emerson Street and is very proud of being chosen TODAY'S HONOR CARRIER.

Eight-Month Bite On Ice-Box Thief

OTTAWA (UPI) — Daniel O'Connell was back in county jail today one day after he left it. The sentence was for breaking and entering the ice box of the Dominican Monastery.
Twenty-five times before O'Connell, 35, had been caught in the vast ice box where the Dominican fathers store their food. The previous charges were only for trespassing, but this time, caught with a side of beef in his hand, O'Connell was rapped with an eight-month term instead of the previous one-month sentences.
Asked what he was doing in the ice box, O'Connell replied, "I can't remember what I did. Perhaps I was celebrating my freedom a little too much."
Commented Magistrate Joachim Sauve, "You've been there so often I guess you just go how unconsciously."
When Constable P. C. LeCompte recounted how he had caught O'Connell in the refrigerator, Sauve asked, "You were trying to keep cool, I suppose?"
"No," replied O'Connell, "I just dropped in for a bite to eat."
"Some bite," observed Sauve. "Well, I'm going to send you to a place some people call a cooler. I hope you will agree. Eight months in county jail."

Immigration Cut in Half From 1957

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal restrictions will reduce the flow of immigrants to Canada this year to less than half of arrivals in 1957, a government source says.
Arrivals now are expected to total about 125,000, the smallest since 1955 when 109,946 immigrants came to this country. Immigration in 1957 totalled 282,164, the highest number since 1913 when 400,870 arrived.

GEARED TO JOBS
The immigration restrictions were imposed in July, 1957, because of anticipated large unemployment last winter. They have not been relaxed.
The restrictions are slated to remain in effect until at least the end of the coming winter. Whether they will be relaxed next year will depend on the extent of unemployment this winter and in the following spring.

CBS PROGRAMS IRK RUSSIANS, BUREAU CLOSES

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government has ordered the Columbia Broadcasting System to close its Moscow bureau immediately in retaliation for a number of alleged anti-Soviet plays and broadcasts the network has carried.
The press department of the foreign ministry today summoned Paul Niven, CBS correspondent here, and read to him this statement: "Of late, CBS has presented a number of anti-Soviet broadcasts and TV programs, notably a play 'Plot To Kill Stalin.' In view of this, the Soviet government considers it unnecessary for the presence in Moscow of CBS."

Visiting Artist Hits Back At Critics

Visiting artist Andres Salgo today hit back at his critics by saying that scores of visitors to Victoria Art Gallery have congratulated him on his work.

"People I have never seen before come up to me and shake my hand and say 'you are a fine artist—do not worry about what the ignorant people say. They are not Victorians."

"I am very happy because so many people congratulate me on my work. When so many appreciate it, why should I worry about what those house painters say?"

Hungarian-born Mr. Salgo said he had examined the work of some of his critics "and I must with regret repeat... it is house painting; or perhaps better, barn painting."

Mr. Salgo's paintings will be on view until next Sunday when he goes to Calgary to exhibit them from Oct. 17 to 29.

His paintings have been described by a group of Victoria artists as "incompetent" and several artists made an official protest in a letter to the Mexican consulate in Vancouver.

"May I suggest my critics go out and set themselves a reputation," Mr. Salgo said. "I have heard of none of them."

A battle for and against his work is being waged among art lovers in Victoria.

Victoria artist Mrs. Phyllis Leece of 1040 Hulford Avenue said she saw two of Mr. Salgo's smaller paintings in his studio at Mexico City about three months ago and "liked them very much."

Mrs. Salgo added that she did not like Mr. Salgo's Victoria exhibits.

"To me they are Hungarian rather than Mexican. Apart from that, they are bad painting. The most I can say for Mr. Salgo's work in Victoria is that it is individual painting."

prayers—for the Pope and for the doing of God's will. Thousands prayed at the Vatican and St. Peter's Basilica.

A direct broadcast from the Pope's ante-chamber said that "it is indeed the hour of prayer."

The speaker added that there was "a feeble hope that was all but gone. It could last an hour, or a day."

The broadcast again said that there was virtually no hope and that it was the "time for prayer."

HAS PNEUMONIA

The speaker said pneumonia had set in.

GETS LAST RITES

For the second time in two days, the pontiff was administered extreme unction, the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church for the dying and those in danger of death. This is the usual procedure if a person is not out of danger after a first illness.

He was unable to receive holy communion today, but was given holy absolution.

U.S. Pulling Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today announced all its forces will be pulled out of Lebanon by Oct. 31 "barring unforeseen developments."

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Sealed tenders will be received at the Office of the Chief Engineer, Winnipeg, Manitoba, until two o'clock, Central Standard Time, in the afternoon of Tuesday, October 21, 1958, for the construction of the concrete substructure for a new steel viaduct to be built adjacent to the present timber trestle bridge at mile 197-0-0, Cowichan Subdivision, about twenty-seven miles from Victoria, British Columbia.

Plans, specifications and form of contract may be seen and form of tender obtained from the offices of the Bridge Engineer at Winnipeg; District Engineer at Vancouver; and Transportation and Engineering Assistant at Victoria.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on form supplied by the Railway and accompanied by an accepted cheque drawn on a chartered bank in Canada in favor of Canadian National Railways, equal to five per cent of the total amount of the tender.

No bid bonds will be accepted with tenders for this work.

The lowest of any tender not necessarily accepted.

exempt corner stores and drug stores from the restrictions. There is no known opposition to this compromise although the Six-Day Shopping Week probably would appeal for an end to discrimination it would establish.

For merchants, the issue boils down to the right to sell products. What does it mean to consumers?

"At present, it is illegal for anyone to buy on Wednesday afternoons a can of peas, a new car, a stick of lumber or some nails, meat, or even a chocolate bar except at a sports game," said a spokesman for the six-day proponents.

"Our present regulations mean that a small group of merchants, such as jewellery, sporting goods, furniture and shoe stores, can dictate to the public that they must not buy anything else—as well as their own products—on Wednesday afternoon."

"Council, which twice before has gone on record as favoring six-day shopping and which prompted formation of our group, should not allow this small number of merchants to continue inflicting these unfair restrictions on other merchants and the public," he said.

MUST CLOSE

Under the Municipal Act all retail outlets—even including auto dealers and building suppliers—must close Wednesday afternoon unless council grants the exemptions.

"A store owner cannot voluntarily stay closed Saturday, for instance, and open Wednesday afternoon instead. That's the law as it stands now," the spokesman said.

On the other side, a spokesman for the 5½-Day Shopping Committee argued:

"Council sent a referendum to all merchants recently and a majority of them indicated they wanted the 5½-day week."

"To our way of thinking, in a democracy, the majority should rule."

But he added that his group would be willing to agree to exemption of corner stores and drug stores from the restrictions to allow Wednesday afternoon opening the year round for those two classes of stores only.

Council Backs New Library Branch Plans

NANAIMO (CP)—Nanaimo city council Monday night gave its blessing to a Kiwanis project to construct a new branch library building in Nanaimo.

In a communication the club explained, the lines along which it proposes to construct the $34,000 building.

Arrangements will be made with the Nanaimo and District Credit Union to borrow $21,380, repayable over 25 years at $125 per month.

The additional cash required will be raised through public subscription.

The city will provide the land.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

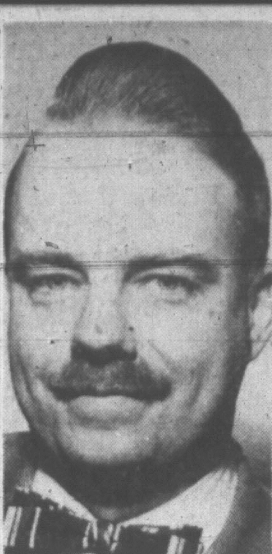

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and safely. You don't get parasites from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret. Remember, all Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

Teachers Double Chest Donations

Victoria teachers have let bygones be bygones as far as the Community Chest is concerned.

They have already given $1,800 to the campaign, more than twice as much as they gave in 1957, after shrugging off criticism sent their way early in the campaign by Chest campaign manager Justin Harbord.

(Mr. Harbord lambasted the teachers for "niggardly-giving," a statement which Mr. Harbord later said he made for "helpful, constructive purposes.")

Chest secretary A. G. Gilmore said today the teachers "are doing a fine job and it looks as though they will give us $5,000 when all the money is in. We are very, very pleased."

"They are showing a wonderfully understanding spirit."

Meanwhile, Mr. Gilmore reports that donations generally to the Chest's $300,000 campaign are 35 per cent higher than last year at this time. The residential canvass which netted $54,000 in 1957 is expected to bring in $67,000 when it ends Oct. 16.

Payroll division chairman Hubert Wallace (Chest president) said today the number of firms subscribing to payroll deduction this year has already jumped from 1957's 68 to 90, "with more to come," with at least two companies showing 100 per cent employee participation.

FAIREST WAY

"There can be no question," Mr. Wallace said, "that payroll deduction is the easiest and fairest way for the wage-earner or salaried employee to contribute to charity."

Mr. Wallace said the $300,000 objective would be easily reached "if all our citizens had

SHALE PLANT FOR SATURNA NEXT SPRING

VANCOUVER (CP)—A shale plant at Saturna Island is expected to be in production by next spring.

B.C. Lightweight Aggregates Ltd. announced Tuesday it has completed private financing totalling $750,000 to place the company into production.

President Philip D. Graham said lightweight aggregate, manufactured from shale, is used primarily to replace sand and gravel aggregates in the production of structural concrete, precast concrete sections, and concrete masonry.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED

KIMBERLEY (CP)—RCMP Tuesday identified David Grant, 44, as the man found dead near here Monday with a shotgun wound in his head.

Two Imports To Headline Jazz Concert

Six talented musicians of the West Coast school of jazz combine to bring Victorians an evening of progressive, cabaret style jazz at Club Tango Thursday night.

Victoria Jazz Society has imported two headliners to play with a local trio for an informal concert of danceable music as its 1958-59 season opener.

Feature spots will be taken by ex-Victorians Fraser McPherson, saxophone, and Carse Sneddon, trumpet, who have been regulars at the Cave in Vancouver and with the CBC.

With the trio will be Bob Miller, Victoria Symphony bassist; Warren Thompson, Los Angeles, on drums, and the society's own Buddy Glover at the piano.

As special guest Pat La Croix, who studied last winter in California at Westlake School of Modern Music, will do vocals.

The trio already has made its impact on the local jazz scene by playing regular engagements at Progressive Artists' Club, and with the added sound of Pete Thompson's sax gave society members a concert preview at a general meeting last Wednesday.

Program is scheduled to begin at 8.30 and is planned in two parts.

Aged Man Found

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—An 84-year-old man was found in good condition Tuesday after wandering for two days through the bush 15 miles west of here.

Enoch Moore, a pioneer of this region, was without food since Sunday morning when he set off on a hunting trip from his ranch home with his dog and a rifle.

He was found early Tuesday and, when taken home, asked only for his pipe and a cup of tea. No hospital check of his condition was considered necessary.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to James H. Nichols, III, aged 10, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for his question:

Is There An Insect Called A Walkingstick?

Yes, indeed, there is an insect called the walkingstick. And he could not have a more suitable name. For he looks exactly like a walkingstick. His body is long, like a stick. It even has markings to suggest the joints in a cane and his little round head looks like the knob at the top of an elegant cane.

However, he has six long, twig-like legs and a pair of long, thin antennae trailing back from his knobby head. These features do not belong on a real cane, or walking stick, and tend to spoil the resemblance. On close inspection he looks very like a bundle of fine twigs - which suits him fine. For hungry animals tend to ignore a bundle of twigs.

Full grown, Mrs. Walkingstick is about three inches long, which is large for an insect. Her husband is somewhat smaller. These insects are quite plentiful in the Southland, from coast to coast. In fewer numbers they exist in Canada, except in the prairies and the western mountains. Chances are there are walkingsticks around Pittsburg, though you may need a sheriff's posse to find one.

Perched on the bark of his favorite tree, the walkingstick is almost invisible. If you looked right at him you might mistake him for a piece of the tree. If he chose to live on a cherry tree in your garden, however, you would know, he was there. He may be quite destructive, nibbling bites out of leaves here and there. He will also feed on oak, walnut and locust leaves and he always makes his home on the tree of his choice, right near his food supply.

Mrs. Walkingstick lays about 100 eggs. She sits on the tree trunk and drops them on the ground one at a time. Then her duty for the season is over, for she cannot survive the winter. The next generation of walkingsticks is in the egg stage, sleeping gently on the ground.

Youngsters Love New Leaves

Come spring, the eggs hatch. Pretty soon there is a brood of miniature walkingsticks. The little fellows scurry around searching for a tree that can provide them with groceries. The young leaves are bursting open, all tender and juicy. The little walkingsticks settle down to dine. They eat and eat and soon get too big for their skins. This is no problem. They simply molt. The old, tight skin bursts open and the insects remove it just as you take off your sweater at the end of the day.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Tuesday: Gerald G. Roy, 660 Belton, $30 for not carrying adequate insurance.

William S. Robbins, 3118 Stevenson, $15 for not having adequate brakes.

Marshall G. Smith, 1020 Johnson, $10 for going through a stop sign.

James Quigg, 2717 Dunlevy, $10 for not having the vehicle licence in a conspicuous place.

Machinery

Main engines and generators for each of two government ferries for a proposed fast Saanich Peninsula-Mainland service, will cost between $120,000 and $770,000, it was learned Tuesday.

The figures were arrived at through combining high and low bids submitted to the B.C. Purchasing Commission Monday.

Decision on which of about 16 competing firms will obtain contracts is still to be announced.

It is understood a naval architect will be consulted by the purchasing commission before decision is reached.

Canada's Negroes Establish a 'Voice'

TORONTO (CP)—Some 80 Negroes met Tuesday night in the basement of a west central Toronto church and formed a Canadian Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

George Carter, a Toronto lawyer who was chosen national president of the organization, said: "We feel there should be a voice for the 32,000 Negroes in Canada."

Gil McDougald Hero in 10th

MILWAUKEE—Gil McDougald's home run in the top of the 10th inning sparked New York Yankees to a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee Braves in the sixth game of the World Series today.

Win tied series at three games apiece with the seventh and deciding clash here Thursday.

Medics Want Driving Laws Overhauled

KELOWNA (CP)—The B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association wants the Motor Vehicle Act overhauled to cope with "problem drivers."

Dr. Gordon Grant, chairman of the special committee on traffic and safety, today submitted a paper to the annual meeting of the association recommending:

1. That the legal age limit for securing a private drivers' licence be raised from 16 to 17.
2. That courses in safe driving be started in junior high school.
3. That provisions be made for medical examination of applicants for a new licence and of problem drivers. New applicants would undergo a medical examination at the discretion of the superintendent of motor vehicle licences. The superintendent would also be empowered to refer any offender for medical examination.
4. Periodic medical examination of persons known to suffer from physical disease and of persons over 70.
5. Appointment of a medical referee to the staff of the superintendent of motor licences.

In conclusion, Dr. Grant's paper recommended that medical standards be established for issuance of motor vehicle licences. At the present time no established standards have been developed in B.C. and those being used are those of New York State which are not well accepted by the medical profession.

Warren Spahn, seeking his third win for the Braves, was lifted in the 10th. The Yanks used three hurlers, Whitey Ford, Art Ditmar and Ryne Duren, in that order.

BAUER HOMERS

Hank Bauer, hitting star for the Yankees in the series, moved the American League champions in front in the first inning when he blasted a home run, when he blasted a home run.

Braves lost no time tying the score. In their half of the first Red Schoendienst singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Hank Aaron's single.

Milwaukee moved ahead 2-1 in the second and drove starter Whitey Ford from the box. Successive singles by Covington, Pafko and Spahn scored a run. After Schoendienst walked to load the bases Art Ditmar came in to replace Ford.

Johnny Logan filed to Elston Howard in short left and Pafko was out at the plate on a perfect strike throw as he tried to score after the catch.

Yankees tied it up in the sixth and appeared to have Spahn on the ropes, but he came through to strike out pinch hitter Jerry Lumpe with runners on third and second for the third out. Mickey Mantle led off with a single and went all the way to third when centre fielder Billy Burton fumbled the ball on Howard's single. Berra filed to Bruton, Mantle scoring after the catch. Showron walked, Enos Slaughter, batting for Kubek, grounded out, the runners advancing. Lumpe, batting for Ditmar, struck out.

$68,560 For Chest

Cash and pledges to the Community Chest $300,000 campaign reached $68,560 today.

Cash accounts for most of the figure. An additional $45,000 has been promised, mostly in the form of advance donations by selected citizens and firms.

Military Training Urged by Legion

OTTAWA (CP)—The 250,000-member Canadian Legion today asked the government for a one-third, across-the-board increase in war disability pensions over the 1956 rates.

In a brief presented to the cabinet, the legion also recommended national registration of all youths entering high school and a "system of military training for our young people which will adequately fit them to defend this country should the need arise."

Legion president Dave Burgess of Ottawa said after the one-hour meeting with the cabinet that the government had been "very sympathetic to our proposals" and would consider them. However, there had been no discussion of individual recommendations.

The legion noted that the former Liberal government had increased war disability pensions in 1957 but said rates in various categories differed widely and that in no case was the increase greater than 20 per cent.

A married pensioner with 100 per cent disability now receives $200 a month compared to $170 before July 1 last year. The legion recommended this amount be increased to $227 a month.

There now are some 500,000 war veterans or their dependents receiving pensions.

Doctors Give Up Hope For Life of Pope Pius

In 'Death Throes' After 2nd Stroke

ROME (Reuters)—Vatican Radio said tonight doctors had given up all hope of saving the Pope's life.

A Vatican Radio commentator, broadcasting from a room adjoining the Pontiff's bedside, said the Pope's blood pressure had risen to 180 and his pulse rate had quickened.

The doctors at the bedside, he said, had "no hope" of the Pope's recovery but were administering sedatives to ease pain.

(From Times News Services)

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy—Stricken Pope Pius XII is in his "death throes," the Vatican Radio said tonight.

The 82-year-old Pontiff suffered his second stroke in 48 hours this morning. He also was disclosed to have suffered a heart attack tonight.

The doctors had given the Pope blood plasma and administered sedatives, said the Vatican radio. It called on the faithful for prayers "to recommend to God the soul of his servant at the end of his life."

All the Roman Catholic Cardinals currently in Rome were gathered in the ante-chamber of the Pope's bedroom tonight as the Pope lay dying in his white canopied bed at the papal summer palace here.

The Pope's last words before a deep coma set in were expressed to two aides: "Pray, pray that this regretful situation for the Church ends."

He apparently was fearful that his incapacity would leave the Church without a leader for a long period.

Orchard Owner Charged With Woman's Murder

CYPRUS VIOLENCE

Greeks Deny Murdering U.K. Woman

NIKOSIA (CP)—Leaders of the Greek Cypriot community and EOKA terrorists alike today condemned the slaying of an English woman in Famagusta last Friday.

In a message from Athens, Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek Cypriots, said the murder as well as the ensuing "bloody orgy" conducted by British troops in the roundup of suspects "provoke the shame and anger of every honest person."

Makarios added: "I am certain that the Greek Cypriot people bear no responsibility for the English woman's murder."

Meanwhile, terrorist activity continued in Cyprus today. A British soldier was killed when his vehicle was bombed 25 miles east of Nicosia. Another soldier and a Pakistani employee of the British army camp in the Famagusta area were injured in the bombing.

An EOKA leaflet circulated here charged that Mrs. Kathleen Cutcliffe was murdered by the anti-EOKA organization Cromwell and the Turkish underground.

PARIS (Reuters)—NATO's permanent council met today to continue its search for an answer to the Cyprus problem.

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A 53-year-old orchard owner who first reported finding the nude body of an immigrant fruit-picker today was formally charged with her murder.

The surprise arrest Tuesday of Olin LeBrage, came more than two months after the body of Anita Budde, 28, was found in a blood-spattered cabin at nearby Kaleden, Aug. 4.

LeBrage, arrested in his orchard only a short distance from where Miss Budde's beaten body was found, appeared today before Magistrate H. J. Jennings and was remanded without bail until Oct. 14.

Wearing a sports shirt and corduroy trousers, LeBrage gave no sign of emotion.

Asked by the magistrate if he had anything to say, LeBrage said, "Not guilty, sir." The magistrate then explained that it was not intended that a plea be made at this time. The orchardist said nothing further.

Besides reporting the slaying, LeBrage was a key witness at the inquest.

STARTED MANHUNT

The discovery of Miss Budde's body started an intense manhunt throughout British Columbia's Okanagan Valley.

Before it was ended, three policemen had died in a plane crash while looking for a suspect, another policeman was wounded and a man sought for questioning fell in a hail of police bullets in Washington State.

The wanted man at that time, and for weeks after, was a 42-year-old itinerant named Donald Stevens, alias John Morrison, reported to have gone to Miss Budde's cabin and charged in absentia with the attempted murder of RCMP Cpl. Ralph LeBrage, who had not been mentioned as a suspect before Tuesday, testified at the inquest that he had warned away from Miss Budde's cabin a man who called himself John Morrison, telling him "you are wearing out your welcome."

Stevens was captured in Tonasket, Wash., about two weeks after the slaying.

Police shot him as he fled. He now is in hospital at Tonasket awaiting extradition on the charge of attempted murder.

Three Escape As Fishboat Burns, Sinks

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—The 50-foot Seattle seiner A.R.B. 7 went down in flames early today but the three men aboard escaped without injury.

The boat went down near the site of Rippel Rock, the recently demolished hazard to navigation in Seymour Narrows.

John Humphries of Campbell River Salvage Company said Captain Joe Hansen, his son and another crew member are on the way home to Seattle by bus.

Humphries said he will attempt to salvage the seiner this afternoon.

He said the vessel was returning from Alaska, where its cargo of fish had been sold, when the fire broke out. The men escaped in a skiff.

False Report by Rome Papers

After a false death report this morning sent newspapers with black headlines of mourning into the streets of Rome, the Vatican Radio established a running commentary on the Pope's condition in broadcasts from the Papal ante-chamber in Castel Gandolfo.

The mournful voice of a priest reported some improvement at midday. Hopes returned—for a time—that the amazing stamina of the Pontiff might see him through again.

But a few moments after 4 p.m. (7 a.m., PST), medical bulletin number six confirmed the worst. The Pope had suffered grave complications following the second stroke earlier this morning.

After reading the text of the medical bulletin, the Vatican Radio commentator, still reporting from a room adjoining the Papal bedroom, said:

"The doctors themselves are now visibly showing their discouragement."

"In the ante-chamber there prevails an atmosphere of resigned and calm anxiety."

"In the chapel adjoining the Holy Father's room, priests and members of the Pope's family are in prayer."

"From the door, which is ajar, we can hear, at times, the heavy breathing of the august patient."

Thousands of persons swarmed silently into the cobblestoned square before the summer palace. Swiss Guards stood stiffly at attention holding their ancient halberds. Television equipment, strangely incongruous, was set up to record the scene.

An oppressive air settled over the town at sundown. There was the murmur of Continued on Page 28

VATICAN RADIO BROADCASTS BEING JAMMED

TORONTO (CP)—The chief engineer of the CBC short wave receiving section at Britannia Heights, near Ottawa, reported at 1 p.m. today that unidentified transmitters are being used to jam Vatican radio on all frequencies.

Editors in the CBC central newsroom in Toronto had been using medical bulletins broadcast over the powerful Vatican transmitters to supplement reports on the illness of the Pope. Until the jamming began, reception was good.

There was no immediate indication as to the source of the jamming.

'Monty' Speaks His Mind In Exclusive Times Series

In Weekend Magazine this Saturday The Times will present one of the most intriguing series that has appeared for several years.

The series covers the memoirs of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, World War Two's most famous soldier who recently retired as deputy supreme allied commander in Europe.

Now it is at last possible for him to speak his mind about the conduct of the war, his differences and showdowns with the U.S. generals, the military mind of Eisenhower, the war in Italy, the folly of Dieppe.

The Times' Weekend Magazine has secured exclusive serialization rights for Canada, before book publication of his memoirs.

The first of four instalments begins with Montgomery's appointment, in August, 1942, to take over command of the Eighth Army, which had been driven back to the western border of Egypt by Axis forces led by General Erwin Rommel.

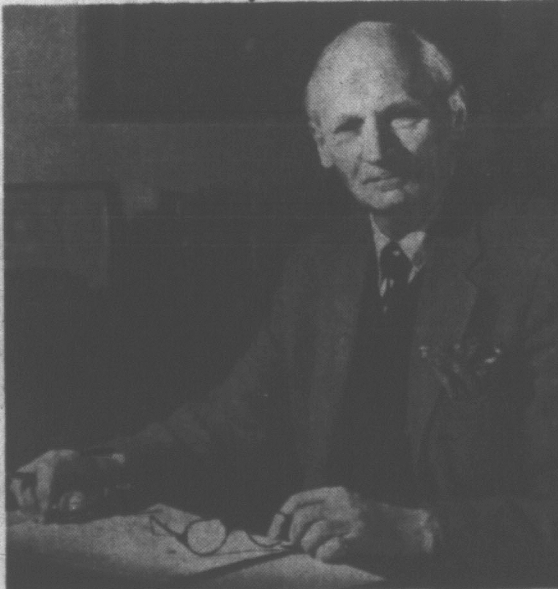

"This was much more to my liking and I felt I could handle that business, and Rommel," writes Montgomery.

How he contained Rommel until he was ready to launch the Battle of Alamein and how he planned and fought that battle which led to the doom of the German and Italian armies in Africa, is vividly described. One of the factors contrib-ing to his most resounding victory of the war, was his gigantic deception plan which concealed from the enemy, as long as possible, his intention to take the offensive and, when this could no longer be concealed, misled Rommel about both the date and the sector in which the main thrust was made.

There are many fascinating personal glimpses of this great soldier—his unhappy childhood; early days in the British army in which he served 50 years; how he won his DSO when still a lieutenant, but so badly wounded that a grave was dug for him; how he deliberately built himself into a personality easily recognizable to troops in the front line, by wearing first an Aussie hat and, later, his famous two-badger beret.

Shop Hour Decision Toss-Up At Vital Meeting Thursday

By JOHN MIKA

Victoria's business community will rivet its attention on city council Thursday when it decides the controversial shops closing issue which has been raging for almost seven years.

The big question that will be decided by aldermen is whether Victoria will have six-day shopping the year round.

The present regulations, a compromise reached this year, allow six-day shopping during four months of the year. During the other eight months all retail stores, with a small number of exceptions, must close their doors at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

City council chamber is expected to be crowded with opposing business groups and independent merchants as councillors decide the future pattern of business in the city.

TOSS-UP

A majority of aldermen are known to favor eliminating restrictions on shopping hours.

But the outcome still is a toss-up because the draft bylaw ending the restrictions must carry a two-thirds vote of council to pass.

If it does clear this hurdle, representations probably will flood council for a public hearing before final reading is given at the following council meeting.

If it doesn't pass, the city's legal department has another bylaw ready which would

World Series Play by Play

2 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, OCT. 8, 1958

MILWAUKEE — A play-by-play description of the sixth game of the world series follows:

FIRST INNING

New York: The lights were turned on at the start of the game. Carey swung at Spahn's first pitch and lifted a fly to Pafko in left center.

McDougald sent a soft liner to Mathews, hitting a 32 pitch. Bauer hit a home run deep into the left field bleachers, about 360 feet away. It was Bauer's fourth homer of this series and seventh in total series competition.

Bauer's four home runs in a series tied a record held jointly by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider.

Schoendienst fumbled Mantle's grounder for an error. Howard forced Mantle, Logan to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Schoendienst singled past Kubek into left field.

Logan laid down a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate and was tossed out. Berra to McDougald, covering first.

Art Ditmar, a righthander, started warming up for the Yankees.

Mathews was called out on strikes. It was his 10th strike-out of the series, tying a record held by Bill Abstein of Pittsburgh in 1909 and George Kelly of the Giants in 1921.

Aaron singled sharply to left, scoring Schoendienst and tying the score at 1-1.

It was Aaron's first run batted in of the series. Adcock forced Aaron, Kubek to McDougald.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

New York: Spahn tossed out Berra. Skowron was safe on Logan's error of his grounder near second base. Kubek struck out, swinging at a low breaking pitch that almost hit the dirt.

Ford forced Skowron at second, Logan to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Crandall struck out. Covington singled on a liner to centre that umpire John Flaherty ruled was trapped by Mantle. Casey Stengel emerged from the dugout to argue that Mantle had caught the ball but was overruled.

Pafko dropped a single in short right. Covington racing to third. Spahn lined a single to centre, scoring Covington, Pafko stopping at second.

Schoendienst walked on five pitches, filling the bases. Art Ditmar, a righthander, replaced Ford.

Logan filed to Howard in short left and Howard's throw to Berra at the plate doubled up Pafko, trying to score after the catch.

One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

THIRD INNING

New York: Carey filed to Pafko in right centre. McDougald grounded out, Logan to Adcock. Bauer was safe when Logan fumbled his grounder. It was the shortstop's second error. Mantle forced, Bauer, Mathews to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Mathews grounded out, Skowron to Ditmar, covering first. Aaron beat out a bunt to the left of the mound and reached second when Ditmar's throw hit Aaron on the shoulder and rolled to the boxes behind first base. Aaron collided with Skowron and was sent sprawling but he scrambled to his feet and took the extra base on the error. McDougald bobbled Adcock's sharp grounder but recovered in time to throw him out as Aaron advanced to third. Crandall went down swinging.

FOURTH INNING

New York: Howard filed to Pafko. Berra, singled to right. It was his 59th hit, breaking a record he held with Frankie Frisch. Skowron filed to Aaron. Spahn tossed out Kubek.

Milwaukee: McDougald threw out Covington. Pafko popped to McDougald behind second base. Spahn struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

New York: Schoendienst tossed out Ditmar. Carey filed to Aaron. McDougald lined a single over Mathews' head. Bauer fouled to Crandall to the right of home plate.

Milwaukee: Schoendienst rapped a double to the left field corner. Logan dropped a sacrifice bunt to the right of the mound and was out, Skowron to McDougald covering first. Schoendienst reached third. Mathews popped to Skowron, Schoendienst holding third. Carey made a nice pickup of Aaron's rounder to his left and threw him out.

SIXTH INNING

New York: Billy Bruton went to centrefield for Braves. Mantle lined a single over Logan's glove. Howard lined a single to centre and Mantle continued to third when Bruton fumbled the ball for an error. It was Howard's first hit in 13 official times at bat. Berra filed to Bruton, Mantle scoring the tying run on the sacrifice as Howard held first. Skowron walked on a full count. Enos Slaughter went in to bat for Kubek and bounced out. Schoendienst to Adcock, the runners advancing. Jerry Lumpe went in for Ditmar and struck out.

Milwaukee: Attendance was 46,367.

Duren went in to pitch for the Yankees, and Lumpe took over at shortstop. Adcock and Crandall were called out on strikes. Covington bounced single through the right side of the diamond. Bruton went down swinging. The Braves batters appeared to be having trouble seeing the ball as Duren took advantage of darkening clouds by firing mostly fast balls.

Spahn fell fielding Bauer's trickier to the right of the mound and Bauer was credited with an infield single.

Mathews stopped Mantle's hard grounder and threw to Schoendienst, forcing Bauer at second.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Milwaukee: Spahn struck out for Duren's fourth strikeout. Schoendienst lined to Howard. Logan also lined to Howard.

No runs, not hits, no errors, none left.

GREEN-THUMB THIEF TAKES TREES, SHRUBS

VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman told police here Tuesday that thieves took the following from her home: Two grapefruit trees, one orange tree, one pepper plant, one strawberry plant, three cactus plants and two small shrubs—one of which was planted in the ashes of her daughter-in-law.

'Top Priority' Urged

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Soviet Union called on the United Nations' political committee today to give top priority to the question of suspending nuclear tests.

HORSE DESTROYED

CHICAGO (AP) — Oak Brook Farm's six-year-old Clermont was destroyed Tuesday after breaking a bone in his foot in a workout at Hawthorne. The Argentine-bred horse was an intended starter in Saturday's $100,000-added Hawthorne Gold Cup.

1/2 AWAKE NIGHTS 1/2 ASLEEP DAYS

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you haven't that sprightly step of health in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. You can depend on Dodd's!

PILOT SEALED IN 9X3 GONDOLA

Balloon Ride Into Space

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — A huge helium-filled plastic balloon rose from the New Mexico desert early today, carrying a young military scientist on a flight aimed at the stratosphere. Lieut. Clifton McClure, 25-year-old jet pilot, was sealed into the gondola of the balloon again Tuesday night after a launching attempt Tuesday failed. A ground wind whipped the 3,000,000-cubic-foot balloon as it was being filled with gas. It finally was destroyed.

GP Most Important Element

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — The most important element in the medical profession is the general practitioner, Dr. Arthur Kelly of Toronto, general secretary for the Canadian Medical Association, said Tuesday.

Dr. Kelly said it is a mistake on the part of the public to assume that the general practitioner is a "passing phase" of medicine.

"On the contrary, more than two-thirds of Canada's doctors are general practitioners and they now are, as always the shock troops of the profession."

With a new bag, McClure hopes to ride up about 20 miles and stay there 24 hours while a panel of scientists questions him about the things he observes.

The panelists are experts in the fields of space medicine, physiology, meteorology, astronomy, space psychology and psychiatry, geophysics, aerial photography, radiation, sky brightness and space capsule design.

NEW STUDIES LINK CANCER TO SMOKING

TORONTO (CP)—The National Cancer Institute of Canada reported Tuesday 16 distinct studies show lung cancer occurs from five to 15 times more frequently among smokers than non-smokers. Moreover, the institute said in summing up the first Canadian study of its kind, the risk of lung cancer increases with the amount smoked. Similarly, the risk decreases when you quit smoking.

Bonner Against Compulsory Breath Tests

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today stated he personally is against the compulsory use of scientific tests to measure drunkenness.

"I doubt such legislation would be introduced in B.C.," he added.

Mr. Bonner made the statement after Stewart McMoran, Vancouver city prosecutor, said he would ask for legislation providing for the tests.

A suspected drunk or impaired driver would be required to take the test or forfeit his driver's licence.

The Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday upheld Saskatchewan legislation making the test mandatory.

At present in B.C. drivers can refuse breath tests and readings may be used in court only as corroborative evidence.

The Supreme Court's ruling means that a province can pass legislation that says, in effect, willingness to submit to a breath test is a condition for holding a driver's licence.

Mr. Justice Fauteux said a licence holder is in a position, under legislation like Saskatchewan's, similar to that of a person "suspected of physical or mental affliction likely to prevent the exercise of reasonable care and ordinary control over a motor vehicle."

As a condition for granting such a person a licence, the provincial regulations could require him to submit to an appropriate examination.

New, Complete B.C. History Due Nov. 19

The first comprehensive history to be published about British Columbia in 43 years is due to roll off the presses next month.

The new history, which has been compiled over the last two years by Dr. Margaret Ormsby, a native B.C. writer and historian, is expected to be released on Douglas Day—Nov. 19.

Dr. Ormsby was commissioned by the B.C. Centennial Committee to turn out the history. Centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace says it is expected sales will rival those of the B.C. Anthology, published this year.

First edition of the anthology, a collection of best B.C. writings of the past 100 years, was swept from book stores by the public.

A second edition now is available.

Pt. Alberni Logger Dies After Mishap

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Kenneth Joseph Gauthier, 24, of Port Alberni, injured in a logging accident at the Sproat Lake division of MacMillan and Bloedel Limited Tuesday, died Tuesday night at West Coast General Hospital.

RCMP here said Gauthier had been run over by a truck, but other details of the accident were not available.

The dead man is survived by a widow and two children. An inquest will be held, but the date is not yet fixed, according to RCMP.

IRAQ'S STRONG MAN SMASHES TROOP REVOLT

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Premier Abdel Kerim Kassam, the Iraq strong man, has smashed a revolt by soldiers supporting his chief rival, Col. Abdel Salam Aref, it was reported Tuesday.

A regiment was disbanded. Aref himself was placed under house arrest, reliable informants said.

Pakistan Under Martial Law

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution in the face of revolution rumors. Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation belongs to both the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Mirza, a 59-year-old former major-general, took over Tuesday with strong criticism of politicians who have led Pakistan. The president outlawed political parties. He named Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan, commander-in-chief of the Pakistani army, as chief martial law administrator and placed all armed forces under him. No disturbances were reported as troops took station in government offices and at key installations. Crowds cheered the soldiers in some places.

The Escalator

THE BOARD OF TRANSPORT Commissioners says it has the legal right to rule immediately on the railways' application for a freight increase of 19 per cent, or $60 millions annually, to cover increased railway wages.

The Board may well have such power in law. But that is not the real question raised by the eight protesting provincial governments. What justification has the Board for its present position in sound economics and common sense? None that we can think of.

The railways recently conducted a wage argument with their employees but were unable to reach an agreement.

Instead of settling that dispute, if necessary by facing a strike, and presumably binding arbitration as in former disputes, the railways asked the Board of Transport Commissioners to give them a huge rate increase in case they had to pay more wages.

That is to say, they handed a wage dispute over to the Board which was never intended or empowered to settle such a question. And the Board seems to have accepted that responsibility without question.

In this unprecedented departure the Board actually sets itself up as a wage-fixing, as well as a rate-fixing authority.

It is saying in effect to the railways that if they choose to pay higher wages then they will be compensated—in advance—for their extra costs. Once they have that assurance, not only in the present dispute but in future disputes, the railways will not be encouraged to resist still higher wage demands.

It is true, of course, that the railways cannot escape their mounting fiscal problems simply by raising freight rates, for a law of diminishing returns already has begun to operate.

As railway rates increase, traffic is driven to competitive services like trucks, airplanes and, in Eastern Canada, to ships.

The railway industry throughout America is in desperate straits. But this problem cannot be solved and may well be worsened by a kind of automatic rate escalator managed by the Board of Transport Commissioners acting—far outside the intentions of Parliament—as a wage referee and approving in advance the wage scales proposed by the railways.

Mr. C. W. Brazier, counsel for British Columbia, rightly says that the question is whether the Board "is going to approve a wage increase sought by railway employees." Apparently it is.

Since the Board was never intended to perform such a function, the British Columbia Government refuses to take any further part in the present rate argument. This withdrawal may ease the Provincial Government's natural anger but it will not help the railway users—that is, every family in the province which must use goods carried, at some point, by rail.

The cost of all those goods will be raised by the impending rate increase.

Where Are the Facts?

IN HIS DAWSON CREEK SPEECH last week Premier Bennett made the definite statement that work on the proposed huge Wenner-Gren development would be under way in 1960.

The people of British Columbia would like to know on what basis he makes so specific a statement.

Actual development was to await the outcome of surveys to be completed at the end of this year.

Last week the final reports of the surveys had not been submitted to the Government. Has Mr. Bennett information of a specific nature on those studies? If he has, will he, or when will he, tell the people of British Columbia what they disclose?

That is information which the people of this province, facing the alienation of about one-tenth of their land area, are entitled to know.

The people of northern B.C. have been told a new era of prosperity is dawning for them with the projected hydro development. The Premier says he still awaits word of pulp mill plans—at a time, incidentally, when the world has an over-supply of pulp and paper and mills are operating at 80 per cent of capacity in British Columbia. He also waits for detail on the widely-publicized monorail line that was to provide transport in the Rocky Mountain Trench.

Italy Fights Illiteracy

ITALY, ONCE THE FONT OF classical knowledge, had 5,500,000 illiterates in 1951. Since that date the number who can neither read nor write has risen by 30,000 each year. It is officially conceded that 13,500,000 of the present 50,000,000 population now are illiterate or semi-illiterate.

That is the appalling situation which has spurred the Fanfani government to draft a $2 billion 10-year education plan.

No one at present seems to know where the money will come from for the construction of schools, the recruitment of teachers and extension of education from kindergarten to university, from technical school to adult classes for peasants. And no one doubts that the plan will be approved by the Parliament.

Present schools—though the constitution offers free elementary education for every child between six and 14—can meet only 41.9 per cent of the national demand.

And the social and economic damage to the nation from its educational famine is heightened by the fact that 65 per cent of the young people who manage to get some schooling leave to enter the labor market with no skill of any kind.

The Fanfani government faces many difficult problems. It is on sound ground in giving first priority to education. Only as it beats back the mounting illiteracy will Italy achieve the basic tool to perform the other tasks before it.

Who's Driving This Car?

ELECTRONICS AND AUTOMOTIVE research may bring new safety to potentially the most dangerous fixture in any car—the nut behind the wheel.

Reports on prospective developments describe a device which enables the ignition to "recognize" an incompetent drunk and to automatically prevent the engine from starting.

Other developments of the future, it is suggested, will include electronic installations which will cause cars to veer away from approaching vehicles and thus avert collisions.

Ultimately there is the possibility of a "driverless" car, which proceeds safely down the highway carrying its passengers where they wish to go—all this by means of scientific gadgets that do the job currently entrusted to the driver.

There appear to be one or two drawbacks to the prospect. Already certain cars employ electronic equipment for such duties as tilting headlight beams, and as some operators have had the embarrassing occasion to note, the electronic device can go out of kilter and refuse to tilt the beam.

Conceivably more intricate mechanism could do the same thing.

Then, of course, there is the danger that such a car, so nearly human in operation, might become tired of waiting for an owner tarrying too long in the club, and go home without him.

Grow It With Music

A NEWS item from New Delhi, where they charm snakes with music from home-made clarinets, says that a noted Indian botanist is experimenting with the effect of music on plants. It seems that just as the exciting notes of the music lure the cobra from its basket and encourage it to stand up higher and higher, so do certain melodies act on plants to make them grow taller and bear more blossoms. That's what Dr. T. C. N. Singh says, anyway.

For eight years he's been experimenting. Now he puts loudspeakers in his fields of peas, rice, coffee and other crops. Even marigolds, asters, petunias and other flowers respond to music, he says, growing faster and stronger than those without a few tunes to speed them on their way.

Of course, the Doctor has a scientific explanation for it all. He says the sound vibrations stir up the nuclei inside the cells of the plants and stimulate them to get on with their business at a higher speed.

Fast or Slow

But if that's the case, then the type of music should have some effect too. A slow, dreamy waltz wouldn't stir up those nuclei as much as a few hot licks of pop; a stirring march, you'd think, would set them all working like crazy, while rock and roll would probably kill them dead.

Obviously, a lot of judgment will have to be used in the fields if the best results are to be obtained. Exposing corn to corn might have far-reaching effects, unless it went in one ear and out the other.

Imagine the New York Philharmonic performing in a field of cabbages—would the great green leaves lift to the maestro's baton? Would a few thunderous selections from Wagner each day double an orchard's yield?

Would a field of grain swing and sway with Sammy Kaye? Would watermelons respond to the Waters of Minnetonka? Would a dog, tooth violet give its best to Hounddog?

These are questions not answered by the New Delhi news dispatch. No doubt further research must be done before the truth can be known.

But in the meantime, it would be interesting to take a few scientific measurements in our own locality. It would be valuable, for instance, to measure carefully a few choice plants at Butchart's Gardens before and after the Victoria Symphony Orchestra has appeared there.

Do the waterlilies in the Italian pool

show any marked growth after the harmonies of Mr. Gruber's men have floated over them? Do the gracious lawns, recuperating from the weight of tons of Victorian anatomy, indicate by increased growth that they have benefited from the visit of the strings or the woodwinds?

For the moment these must remain academic questions. But next summer arrangements should be made to gauge the effects of music on our local flora. If the flowers and shrubs show that they are completely oblivious to the music, then obviously such a treat is much too good for them and the concerts should be shifted to some less verdant location such as the brickyards—no, wait, that might be too dangerous.

Meat Too?

Now the most important thing that comes to mind regarding the New Delhi experiments is this: If musical vibrations stir the cell walls and nuclei of plants, cannot they do the same thing for the cell walls and nuclei of animals? Wouldn't the fauna, too, be stimulated to grow bigger faster?

Would "Love Me Tender," for instance, have an appropriate effect on a herd of steers? Would "The Old Oaken Bucket" persuade a cow to break a few dairy records? Would "Asleep in the Deep," piped into the Straits, make the Adams River run a bumper one every year?

Obviously, there is much research still to be done. But even before that is completed, we might go the further step and project the beneficial effects of music on humming beings themselves.

The generous proportions of many vocalists might well be ascribed to their constant exposure to music. The operatic lady whose swoon in Act I brings down the curtain and all the props with it, the tenor whose demise in Act III sends earthquake insurance rates soaring throughout the neighborhood of the theatre—these obviously show the growth effects of vibrations on their nuclei.

Political Growth

Could we but find the right notes, the proper harmonies, would it be possible to act upon our legislators, say, and transform them into plump, jolly fellows who from sheer good nature inherent in their corpulent state would lower all our taxes, raise all our pensions and joyfully guarantee us carefree, happy lives?

Could little, unhappy women be made tall and stately? Could short, scrawny men, by listening to some magic flute, put on inches of height and pounds of brawn?

At least it's worth a try. Let all such prospective patients put on their ear-muffs, turn on the radio and take the full treatment. Let those nuclei shake, rattle and roll.

Artist and Critics

May I request space in your columns to reply to certain unpleasant criticism of my work that appeared in your paper on Monday, October 6?

I should like to say first that I am sorry if my lecture seemed incomprehensible to some of my listeners. I did my best in your beautiful but difficult English language. Over the years I have had to learn a number of languages since leaving my native land. I suppose this has resulted in an accent that may be hard to understand, especially if one has not considerable experience in listening to a variety of accents.

As for the "criticisms" of my work, I must beg to reject their value. I have made enquiries here in Victoria and I have searched my memory to recall the names of those who voiced the criticisms. I have heard of none of the critics—and I believe I have heard of most of the valid artists who are living today. Strangely enough, neither can I find that they enjoy reputations even here in Victoria.

As for attempting to argue what is realistic art, I can only repeat that it seems to me to exist chiefly in the minds of those who produce this "art," and in the minds of those who pretend to see something significant in the effort. I do not say that the artist must not experiment, that he must be bound by the chains of the past. But his experiments should be valid as art, they should not ask for credit for what they are.

An Essential Lacking? I would like to add a personal postscript to the letter (written by a group of Victorians) concerning Mr. Salgo's painting.

It seems that he took it to refer to the style or subject-matter of his work. This is not the case. Quite obviously, the approach an artist takes to his subject is his own business—be it abstract or realistic, to take extremes, it can be valid if tackled with a certain amount of seriousness and sincerity. But there must be a certain elementary knowledge of the principles of painting—of drawing—without which a painter is not a painter but an amateur.

This principle of sound technical foundation applies to most fields of human endeavor—from dressmaking to house-painting—and art is no exception. What is more it is measurable and not subject to whim or fancy.

This technical foundation is absent from Mr. Salgo's work and no amount of sincerity will overcome this handicap. R. M. CICCIMARRA.

Why Stop the Show?

I was amazed to read in your paper that an "official protest" had been sent to the Mexican Consulate in Vancouver regarding the work of artist Andres Salgo. The letter states that "the people of Victoria have a right to feel surprised, etc."

Unavoidable circumstances have up to the present time prevented my viewing the exhibition, but what right has any small group, however expert they may be, to speak for me, or judge my likes or dislikes?

I am well acquainted with the work of six of the seven self-appointed critics, and as a layman with more than a passing interest in art, I like very much the work of some of them, but the others I neither understand nor care to view.

That does not mean that when their pictures are exhibited at a gallery I call upon the City Council to stop the show.

In the Massacre Phase?

A STERN resolve to get away from the Far East, not only physically but also at the typewriter, has abruptly melted away. It has melted in the heat generated by the current public talk of worthy persons who have never seen

China, know no Chinese leaders, and would rather take a physics than read Chinese history.

From this talk you might suppose that Chiang Kai-shek's remaining fragment of China is a cesspool, ruled by an aging tyrant who hankers to entangle the United States in a great war by a foolhardy reinvasion of the mainland.

Yet by any practical test, Chiang's Formosa is considerably more respectable than Nehru's India, to cite the most obvious and most loudly admired example.

The lot of the common man is immeasurably better. The country is immensely more prosperous. The educational and welfare systems are infinitely more extensive. The government is substantially less corrupt. Only the unearthly Indian self-righteousness is lacking.

No Intention

In addition, Chiang Kai-shek's old talk about "reinvading the mainland" has about as much present meaning as John Foster Dulles' old talk about "liberation." Chiang has no more intention of attempting a serious "reinvansion" of the mainland than Secretary Dulles has an intention to attempt the "liberation" of Hungary.

But it is probably useless to make these points, in view of the strange, enduring power of the superstitions about Chiang, whether pro or anti. It is more important, in any case, to try to be a little more realistic about the Chinese Communist mainland.

Here the essential fact to note is fairly simple. In brief, Communist China is now entering the hideous and blood-stained phase that the Soviet Union entered when Stalin launched his massacres of the peasantry. The reason is the same. The Chinese Communist rulers, like Stalin before them, have learned that they cannot finance their forced industrialization without brutally depressing the standard of life.

But although the reason is the same the circumstances in China are vastly more grim. The standard of life that has to be depressed is very much lower. The pool of untapped resources is very much smaller. The goods and commodities available for export are very much fewer.

Most surrealistic painting does not speak to me as art and I am a serious artist.

I have seen some of the work done here by my critics. I must, with regret, repeat what I said to your reporter. To me it is house painting or, perhaps better, barn painting.

My own reputation has been assayed widely by true critics of art. I am content to rest my case on their opinions. These opinions have appeared in the English language in the Art News and Art Digest, among other publications. The art critic of the Vancouver Province, who seemed to understand art, held an opinion quite different from the Victoria "Group of Seven." In any case, I have a good deal more confidence in the people of Victoria than I have in their self-appointed guardian angels in the field of painting. I am content that my work speaks to them for itself.

May I close by saying how sorry I am that so unpleasant an episode should have spoiled in part my visit to your beautiful city of Victoria. I want to come back to Victoria some day, to paint what I see here, of so much beauty. In the meantime, may I suggest that my critics go out, as you say in English, and get themselves reputations. When they have reputations, I will be glad to debate art with them, in Victoria, in Mexico City or anywhere else.

ANDRES SALGO.
601 Trutch Street.

I take the bad with the good, realizing that there are several hundred other people in this city with their ideas of what constitutes "good art."

A tape recorder hidden in every art gallery in the world to register the unbiased and unprejudiced views of the patrons, might revolutionize many of the ideas of a good many of our leading art critics and educators.

I am pleased that the staff of the Victoria Art Gallery have decided to remain non-partisan, and that I shall have an opportunity as a member, and one of the "people of Victoria" to decide for myself whether or not I like Mr. Salgo's paintings. I have faith in their ability to select and present to the people of Victoria and visitors, shows to cover the taste of all of us.

AGE AND HAPPINESS

The happiest old people are those with a number of different interests, concerned more with the present than with the past. Through these activities they can avoid the loneliness which so many old people dread and which is so bad for them. The coming years hold forth great promise to those who are ageing if they take advantage of the benefits for creative living now becoming available to them.

—Dr. Trevor H. Howell, Director of a British Geriatrics Research Unit.

SCIENTIFIC JOY

The true scientist is also a philosopher, a lover of wisdom for its own sake; and happy as he will be, as a human being, when his discoveries lead to other people's welfare, he gets his greatest joy as a scientist from something else: from confirming his faith in the consistency of nature, from finding out why things work as they do.

In the Massacre Phase?

In every way, the Chinese problem is incomparably more difficult than Stalin's was, except that limited Soviet credits are available—which have to be repaid with interest.

The greater difficulty of the Chinese problem is easy to gauge if you compare Stalin's collective farm system with the new system of "People's Communes" which the Chinese Communist leaders are now ruthlessly imposing on the toiling peasantry.

The scheme for the collective farms at least had some outer trappings of humane Western thought. The scheme of the communes is frankly intended to transform the whole countryside of China into a series of vast slave farms of a character without any modern parallel.

Probable Horrors

The probable horrors of this new phase in China go beyond the bounds of normal imagination. Secrecy, plus idiotic sentimentalism about "this great Chinese experiment," will no doubt conceal the full extent of the horrors for a long while, as happened in the Russian case. But if Stalin massacred 20,000,000—as he did—it is a reasonable forecast that the Communist massacres will pass a hundred million human beings.

The question remains whether the Chinese people will suffer and submit as the Russian people suffered and submitted. At the risk of an unusual accusation of over-optimism, this reporter would venture the opinion that they will not suffer and submit. They are more vital, tougher and more dynamic than the Russians.

Their history shows that they are somewhat like camels—capable of bearing enormous burdens but also capable of sudden, unshakable, unmanageable resistance when the burdens grow unbearable. Both China's previous revolutionary dynasties, lasted less than a generation; precisely because they imposed unbearable burdens.

Internal Pressures

Mao Tse-tung must have the memory of the fate of these predecessors of his very much on his mind. One way to relieve China's internal pressures, diminish the need for massacres and ease the situation generally is to add the resources of China's rich neighbors to the southward to China's own inadequate resources.

And in these circumstances it is unwise to ignore the possibility that the attack on the offshore islands is the first, tentative venture of a much more ambitious scheme of conquest.

"A LITTLE SURPRISE HAPPENED IN MY ROOM."

Struggle for Food

NEW YORK—With world attention focused on the international power struggle, another struggle for survival is often overlooked. This is the struggle to feed the exploding population of the world.

Last week, almost unnoticed, the annual report of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization came out and it shows that last year world food production dropped, ending the long production build-up which has gone on through the post-war years.

Thus, with the population of the world shooting up, with the majority of the world's people hungry, total food production is beginning to drop. The drop was mainly caused in the surplus-ridden producing countries of the West. Crop failures were also a factor.

The FAO report reminds the world statesmen once again of the grim paradox which has plagued them ever since the UN was founded—the problem of poverty and plenty, the problem of the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer.

Many people at the UN think that in a very few years time, this may be a far more serious problem than the present contest between Russia and the United States. In fact some people believe that, as Russia moves into the upper income brackets, she'll move and more find that her interests coincide with those of the United States rather than those of the "pore folks" of Africa and Asia.

But the "pore folks" are getting tired of being "pore" and you see this in speech after speech in the General Assembly. While the Western world is concerned with the struggle against Communism, the speeches of the Afro-Asians and Latin Americans, who make up the majority in the UN, stress economic development. In fact the West's struggle against Communism looks to many of them as a fight to maintain a privileged position.

Burke

Rich, empty, under-developed Canada has not escaped the notice of the Asians. The foreign minister of Japan, Aichihiro Fujiyama, for example, obviously had Canada very much in mind when he mentioned the under-populated countries which need immigrants to help them in the development of their resources. Demands of the Asians may become more pointed as the years go by.

As a matter of fact, I spoke to a Japanese correspondent the other day who had returned from a visit to Canada. He was astonished by the vastness and emptiness of Canada and, although he was too polite to say so, it was obvious he thought it selfish of Canadians to limit immigration of Asians into this empty land.

One way to ease criticism will be to use the land ourselves and use it to help less fortunate people elsewhere. This is something which much interests Prime Minister Diefenbaker who, as a westerner and the son of a homesteader, is concerned with food production. He knows the problems and the thinking of a Polish or Ukrainian-born farmer in Saskatchewan and this gives him some insight into the man behind the hoe in Burma or Afghanistan.

In addition, he has a very practical interest in disposing of the grain bulging out sheds, tanks, and elevators all over the prairies. All in all, Mr. Diefenbaker is possibly more interested in the food problem than any other Western leader and, along with Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness, he's had Canadian experts working on it.

The result is that the C. D. Howe cash-and-carry policy has been abolished and food is now an important element in Canadian external affairs planning—substantial quantities of food go out through the Colombo Plan, a NATO food bank has been proposed, and Canadian officials say they're open to suggestion on other ideas. So far, however, like the men at the United Nations, they haven't been able to come up with any overall solution.

LONDON LETTER

Police Dogs Feared

LONDON—What is the police's strongest weapon in dealing with the toughs who are inciting these race riots we are experiencing at the moment? Truncheons? Tear gas? Fisticuffs? Firearms?

It's none of those. The answer is the police dog. The Teddy-boys are scared skinny of the dogs and they'll break up rioters and keep the peace faster than anything.

I learned this from talking to policemen on duty in the trouble spots. Their worry is that in coping with the toughs they're at a disadvantage.

They know these irresponsible young characters of old (the layabouts, as they call them) and they know that if rough stuff starts it is they (the police) who are likely to suffer.

The louts go at the cops and the dignity of British law enforcement decrees that they can't give them a bit of their own medicine. They can only restrain them and take them into custody.

Taking what the Teddy-boys hand out as they try to arrest them, the police have to resist the temptation to give them something that would really quieten them down—a thorough hiding.

The "Teds" know that all that can happen to them when they get into court is to be fined a few pounds or, rarely, be given a short prison sentence. They can find the money all right—steal it, if necessary—and a couple of months in jail carries no stigma with them, but instead puts them up in the estimation of their cohorts.

The "cat" (legal bodily punishment) having been abolished in England, the layabouts know they can dish out any sort of rough stuff without the law being able to mete out any physical punishment in return. Which has prompted fresh agitation here by those who plead "Bring back the cat."

In the meantime, with no play of words intended, it's a case of "bring on the dogs" when the police find themselves in a mix-up with the trouble-makers.

These dogs, all Alsatians, are trained never to touch anyone in police uniform but will go for anyone else when directed by their handlers.

I got a small insight into how vicious they can be one evening when, with young Mac, I stopped to chat to the policeman and his dog who patrol the area.

Mac, brought up with dogs and therefore friendly with all of them, went to pat this one. The handler pulled the dog away sharply and said: "Don't do that, sonny—unless you want to lose a hand."

The Teds suddenly lose their bravado when these police dogs are brought out to the scene—which is put forward as a strong argument by those in favor of bringing back legal flogging.

Fines and prison are no deterrent to the irresponsible street-corner louts, but they're scared physically. The risk of a whipping with the ca-nine-tails would make them think twice about starting anything.

HOME GARDEN

'Cold House' Can Be Useful in Winter

An unheated greenhouse (or a cold house, as it is in garden terms) may readily be converted from a winter liability to an asset with a few tips and a little ingenuity. A sturdy bench 30-36 inches high should be erected, and on it may grow all kinds of early flowering bulbs in pots, not necessarily the forcing types, but varieties which do well outdoors.

With the protection of the greenhouse from winds, heavy rains, and the severest frost, these bulbs will open unmarred by the elements.

Clean glass is essential to allow every ray of sunlight to enter, and ventilation on all but nights is just as necessary.

Winter aconites (Eranthis hyemalis) is best grown in a low, flat pan. Unless the tiny corms are dug and replanted before becoming dry, the results will be better the second year than the first. The wide open bright yellow buttercup flowers with a green ruff may open by Christmas Day once the plants are established.

Certain species crocuses will commence flowering in January.

Calgary's Civic Gov't To Be Probed

EDMONTON (CP) — An investigator will be appointed within the next day or two to inquire into Calgary's city government, Premier Manning, who also is attorney-general, said Tuesday.

Calgary city council passed a resolution calling on the attorney-general to establish machinery for an investigation into the running of city affairs. The move was an offshoot of a dramatic session September 18 which censured Mayor Don Mackay for borrowing city cement.

The resolution was passed under a section of the city act which provides that the city may request an inquiry and that the attorney-general may appoint a judge or some other person to make the inquiry.

Russia Warns Canada On U.S. Rocket Bases

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said today the installation of American rocket bases on Canadian territory would place Canada in a highly dangerous position, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Red Star said Canada intends to allow the United States to station nuclear weapons in Canada in connection with the "so-called command of North American Air Defence (NORAD)."

By agreeing to the NORAD setup, Red Star continued, the Canadian government "is about to take a step which will, as a result, increase her dependence on the Pentagon"—the U.S. military establishment.

"Official persons," the paper

continued, "try to represent NORAD as a purely defensive organization, although it is no secret for anybody that it has been set up with obviously aggressive aims directed against the Soviet Union."

It added: "Facts show that there are in Canada political and military figures who are led by Washington and who provide active help to the U.S.A. in the matter of the aggressive North Atlantic bloc."

"The present foreign political course runs completely counter to the interests of the Canadian people, brings to naught Canada's national sovereignty and jeopardizes her security."

Saanich Guilty Says Subdivider

Municipality Rejected Offers of Land For Playlots in Other House Projects

A subdivider struck back today at an accusation by Saanich Councillor Stanley Murphy that failure of land developers to provide tot lots amounts to "almost criminal" negligence.

Coun. Murphy made the statement Tuesday night at a parks committee meeting that heard a petition from Glanford Community Association requesting a playground in the Glanford area.

"If there is any means by which a subdivider can be forced to provide tot lots, it should be done," said Coun. Murphy.

He added that an association request for park development of four acres in the area would increase the value of nearby lots.

The acreage, priced at $6,000, is held by Douglas Hawkes who developed the Willowdene subdivision in the Glanford area.

"I agree with Coun. Murphy."

FULTON PLAN

Bonner Backs Press Curb At Hearings

A proposal to curtail news reporting of preliminary hearings in Canadian courts won initial support Tuesday from Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton is said to be considering a ban against publication of admissions, statements or confessions of an accused at a preliminary hearing.

Mr. Bonner pointed out such material is often non-admissible in a higher court. A juror, with prior information gathered from the press, could be prejudiced.

"The question should be carefully and cautiously considered," he felt such restriction would not curtail liberty of speech or reporting, but would lead to more objective treatment of cases reaching higher courts.

Mr. Hawkes replied today. "But he's hitting the wrong guy." "Saanich was guilty of the 'crime of failing to provide tot lots," he said. "I offered lots to Saanich for development as tot lots in the other subdivisions but the municipality turned them down."

"I was so aroused by that action that I converted the money from the sale of those two lots to provide back yard play equipment for most of the lots I sold in Glanford gardens."

He said Coun. Murphy suggested that park development of the four acres would "give me some gain" by increasing the value of the lots.

ALL SOLD

"Actually, I've sold all my lots in that subdivision so I couldn't possibly gain anything if a park was established."

Mr. Hawkes said the accusations placed him in a difficult position in regard to the four acres.

"I have to decide whether I'm going to sacrifice my own face or the needs of those people," he said.

"I've already held that property open for six months in case it was needed for a park. I could have sold it for $9,000 as lots."

"Now I have to decide whether to keep holding it to sell for $6,000 as a park area, in which case people would still accuse me of being a dirty dog, or sell it for $9,000 as lots to prove to them I had been willing to give up $3,000 for the good of the community."

"If I do the second, there will be no park."

Edward Cunningham, president of the Glanford Association, told the committee there will be 600 teenagers in the area in a few years with no place to play.

Municipal engineer Neville Life was instructed by the committee to investigate the situation and report back.

NEW ASSISTANT chief forester for B.C. government forestry branch is Lorne F. Swannell, at present district forester at Kamloops. He takes over in mid-November. Post was vacated by R. G. McKee who is now deputy minister. Mr. Swannell, 50, has been with the forest service since 1925.

PM Urges Drive To Get More World Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called upon all Canadians to work toward the expansion of world trade.

In a nationally-televised speech Monday night he said the opportunity now exists to re-establish Canadian export trade on a sound and profitable basis.

But the big decisions as to whether this would be done would be made "partly by labor and partly by management, because labor constitutes the largest single group of Canadians and management under the enterprise system has a position of special responsibility for the proper functioning of that system."

Every Canadian must first consider the welfare of all Canadians. The government would continue to give leadership in its areas of responsibility for development of the country's resources and trade.

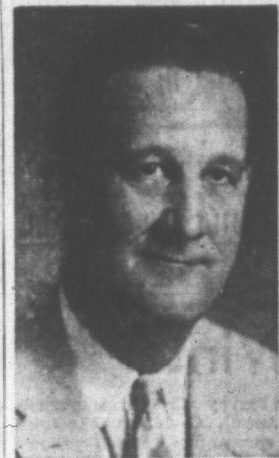

"To a very great extent, labor and management can accomplish it together, but they can never do it apart. It will take patience, forbearance and even perhaps some sacrifices on both sides."

JOHN E. COLES

Take your family out to dinner in October, suggests John E. Coles, President of the Canadian Restaurant Association. Restaurateurs in Victoria agree wholeheartedly with the president's suggestion. They have joined with restaurants throughout Canada in focusing attention on National Restaurant Month during October.

Victorians are fortunate in having such a diversified field of restaurants from which to choose... traditional tea and crumpets, the finest roasts, Oriental delicacies, European favorites and good plain Canadian food can be found in the Greater Victoria restaurants, and Victorians are assured always of quality foods served under the most sanitary conditions, as the Canadian Restaurant Association members are fully aware of the high standard of ethics and qualifications required for membership.

In October, or any month, it is a good habit to dine out regularly in Greater Victoria restaurants. This is the confirmed consensus of opinion of restaurateurs and hundreds of Victorians who already have the habit.

Across the length and breadth of Canada, another bountiful harvest has been reaped, and Autumn in all its beauty has descended on the countryside. Truly it is a time of Thanksgiving. And what could be more typical of Thanksgiving than roast turkey and cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie and crisp juicy apples.

From coast to coast your local IGA Store brings you all of these mouth-watering foods, and many, many more, all at low money-saving prices.

Edgelow Fires Back In Fight Over Signs

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Tuesday blasted back at Public Works Minister W. N. Chant's suggestion that the public would be misinformed by refusal to permit the Capital Improvement District Commission to erect permanent signs on its projects in the city.

Ald. Edgelow opposed the request for signs at a public works committee last week. Mr. Chant said Monday that CIDC should be given credit for its work so that the public would not be misinformed.

MISLEADING

"If the signs were allowed, precisely the reverse would happen," Ald. Edgelow said today. "The signs would be misleading."

He said the public would not know where the CIDC projects began or ended and would credit the whole of a project, including the city's contribution, to the commission if the signs were put up.

Previously, he had given the example of the CIDC road built through the north end of Beacon Hill Park.

"If a CIDC sign were put up there, some people might get the idea that the whole of the park was a CIDC project," he had said.

A CROWE CAN GET HURT IF HE'S TALKING TURKEY

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—A fellow named Crowe who made like a turkey was shot by a hunting companion.

Donald R. Crowe, 22, was in fair condition in hospital Tuesday.

State Police said Crowe was hiding in brush imitating a turkey so as to attract gobbles for Ivan L. Abe, 26, of Cumberland. Police said Abe fired at what he thought was a turkey. Turned out to be Crowe.

'Little General' Confident Pilot

EDMONTON (CP)—Tony Leswick has a youth movement going in the camp of Edmonton Flyers for the 1958-59 Western Hockey League season and as the schedule opening approaches, the little general figures he's better off than a year ago.

"I think we've got a better club than last year," Leswick said as he surveyed a lineup that includes five players over 25 years of age and only one more over 23.

Last year, in a 70-game season that saw Leswick leave Flyers midway and spend the last half of the year with the parent Detroit Red Wings of the National League, Leswick and manager Bud Poile took Flyers into a second-place finish, then saw the club bow to Calgary in the Prairie Division semi-final.

Leswick has seven rookies on hand—defenceman Dave Amadio, 19, and forwards Brian Smith, 20, and Murray Oliver, 20, from Hamilton Juniors; defenceman Lou Maroon, 21, and forward Warren Hynes, 23, from Cincinnati of the International League; forward Myron Stankiewicz, 22, from Indianapolis, and forward Ed Diachuk, 22, from Penitton V's.

LOOKS BETTER

"I think we've got a better crop of kids than last year," Leswick said, "but you can't really tell until the league play gets going."

Flyers have eight men back from last year, including coach Leswick.

They included 22-year-old goalie Dennis Rignin and veteran defenceman Hugh Coffin, 29, and Bud McPherson, 31, along with 30-year-old Metro Prystai, who missed part of last season with a broken leg. Prystai's leg is still a question.

Other Flyer returnees are forwards Gerry Melnyk and Chuck Holmes, both veterans at 23, and defenceman Frank Roggeveen, another 22-year-old.

The outstanding new additions are centre Gene Achymichuk and winger Ray Kinasevich, 26 and 24 respectively. Achymichuk comes to Flyers through the Red Wings, who obtained him from Montreal Canadiens during the off-season. Kinasevich has been on loan for two seasons to Seattle and has been a 40-goal scorer both times out.

Among the rookie crop, Leswick looks to Oliver to produce the most. He was voted most valuable player in the Ontario Junior Loop last year.

Jack Sets Pace In Amateur Event

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Reld Jack of Scotland fired an even par 72 today to take the first-round lead in the inaugural world amateur golf championship.

Doug Bajus of Vancouver was the first of the four Canadians to finish. He posted a 79.

Jack, British amateur champion in 1957, seized a two-stroke edge over Charlie Coe, U.S. amateur champion, and Bob Charles of New Zealand. They were tied at 74.

The 114 players from 29 countries started in muggy weather. But a strong 30 to 35-mile-an-hour wind whipped in from the sea to hamper play.

Jack shot steady golf in turning in a 36-36—72 card over the Old Course at St. Andrews.

Joe Carr, current British Amateur champion and favorite for the individual low score, had a 41-38—79. He lost his ball on the fifth and took a seven. He three-putted twice on the return-nine.

The amateurs are competing for the Eisenhower Trophy, to be given to the country with most obscured by flying bottles and fists.

The magistrates' plan, approved in private Tuesday, is to be sent to the Scottish Football Association, the Scottish League and the two teams.

The plan advises limiting the crowd to 30,000, admission by ticket only; a special gate and section for boys only; increased police supervision; no flag or banner waving; no bottles allowed and a press appeal for good behavior.

Rangers' home in Ibrox has a capacity of more than 100,000 with a record attendance of 118,567. Celtic Park, home of Glasgow Celtic, has a capacity of 92,000.

Saturday's draw in the Civil Service Curling League:

8 a.m.—Gerrie vs. Clancy; Paumotu vs. D. McLeod; Douglas vs. H. Davis; Ding vs. Mac; Campbell vs. Burns; Dickens vs. Dyball; Fraser vs. Gilbert; MacDonald vs. Pick.

10 a.m.—Kidd vs. King; McCulloch vs. Penman; Shipton vs. Stuart; Westaway vs. Lavie; Smith vs. Miller; Wicks vs. MacDonald; Austin vs. Sharpe; Lejeune vs. Giev.

12 noon—Martin vs. Edgell; Simons vs. Ashby; R. Davis vs. Grey; Terison vs. Bremner; Fisher vs. Penhough; Fox vs. Moore; A. MacLeod vs. Allison; Hughes vs. Woodward.

Eskimos Peeved At Fans' Actions

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos president Cec Ross said Tuesday the football club "deplores" incidents involving a small group of fans who displayed some unsportsmanlike activities following last Saturday's Western Football Conference game here.

Game officials were mobbed by a group of 15 to 20 persons following Eskimos' 21-15 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers when a penalty to Esks wiped out a last-minute touchdown.

Officials involved said Tuesday they have sent a full report on the matter to commissioner Sydney Halter in Winnipeg, and if any action is to be taken it will be up to the commissioner.

Don McCannell and Sid Bercov of Edmonton, Paul Dojack of Regina, George Cullen of Vancouver and Les Ferguson of Calgary were the officials involved.

They were struck and kicked by fans as they left the stadium and an estimated $75 damage was caused to McCannell's car by the fans who kicked in a front door while the five men sat in the car.

No complaint has been laid with city police.

Hill Climbing In Western Scoring Race

Halfback Jack Hill of Saskatchewan Roughriders continues to pull slowly away from the field in the individual scoring race in the Western Football Conference.

A nine-point performance during the weekend put Hill 16 points ahead of runner-up Charlie Shepard of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who managed only one touchdown in two games.

Hill now leads the pack with 78 points on nine touchdowns and 24 converts.

Place-kicking end Joe Mohra of Edmonton Eskimos moved back into third place as he hit for a touchdown, two converts and a single in Esks' lone weekend encounter.

MONTE ROBERTS

The kindly constituents have evinced so much interest in the case of Judy Boots Streak and the loaves of bread, I guess I should make a progress report.

Or possibly I should call it a non-progress report. So far, I have received several phone calls about Judy and the loaves of bread.

But most of them have been to enquire if the mystery was solved.

There was a call last night which raised my hopes. The caller reported her grandson had lost two loaves of bread from the carrier of his bicycle on Saturday, while he was playing ball at Windsor Park.

One was a cheese loaf, she said, one was white. Unfortunately, Judy Boots hasn't brought home a cheese loaf—not yet, at any rate—and didn't bring home bread of any kind on Saturday.

So I am no closer to finding from whence came the loaves of bread.

However, I am considerably cheered by a letter from Mrs. Margaret Nichol of Rockland Avenue.

Mrs. Nichol once had a problem worse than mine, and it is always cheering to hear about other people's problems. A doggie named Jason lived at Mrs. Nichol's house, and he was a very bright doggie, easy to train.

One of the first things he was trained to do was bring in the newspaper from the front porch.

When he brought in the newspaper, Mrs. Nichol would reward him with a tid-bit from the refrigerator.

Being a very, VERY bright doggie, it didn't take Jason long to figure out that if ONE newspaper was good for something nice to eat, TWO newspapers would be even better.

With the natural result that all the newspapers in the neighborhood began arriving at the Nichol household.

So I guess I shouldn't complain about the occasional loaf of bread.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Former eminent historians of B.C. will be subject of a talk by Dr. Walter N. Sage in the Douglas Cafeteria, Parliament Buildings, tonight at 8.15. Dr. Sage is representative on the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. He will address Victoria Section, B.C. Historical Association.

"Forestry in B.C." will be the subject of an address by Carl J. Highstead, forester with the Survey and Inventory Division, B.C. Forest Service, to the monthly meeting of the Victoria Branch of the B.C. Dental Nurses' Association to be held next Tuesday at 6.30 p.m. at the Strathcona Hotel.

Sailor Joseph Aubichon, HMCS Jonquiere, was fined $50 in city police court today for breaking the glass window of a shoe-repair store and stealing shoe polish and laces.

"Why you did this stupid thing I do not know," said Magistrate Henry Hall in passing sentence.

Winning combinations among 54 players in Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's master point event Tuesday were: North—Molly Collins and Charles Cleworth; Ethel Cleworth and William Simpson; Baikie Douglas Hawkes and George Morgan; Michael Perks and Tony Marsh; East—West—Harold Parry and Jack Goldie; Elizabeth Warren and Otto Leeson; Roland Perrin and George Marsden; Eric Goodwin and James Duprau tied with Mr. and Mrs. George Beale.

Finishing Touches For Dockers' Pact

Federal mediator Eric G. Taylor of Toronto has been called back into final contract talks in the dispute between B.C. longshoremen and shippers.

A union spokesman said Mr. Taylor arrived Tuesday to "help put the finishing touches" on the settlement which ended a 32-day dock strike Sept. 23. The settlement was reached under Mr. Taylor's night-and-day mediation and he promised then he would return if requested.

Saanich police have asked the aid of the public in locating a hit-and-run driver.

Deputy chief Jack Hamilton said an 11-year-old girl, Shirley Teine, 3323 Douglas, was struck by a 1949 or 1950 Dodge sedan going south at Douglas and Cloverdale, 6.20 p.m. Saturday, as she was crossing the road.

Anyone who may have seen the incident is asked to call Saanich police at GR 9-1616.

No regular mail deliveries, except for special delivery letters, will be carried out during the Thanksgiving Day holiday Monday. Lobby of the post office building will be open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. with the wicket service in operation from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, except for money order and savings bank wickets which will remain closed. Street letter box collections will be made in the evening only.

Preliminary hearing of a murder charge against tugboatman Leo Anthony Mantha was scheduled to resume at 3 p.m. today in Esquimalt police court. Press and public are barred from the court.

Mantha is charged with the stabbing death of AB Aaron H. Jenkins, 23, in the Nelles Block barracks at HMCS Naden Sept. 6.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court: Norman LePoredevin, Saanich, $35 and licence suspended for careless driving.

Leslie Miles, 1441 Westall, $35 for careless driving.

Barbara Schick, 3117 Tillamook, $25 for speeding over 30.

Mabel Mae Foot, 2560 Vista Bay Drive, $35 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. (To be appealed).

Sohan Singh, 3301 Douglas, $15 for not having an illumination light.

Sadhu Singh, 2723 Turner, $25 for not having a valid driver's licence.

Grant King, 1666 McRae, $25 for having no driving licence.

Robert Armstrong, 1360 Lang, $15 for not having one headlight in operation.

Andrew Smith, 708 Princess, $10 for failing to set emergency brake.

MOUNTBATTEN HERE FOR TWO-DAY VISIT

76 Inches of RN Perfection Takes Hard Look at Honor Guard

By MONTE ROBERTS

The boss of Britain's navy arrived at the RCN Pacific Command headquarters at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, today, looking every inch 76 to be exact) the top officer in the Royal Navy.

Admiral of the Fleet, the Right Honorable Earl Mountbatten of Burma, First Sea Lord and Chief of the Naval Staff, RN, is tall, ruggedly handsome, heavy-set through neck and square shoulders, but slim of waist in his superbly tailored uniform.

His first official function after arriving at 7.30 a.m. by RCAF plane from Ottawa was to inspect the guard of honor and band of HMCS Naden.

TOOK TIME

It was no cursory "walk-through" of the ranks. The 58-year-old First Sea Lord, who has been a naval officer for 45 years, took his time as he looked closely at each man in the ranks, stopped to talk with a half-dozen men.

In the true tradition of the navy, Earl Mountbatten opened most conversations with the question: "How long have you been in the service?"

During the inspection, he was accompanied by Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific Coast, and Vice-Admiral H. G. deWolf, Canada's chief of naval staff.

Earl Mountbatten, by long odds the best known figure in the modern history of the Royal Navy, began his career in 1913 as a naval cadet. His steps upwards were: midshipman, 1916; sub-lieutenant, 1918; lieutenant, 1920; lieutenant-commander, 1920; commander, 1932; captain, 1937; acting-commodore first class, 1941-1942; rear-admiral, 1946; vice-admiral, 1949; admiral, 1953; admiral of the fleet, 1956.

Along the way, he collected

honors and decorations in nearly every theatre of war. At today's formal inspection ceremony—prior to which he was accorded a 21-gun salute to his rank—his left chest was burdened with the most impressive spread of medals ever seen here.

His British decorations include: Knight of the Garter, Knight Grand Commander of the Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Star of India, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Indian Empire, Knight Grand Cross of the Victorian Order, Distinguished Service Order, and Knight of St. John.

In 1940 and again in 1941 he was mentioned in dispatches.

PROUD OF THEM

He has also received decorations from allied powers, and is frankly proud of all of them.

The first sea lord, a close confidant of Sir Winston Churchill, is as outspoken as his friend, and his language is even saltier. He is devastating to his critics, and an avowed friend of the United States. He never tires of promoting Anglo-American unity.

Significantly, the bulk of his time on this visit to the North American continent will be spent in the United States. He leaves here Friday, for San Diego, will visit the USN base at Norfolk, Va., the city of New York, and wind up with extensive talks with defence officials in Washington, which he will leave Oct. 22.

Funeral Held Tuesday For Solarium Pioneer

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, a pioneer worker for the Queen Alexandra Solarium and formerly superintendent of the Women's Institutes of British Columbia, was buried at Hope, B.C., Tuesday.

She was prominent in public life for more than 35 years as a promoter and organizer of charitable undertakings, and on her retirement to Hope continued to support good causes.

When Dr. Cyril T. Wace brought the dream of a hospital for crippled children to Victoria, Mrs. MacLachlan was stirred to action. Through her influence the Women's Institutes backed the project and worked to see the Queen Alexandra Solarium established in 1927.

She became secretary of the Women's Institutes in 1919 and was appointed superintendent in 1926. She visited every rural community in B.C., helping women with their many problems.

Keenly interested in handicrafts, Mrs. MacLachlan took this work into hundreds of country homes. Just before the war she established a craft cottage at Hope. She also worked for and helped establish dental clinics in rural communities.

Under her guidance the Women's Institutes established a trust fund of $10,000 to be used to assist crippled children in B.C. The fund was named the Otho Scott Fund after a crippled girl on Hornby Island who gave Mrs. MacLachlan the idea of starting a solarium.

In 1919 she established the first V.O.N. nurse at Saanich and worked with a committee

1,600 Chickens Die As Midnight Blaze Hits Saanich Farm

Loss of about $5,000 was suffered by a Saanich chicken farmer early today when fire destroyed a chickenhouse and 1,600 chickens it contained.

"The whole chicken house went up," said poultry producer Stanley Shaw, 1240 Glyn Road.

Brooder equipment also was lost in the flames.

But 2,500 chickens in another house nearby were saved.

Mr. Shaw valued the birds alone at $3,200. They were partially insured.

The two-storey building filled with brooders and other equipment was valued at $2,000. It was covered by insurance.

The blaze broke out about midnight and burned until 3.37 a.m. when a member of the staff of the nearby Wilkinson Road mental home spotted the flames and called firemen.

"We are trying to figure out how it began," said Mr. Shaw. "I was asleep at the time and heard nothing. There was no heat in the chicken house, only electricity."

Tom McDonald, Veteran Printer, Succumbs at 54

Thomas McDonald, 54, native of Dundee, Scotland, and Victoria resident for 25 years, died in hospital here Tuesday after an illness of 18 months.

During the whole of his residence here he was a linotype operator for the Victoria Daily Times and Victoria Press Ltd. until he was forced to give up his work.

He was active in the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club in an executive capacity, and was secretary for a number of years. He also held executive positions in the Graphic Arts Credit Union and the International Typographical Union local here.

Surviving are the widow, Ada, at home, 2339 Musgrave; a daughter, Mrs. George Vickery, and a son, John Allan, in Victoria; a sister, Mrs. H. H. Currie, Nelson; and a brother, Ian, in Sunnyvale, Calif.

Private funeral services will be held Friday at Chaplin's chapel with Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, officiating, and will be followed by cremation.

Girl Guide Hall Dedication Set

Oak Bay Girl Guide Hall will be dedicated by Rev. A. Calder at a formal opening ceremony Friday at 8 p.m.

The $12,000 Girl Guide centre was built by the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club, assisted by Oak Bay firemen. The Guides raised $1,800 themselves to the building.

Keys to the new hall will be presented by Robert Ferguson, president of the service club, to Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris. The reeve, in turn, will present the keys to Mrs. Keah McDougall, former Gonzales division commissioner, who will hand them to a Brownie.

Thursday Meetings

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Ronald Bryan, Bishop of Barrackpore, India, speaks on "A Message from the Church."

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Managing editor of the Victoria Daily Times Leslie Fox speaks on "The Place of a Newspaper in Our Everyday Life."

Newfoundland Club: 8 p.m., Orange Hall, 725 Courtney St.

ONLY 44 DOUKHOBORS SIGN UP FOR RELOCATION IN RUSSIA

At latest count, only 44 emigration forms had been signed by British Columbia Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and five of these were not properly witnessed, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The federal-provincial offer to assist in re-locating members of the sect in Russia, was put forward after commitments of the Sons claimed 2,000 were ready to depart.

Following failure of the sect to complete its registrations and turn in forms giving up Canadian citizenship, before a Sept. 30 deadline, the two governments gave an extension of time until Oct. 21.

For any persons not then registered, where the delay is proven unavoidable, the governments will "entertain a further extension" but not to a date later than Nov. 15, the attorney-general said.

TRUCKERS READY TO POUNCE

'Don't Dare' Hike U.K. Rail Rates

By HAL MALONE

Attention Attorney-General Robert Bonner: there's a healthy Scottish "youngster" in Victoria who may have the solution you seek to combat the railways' application for increased freight rates.

His answer to the problem: let the railways boost their rates—"if they dare"—and the ever-competitive long-haul truckers may take most of the freight business.

That is what has happened in Scotland, even before the nationalized railways threatened to hike freight rates by 10 per cent, says Sir Ian Bolton.

An alert, grey-thatched gentleman in his 70s but with the zest of a Boy Scout, Sir Ian is an authority on railway operation. He represents Scotland on the British Transport Commission, the group which controls all UK railways and until recently most of the truck hauling companies.

MADE GOOD

For a boy who never went to university, Sir Ian has cut quite a swath in the business world. His portfolio is impressive:

Senior partner in a 200-member chartered accounting firm with offices in London, Glasgow and Liverpool;

Director of the Scottish Widows' Fund;

Director of the Scottish American Investment Co.;

Director of the Coltness Iron Co.

In addition he is the head of Scotland's 60,000 Boy Scouts. He has held that office for 12 years, plans to relinquish it next year.

Railways occupy 50 per cent of his time. The British Labor government selected him to represent Scotland when it nationalized railways and trucking under an eight-man British Transport Commission.

The Conservative government later removed some of the truckers from nationalization and allowed Sir Ian and his colleagues to impose a 10 per cent increase in freight rates on Scottish rail lines in an effort to secure funds to improve the system.

DON'T DARE

"Even when we were just talking about increasing freight rates, manufacturers hurried to trucking lines and we had to keep our rates as they were. Business is so keen between railways and truckers, we didn't dare charge more."

The same reaction followed a proposed boost in rail passenger fares.

"People just began using their own cars, buses or stayed home."

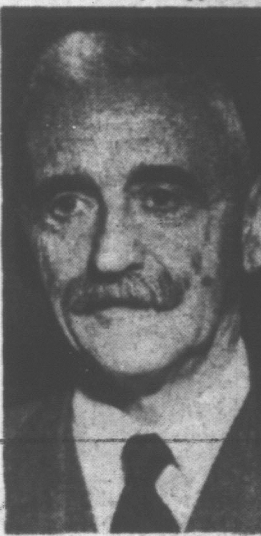

Diesels are relatively new to Scotland so the system has not yet encountered the Canadian problem of using only an engineer and not a fireman on runs.

"We plan to use a fireman on long passenger runs but only an engineer on diesel goods doing yard work."

Scotland, he says, is still a poor nation with Scotch whisky and chartered accountants being its main exports. The reason for the former is apparent to even novice tipplers but the latter...

MORE FUTURE

"They feel there is more of a future for them in Canada. And since Scotland is recognized as the senior home of accountants in the world they are well received wherever they go."

SIR IAN BOLTON

Sir Ian is mildly amazed at the prolonged management-labor cold war in B.C.

"Surely," he said, "when there is a recession, union demands must be tempered by management's ability to pay. In Scotland this is generally accepted. Almost all railway unions agreed to a 3 per cent pay increase with little negotiation."

"I expect the same situation will come about in our shipbuilding industry. The Clyde is full up for work today. But they don't have a single order in 1961 and very few inquiries."

Towboat Dispute To Conciliation

A federal conciliation officer has been requested in a contract dispute between B.C. Towboat Owners Association and the Seafarers International Union.

Call for a conciliator was made following a breakdown in union-management negotiations. The contract expired Sept. 30.

The union is seeking a 25 per cent wage boost for more than 1,000 unlicensed personnel on the boats.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Can you give me any information about the World Court? G.J.

A. The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It is composed of 15 judges, no two of whom may be nationals of the same country. It meets in The Hague. Function of the court is to formulate principles of international law covering crimes against the peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Q. I have been told a debt is outlawed after two years. Is this true? Is it just in B.C.? M.M.E.

A. All debts are outlawed in B.C. after six years non-payment under certain provisions of the statute of limitations. There is no two-year limit anywhere that is known.

SHOPPING GUIDE

No, Spring Isn't Here But Flower Bulbs Are!

By PENNY SAVER

Now's the time to plant for spring. Yes, all ye readers with the green thumb in our garden city... I am talking about bulb planting!

Shops in town are bursting at the seams with a wonderful variety of bulbs... so let's get want in our garden next spring!

Packages of mixed or separate bulbs are selling at 90 cents a dozen. What a splash of color you can expect from the rich tulips when these bulbs are well cared for... who knows, lucky gardener, you might take a prize at a flower show!

Imagine the thrill to wake up one morning come next spring, to see your garden budding with delicate hyacinths! With proper care, the plants will add a touch of beauty to your flower beds... in their white, blue and pink radiance. Hyacinth bulbs are priced at 30 cents each. Daffodils... sure sign that the winter is over and spring has come!

But not yet! To have those golden beauties blooming in profusion throughout your garden, you must be prepared to do a bit of work, planting the daffodil bulbs! I know where they can be found at 50 cents a dozen.

How would you like narcissus growing in your house for Christmas? The shop that is selling forced narcissus bulbs to be cultivated in a pot are now producing them with double petals... and they are beautiful! The price on the bulbs is $2 a dozen.

Phone me at EV 2-3131 if you would like to buy bulbs for your garden.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Modern research has brought us several suggestions which are most helpful in taking the pain out of calorie counting.

For instance, our appetite usually seems to be somewhat influenced by the level of our blood sugar. In other words, when the blood sugar level falls to what is called "the fasting level" we are apt to experience pangs of hunger and to feel weak.

Food raises the blood sugar level, and tests have demonstrated the fact that some foods hold the sugar level at a high point much longer than others. In more than one study it has been definitely established that a high-protein meal delays hunger pangs longer than one which is high in carbohydrate or fat. In one test the blood sugar level dropped two hours after the high-carbohydrate meal, while after the high-protein meal the blood sugar did not fall below fasting level until six hours afterwards.

So if you are on a reducing diet, eat slowly so that your blood sugar level has time to rise before you are tempted to take another helping. Also eat your protein first. At dinner, eat your meat or fish and then your vegetables and starches.

Studies have indicated that in women 16 grams of protein in a meal fails to maintain the blood sugar level above the fasting level for three hours after eating, while 22 grams protein maintains the blood sugar level well above the fasting level for three hours. This is one reason for the high-protein reducing diet.

Eat slowly and eat your proteins first if you must watch your weight. Of course you always have to count calories, too, for a loss in pounds. Most of you know what the protein foods are, but I will review them today. While other foods have protein content, the main ones—those which are classified as protein foods—are meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese and milk.

If you missed my nine-day reducing diet, which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY...

A Potent Remedy!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back a lady wrote to your column complaining about her husband's loud snoring. I used to snore so bad my husband said I sounded like a thrashing machine. A neighbor of mine told me about an old Italian remedy and I tried it and now my husband has to touch me at night to see if I'm still breathing. Chew a whole clove of garlic before going to bed. That's all. STOPPED SNORING.

DEAR STOPPED: I'm afraid if I tried that remedy I would have to touch my husband at night to see if he were still breathing!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 12 years and it's been no picnic for the past two years. We fought all the time so rather than let the children hear the language he used, at me, I moved his clothes down to the basement and he's been living down there. He has a hot plate and refuses to come upstairs for meals. The basement has an outside exit and I think he's been having company down there as I hear laughing and

On Etiquette

Telephone etiquette: When making phone calls, I never know how I should announce myself, whether to say Mrs. William Andrews or Florence Andrews. Will you please enlighten me?

Louise Davis

I would say that in about 90 per cent of your calls, you would say, "This is Florence Andrews speaking." That goes for friends and acquaintances, even though you may expect them to call you Mrs. Andrews. You should use discretion and judgment, depending on whom you are calling. If, for instance, you are phoning your tradesmen, such as the grocer, plumber, dry cleaner, you would say, "This is Mrs. William Andrews," for it is of no concern to them in such business dealings that your first name is Florence. You would also use Mrs. William Andrews to complete strangers who may ask who is calling.

You are Mrs. William Andrews or just Mrs. Andrews to children and teenagers who may not have yet learned the subtleties or name etiquette. In most cases, it would be permissible to use Florence Andrews when calling your son's or daughter's college-age friends, or even say, "This is Charles Andrew's mother speaking." On the other hand, if you wish to be strictly impersonal with these young people, it would be all right to say, "This is Mrs. William Andrews."

the radio going. He keeps changing the locks on me so I can't get down there. How can I make up with him so we can start living like human beings?

DEAR FERN: If he refuses to "rise" to the occasion—I suggest you do "underground." Peace at any price.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would put this in your column to let folks know that there are some pretty nice people in the world. Last week a new family moved into our building. Instead of waiting for everyone to call on them, they put up a bushel of apples into little bags and knocked on all the neighbours' door and gave us the apples. The lady of the house asked, "What time do you retire at night because we want to keep our TV low so you won't be disturbed?" Also, have you any invalids or babies who like to nap in the afternoons so we will keep extra quiet?" Now, that's what I call nice people! DELIGHTED.

DEAR DELIGHTED: (and you should be); Neighbors like you just drew would be welcome anywhere. How lucky can you get?

DEAR ABBY: Boy, I take my hat off to anyone who has a green thumb. I am one of those poor souls who is just the opposite and I wonder if maybe there isn't some mysterious reason for it? My little boys gave me a plant for Mother's Day and at first they watered it and it came along fine, but they got tired of the job, so after I watered it twice it died! My grandmother had a rose bush for years. She asked me to loosen the dirt around the roots. I warned her but she said I was silly. Sure enough, the day after I touched it, it died. Can

YANKEES DEADLOCK SERIES

Pope's Death Seen Tonight

ROME (Reuters)—Vatican Radio said tonight that the four physicians in attendance on the Pope "foresee the final collapse during the night." Earlier the doctors announced they had given up all hope of saving the Pope's life.

(From Times News Services)

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy—Stricken Pope Pius XII is in his "death throes," the Vatican Radio said tonight.

The 82-year-old Pontiff suffered his second stroke in 48 hours this morning. He also was disclosed to have suffered a heart attack tonight.

The doctors had given the Pope blood plasma and administered sedatives, said the Vatican radio. It called on the faithful for prayers "to recommend to God the soul of his servant at the end of his life."

All the Roman Catholic Cardinals currently in Rome were gathered in the ante-chamber of the Pope's bedroom tonight as the Pope lay dying in his white canopied bed at the papal summer palace here.

The Pope's last words before a deep coma set in were expressed to two aides: "Pray, pray that this regretful situation for the Church ends."

He apparently was fearful that his incapacity would leave the Church without a leader for a long period.

False Report by Rome Papers

After a false death report this morning sent newspapers with black headlines of mourning into the streets of Rome, the Vatican Radio established a running commentary on the Pope's condition in broadcasts from the Papal ante-chamber in Castel Gandolfo.

The mournful voice of a priest reported some improvement at midday. Hopes returned—for a time—that the amazing stamina of the Pontiff might see him through again.

But a few moments after 4 p.m. (7 a.m., PST), medical bulletin number six confirmed the worst. The Pope had suffered grave complications following the second stroke earlier this morning.

After reading the text of the medical bulletin, the Vatican Radio commentator, still reporting from a room adjoining the Papal bedroom, said:

"The doctors themselves are now visibly showing their discouragement."

"In the ante-chamber there prevails an atmosphere of resigned and calm anxiety."

"In the chapel adjoining the Holy Father's room, priests and members of the Pope's family are in prayer."

"From the door, which is ajar, we can hear, at times, the heavy breathing of the august patient."

Thousands of persons swarmed silently into the cobblestoned square before the summer palace. Swiss Guards stood stiffly at attention, holding their ancient halberds. Television equipment, strangely incongruous, was set up to record the scene.

An oppressive air settled over the town at sundown. There was the murmur of

Medics Want Driving Laws Overhauled

KELOWNA (CP)—The B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association wants the Motor Vehicle Act overhauled to cope with "problem drivers."

Dr. Gordon Grant, chairman of the special committee on traffic and safety, today submitted a paper to the annual meeting of the association recommending:

1. That the legal age limit for securing a private driver's licence be raised from 16 to 17.
2. That courses in safe driving be started in junior high school.
3. That provisions be made for medical examination of applicants for a new licence and of problem drivers. New applicants would undergo a medical examination at the discretion of the superintendent of motor vehicle licences. The superintendent would also be empowered to refer any offender for medical examination.

4. Periodic medical examination of persons known to suffer from physical disease and of persons over 70.
5. Appointment of a medical referee to the staff of the superintendent of motor licences.

In conclusion, Dr. Grant's paper recommended that medical standards be established for issuance of motor vehicle licences. At the present time no established standards have been developed in B.C. and those being used are those of New York State which are not well accepted by the medical profession.

The big question that will be decided by aldermen is whether Victoria will have six-day shopping the year round.

The present regulations, a compromise reached this year, allow six-day shopping during four months of the year. During the other eight months all retail stores, with a small number of exceptions, must close their doors at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

City council chamber is expected to be crowded with opposing business groups and independent merchants as councillors decide the future pattern of business in the city.

Orchard Owner Charged With Woman's Murder

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A 53-year-old orchard owner who first reported finding the nude body of an immigrant fruit-picker today was formally charged with her murder.

The surprise arrest Tuesday of Olin LeBrage, came more than two months after the body of Anita Budde, 28, was found in a blood-spattered cabin at nearby Kaleden, Aug. 4.

LeBrage, arrested in his orchard only a short distance from where Miss Budde's beaten body was found, appeared today before Magistrate H. J. Jennings and was remanded without bail until Oct. 14.

Wearing a sports shirt and corduroy trousers, LeBrage gave no sign of emotion.

Asked by the magistrate if he had anything to say, LeBrage said, "Not guilty, sir."

The magistrate then explained that it was not intended that a plea be made at this Budde's cabin and charged in absentia with the attempted murder of RCMP Cpl. Ralph LeBrage, who had not been mentioned as a suspect before Tuesday, testified at the inquest that he had warned away from Miss Budde's cabin a man who called himself John Morrison, telling him "you are wearing out your welcome."

McDougald Stars As Braves Beaten 4-3 in 10 Innings

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gil McDougald's home run over the left-field fence in the top of the 10th inning touched off a New York rally that gave the Yankees a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee Braves today in the sixth game of the World Series.

This pulled the Yankees even in games with the Braves at three-all, making Thursday's contest the decisive one. Earlier the Braves led in games 3-1.

Warren Spahn, the crafty 37-year-old left-hander of the Braves, lost his chance to win his third game of this series in the fateful tenth. After McDougald homered, Elston Howard and Yogi Berra singled, and Spahn was relieved by Don McMahon, who was greeted with a single by Moose Skowron, scoring Howard.

LOCKED AFTER NINTH

The clubs were locked 2-2 after nine innings. The Yankees scored in the first on Hank Bauer's home run and in the sixth on singles by Mickey Mantle and Howard, and Berra's sacrifice fly.

The Braves scored in the first on singles by Red Schoendienst, and Hank Aaron aided by Johnny Logan's sacrifice, and in the second on singles by Wes Covington, Andy Pafko and Warren Spahn.

Ryne Duren, who came to the mound for the Yankees in the sixth, was superb in relief, striking out eight.

But in the tenth Duren was reached for a walk by Johnny Logan and a single by Hank Aaron that produced a run. When Joe Adcock singled to send Aaron to third, Bob Turley took the mound.

Turley got pinch-hitter Frank Torre to pop to McDougald to end the game.

FORD KNOCKED OUT

Whitey Ford, the Yankee starter, was knocked out of the box in the second, giving way to Art Ditmar, who was lifted for pinch-hitter Jerry Lumpe in the sixth.

Lew Burdette is almost certain to start for the Braves in Thursday's big game, but the Yankee pitcher was in doubt. Turley would have been a strong possibility if he had not been used in relief today. This probably means Don Larsen will go instead.

Two important records were set. Bauer's homer in the first was his fourth of the series. No one has hit more than that in a seven-game series, and he has another chance Thursday. Berra's two hits raised his series total to 60, two above the previous record held by Frankie Frisch of St. Louis Cardinals.

Spahn was aiming at becoming only the second southpaw of modern times to win three games in one series. Harry Brecheen of the Cardinals did the trick in 1946.

Three Escape As Fishboat Burns, Sinks

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—The 50-foot Seattle seiner A.R.B. 7 went down in flames early today but the three men aboard escaped without injury.

The boat went down near the site of Ripple Rock, the recently demolished hazard to navigation in Seymour Narrows.

John Humphries of Campbell River Salvage Company said Captain Joe Hansen, his son and another crew member are on the way home to Seattle by bus.

Humphries said he will attempt to salvage the seiner this afternoon.

He said the vessel was returning from Alaska, where its cargo of fish had been sold, when the fire broke out. The men escaped in a skiff.

Shops Closing Verdict Thursday

'Monty' Speaks His Mind In Exclusive Times Series

In Weekend Magazine this Saturday The Times will present one of the most intriguing series that has appeared for several years.

The series covers the memoirs of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, World War Two's most famous soldier who recently retired as deputy supreme allied commander in Europe.

Now it is at last possible for him to speak his mind about the conduct of the war, his differences and showdowns with the U.S. generals, the military mind of Eisenhower, the war in Italy, the folly of Dieppe. The Times' Weekend Magazine has secured exclusive serialization rights for Canada, before book publication of his memoirs.

The first of four installments begins with Montgomery's appointment, in August 1942, to take over command of the Eighth Army, which had been driven back to the western border of Egypt by Axis forces led by General Erwin Rommel.

"This was much more to my liking and I felt I could handle that business, and Rommel," writes Montgomery.

How he contained Rommel until he was ready to launch the Battle of Alamein and how he planned and fought that battle which led to the doom of the German and Italian armies in Africa, is vividly described.

One of the factors contributing to his most resounding victory of the war, was his gigantic deception plan which concealed from the enemy, as long as possible, his intention to take the offensive and, when this could no longer be concealed, misled Rommel about both the date and the sector in which the main thrust was made.

World Series Play by Play

MILWAUKEE — A play-by-play description of the sixth game of the world series follows:

FIRST INNING

New York: The lights were turned on at the start of the game.

Carey swung at Spahn's first pitch and lifted a fly to Pafko in left center.

McDougald sent a soft liner to Mathews, hitting a 3-2 pitch.

Bauer hit a home run deep into the left field bleachers, about 360 feet away. It was Bauer's fourth homer of this series and seventh in total series competition.

Bauer's four home runs in a series tied a record held jointly by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider.

Schoendienst fumbled Mantle's grounder for an error.

Howard forced Mantle, Logan to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Schoendienst singled past Kubek into left field.

Logan laid down a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate and was tossed out, Berra to McDougald, covering first.

Art Ditmar, a righthander, started warming up for the Yankees.

Mathews was called out on strikes. It was his 10th strike-out of the series, tying a record held by Bill Abstein of Pittsburgh in 1909 and George Kelly of the Giants in 1921.

Aaron singled sharply to left, scoring Schoendienst and tying the score at 1-1.

It was Aaron's first run batted in of the series.

Adcock forced Aaron, Kubek to McDougald.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

New York: Spahn tossed out Berra. Skowron was safe on Logan's error of his grounder near second base. Kubek struck out, swinging at a low breaking pitch that almost hit the dirt.

Ford forced Skowron at second, Lgan to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Crandall struck out. Covington singled on a liner to centre that umpire John Flaherty ruled was trapped by Mantle. Casey Stengel emerged from the dugout to argue that Mantle had caught the ball but was overruled.

Pafko dropped a single in short right, Covington racing to third. Spahn lined a single to centre, scoring Covington, Pafko stopping at second.

Schoendienst walked, on five pitches, filling the bases. Art Ditmar, a righthander, replaced Ford.

Logan flied to Howard in short left and Howard's throw to Berra at the plate doubled up Pafko, trying to score after the catch.

One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

THIRD INNING

New York: Carey flied to Pafko in right centre. McDougald grounded out, Logan to Adcock. Bauer was safe when Logan fumbled his grounder. It was the shortstop's second error. Mantle forced Bauer, Mathews to Schoendienst.

Milwaukee: Mathews grounded out, Skowron to Ditmar, covering first. Aaron beat out a bunt to the left of the mound and reached second when Ditmar's throw hit Aaron on the shoulder and rolled to the boxes behind first base. Aaron collided with Skowron and was sent sprawling but he scrambled to his feet and took the extra base on the error. McDougald bobbled Adcock's sharp grounder but recovered in time to throw him out as Aaron advanced to third. Crandall went down swinging.

FOURTH INNING

New York: Howard flied to Pafko. Berra singled to right. It was his 59th hit, breaking a record, he held with Frankie Frisch. Skowron flied to Aaron. Spahn tossed out Kubek.

Milwaukee: McDougald threw out Covington. Pafko popped to McDougald behind second base. Spahn struck out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

New York: Schoendienst tossed out Ditmar. Carey flied to Aaron. McDougald lined a single over Mathews' head. Bauer fouled to Crandall to the right of home plate.

Milwaukee: Schoendienst rapped a double to the left field corner. Logan dropped a sacrifice bunt to the right of the mound and was out, Skowron to McDougald covering first. Schoendienst reached third. Mathews popped to Skowron. Schoendienst holding third. Carey made a nice pickup of Aaron's rounder to his left and threw him out.

SIXTH INNING

New York: Billy Bruton went to centrefield for Braves. Mantle lined a single over Logan's glove. Howard lined a single to centre and Mantle continued to third when Bruton fumbled the ball for an error. It was Howard's first hit in 13 official times at bat. Berra flied to Bruton. Mantle scoring the tying run on the sacrifice as Howard held first. Skowron walked on a full count. Enos Slaughter went in to bat for Kubek and bounced out. Schoendienst to Adcock, the runners advancing. Jerry Lumpe went in for Ditmar and struck out.

One run, two hits, one error, two left. The run is earned.

Milwaukee: Attendance was 46,367.

Duren went in to pitch for the Yankees, and Lumpe took over at shortstop. Adcock and Crandall were called out on strikes. Covington bounced single through the right side of the diamond. Bruton went down swinging. The Braves batters appeared to be having trouble seeing the ball as Duren took advantage of darkening clouds by firing mostly fast balls.

SEVENTH INNING

Spahn fell fielding Bauer's trickler to the right of the mound and Bauer was credited with an infield single.

Mathews stopped Mantle's hard grounder and threw to Schoendienst, forcing Bauer at second.

Milwaukee: Spahn struck out for Duren's fourth strikeout. Schoendienst lined to Howard. Logan also lined to Howard.

No runs, not hits, no errors, none left.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

TENTH INNING

New York: McDougald walked. Spahn's second pitch over the leftfield fence for a home run to put Yankees in front 3-2.

Bauer flied deep to Bruton. Mathews threw-out Mantle.

Fred Haney came out of the Braves dugout and signaled to the bull pen for a new pitcher. The crowd gave Spahn a thunderous ovation as he left the mound. Don McMahon replaced Spahn.

Skowron singled, scoring Howard, Berra stopping at second. Duren struck out.

Two runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

Milwaukee: Bob Turley joined Shantz in the Yankee bull pen.

McDougald fumbled Schoendienst's grounder but recovered in time to throw him out.

Logan walked on a full count and Duren charged in from the mound to protest the call to plate umpire Charlie Berry.

Logan went to second unmolested as Duren wound up pitching to Aaron.

Aaron singled to left on a 2-2 pitch, scoring Logan and cutting the Yankee lead to 4-3.

Stengel came out to confer with Duren and decided to stay with his pitcher.

Adcock fouled off Duren's pitch then singled through the middle of the diamond, sending Aaron to third.

Stengel came out again and this time signalled for Bob Turley.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.
